discussion often refines, refutes, or improves the original opening post.

AboveTopSecret.com is the Internet's largest and most popular discussion board community dedicated to the intelligent exchange of ideas and debate on a wide range of "alternative topics" such as conspiracies, UFO's, paranormal, secret societies, political scandals, new world order, terrorism, and dozens of related topics with an impressive demographic mix of members.

With more than 140,000 members generating over 5 million posts of substance that cover more than 400,000 topics in 157 different discussion forums, you could say "the truth is in here."

The Motto: "Deny Ignorance"

More than a slogan and deeper than a mission statement, our members have embraced the motto of "Deny Ignorance" as our reason for being, demanding everyone who posts to aspire to a higher standard of participation. These simple two words have galvanized a broad membership base that spans the spectrum from highly speculative conspiracy writers to staunch skeptics. The result is a unique collaboration of diverse individuals rallying under this simple statement to learn from each other, discover new truths, and imagine new ideas that expand minds.

This motto has life. It has purpose. It demands ATS members to think.

It is a state of mind.

It is a sense of purpose.

It is a statement against the paradigm.

It is a rage against the mindless status-quo.

The idea of "deny ignorance" isn't a goal that ATS hopes to accomplish.
Instead, it's a challenge. A call to all those who come here to aspire to a higher state of awareness through informed discussion and debate.

Deny ignorance is what we do.

It's how we think. It's how we talk. It's how we listen.

Ignorance is the social disease of history that has clouded our minds and dulled our brains.

Is the evil that men do, the reason history repeats, and the cause of intolerance.

We deny it. it's not welcome here. Within these boundaries, it has no strength.

Here, ignorance is denied.

Untersberg - The Mystery Mountain

Created by: Skyfloating on August 24, flags: 439, replies: 730

I am doing this write-up because there is hardly any info on it available in English, but please bear with me as it will take some time and several posts to collect all the significant data (discussion welcome before Im done though).

In August 1987 three people entered a Mountain in Southern Germany to explore several caves. They did not return and neither the police nor mountaineers found any trace of them – except for their car parked at a parking place nearby. 3 months later they called their relatives from a ship in the red sea that was heading for Alexandria, Egypt. They claimed to have no knowledge how they had gotten there, that 3 months had passed or what had happened inside that mountain. In Alexandria they went to the Consulate and returned home. (More on this story page 12 of this thread).

Welcome to a tale of Time Portals, Elves, Fairies, Gnomes, Extraterrestrials, Subterranean Civilizations, The Holy Grail and Paranormal Phenomena surrounding a Mountain bordering Germany and Austria called "Untersberg".

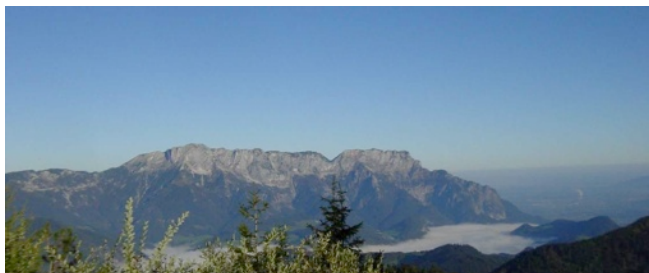

Ive personally visited this mountain twice on research expeditions and will relay my own experiences in later posts.

1. Hitlers Obsession

Disclaimer: This section does not constitute an endorsement of Hitler but examines an obsession he had

On a 1992 visit to Austria, the Dalai Lama specifically asked to see the Mountain, calling it “a sleeping Dragon” and “The Heartchakra of the World” (chakra refers to an energy center in eastern terminology).

But this was not the first world-famous person to know of the mountain. Hitler was obsessed with it, hoping to gain access to supernatural beings and power to turn a war that he was loosing.

Hitler built a House on top of a mountain on the border to Austria (called "Berghof") from which he could view the Untersberg (direct translation: Under-Mountain) all day. He believed the mountain and that which was inside the mountain to harbour mystical powers that would help him beat his enemies. Hitlers view from his living room:

So that he could pursue his obsession more intensely, he acquired telescopes, not made for the purpose of star-gazing but especially equipped for earth-gazing. This is Hitler beside one of the telescopes pointing at the Untersberg:

One reason he became intrigued by the mountain is because of reoccurring events, legends and tales of people gone missing, people experiencing missing time, encounters with elves and extraterrestrials and passageways to what Hitler called “the inner earth”.

A recent expedition (August 2008) into the gigantic cave-system under the mountain revealed that it goes down so far, that its lowest point had not been reached yet. The cave explorers had to return from their expedition without knowing how far down it goes. According to a german newspaper report they had gone down 1056 meters before being forced to return at an abyss-like precipce. This had been accomplished by being able to pass an extremely narrow passageway that had been previously unpassable. They also discovered more than 800 new passageways and, believe it or not, a lake in 930 meters depth. They crossed it with a rubber boat. One view from the inside:

2. Missing People

Similar to the Bermuda Triangle, hundreds of people have gone missing in the area, either
 a) Never to be seen again or
 b) Show up years later or in another place on earth, apparently having made a jump in time, space or both. Missing People have been so frequent that German and Austrian newspapers regularly carry stories on the Mystery. This one shows a police helicopter in search of a couple that recently (2008) went missing (and also addressing the time-leap theory):

Ancient Legends report of "little people" coming out of the mountain and "little people" flying aircraft from the mountain up into the sky. There are also many hundreds of ancient legends surrounding this mountain that involve the phenomenon of "missing time", as known in modern UFO-Abduction Reports. To be continued...

Uncensored NASA Moon Images!!

Created by: mikesingh on August 19, flags: 204, replies: 1020

Here are the uncensored Moon Images taken by the Lunar Orbiter! According to Space Imaging expert Keith Laney, in a response to the images I posted on his web site, he says:

"Those particular LO images are from Prof. Robinson's collection, he's had them online for years and years. They are uncensored. I have found scores of anomalies on them, pretty devastating too. But try and sell it to anyone other than us!"

Well, it has taken hours of poring over them to identify some very interesting anomalies. Considering the interest it may generate, I wonder if it would be yanked off the net soon. But before that happens, I hope some of you anomaly hunters post the best anomalies found in these images here on ATS.

All these images, as mentioned by Keith, are from Prof Robinson's collection and posted on the Arizona State University's Space Exploration Resources website.

How were these images obtained?

According to Arizona State University, the Lunar Orbiter images were all digitally scanned at 400 dpi at the Lunar and Planetary Institute in Houston. Whole images were too large to be scanned at once and were broken up into four sections.

From the data and resources about each lunar orbiter image found in Anderson and Miller (1971), they obtained information about the side length, altitude and emission angle of the images they scanned. To calculate the resolution of each image they followed several steps. They first calculated the resolution of images with an emission angle of less than 10° by dividing the side length of each image by the number of pixels, and then calculated the distance to the surface by dividing the altitude by the cosine of the emission angle. The resolution of low-emission angle images was plotted against their distance to the surface. From this was obtained the best-fit equation:

Corrected Resolution = $-0.0023272 + 0.014376 * \text{Distance to Surface}$ and applied it to the remaining images to get the corrected resolution.

And now for some of the interesting anomalies in the uncensored images:

center and the right

Pyramid? The top is near the center of the image

(visit the thread to view linked images)

A tower and other geometric structures

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Note the strange parallel structures and objects within the 'D'.

Spikedmilk had mentioned that the tracks seen in the two images above, were probably made by the Russian Lunakhod. But the Rover was about 160 cm (4 ft 11 in) in width. These 'tracks' seem to be much wider considering the distance the pic was taken from. There are more but these will have to do for now! Keep posting more anomalies from this site folks. Time may be limited!!

Cheers! :D

The North Side Flyover - Officially Documented, Independently Confirmed

By: Craig Ranke

Citizen Investigation Team

August 4th, 2008

www.ThePentaCon.com

Video presentation to accompany this article available here.

On September 11th, 2001, while thousands of eyewitnesses in Manhattan and millions of television viewers worldwide were attentively watching the north tower of the World Trade Center burn, one of the most incredible events in history occurred right in front of their eyes: a second low-flying plane appeared, slamming into the south tower and forcing the world to face the horrible reality that the burning north tower was not the result of an accident. The amazing and terrifying footage of this event was replayed so frequently that it is difficult to find a person in the United States, or the world for that matter, who has not viewed it.

In clear contrast, all video footage of the Pentagon attack was quickly confiscated and sequestered by the authorities. To suggest there has not been full disclosure of the evidence surrounding the Pentagon attack is an understatement to be sure as the secrecy and cover-up is pervasive to the point of being arguably criminal. This is particularly the case when one considers the nature of the crime, world wide implications, and clear pretext that it has become regarding the permanent global war on terror.

In light of these circumstances, and countless other dubious details surrounding this attack, the question of what exactly happened at the Pentagon has become one of the most hotly contested mysteries of 9/11.

This lack of disclosure and rampant secrecy has left researchers and citizen investigators with precious few resources from which to obtain evidence as a means to verify or refute the official explanation of what happened in Arlington that day. Because of this fact, eyewitness testimony leaps to the forefront as the primary, and virtually only, means to obtain independent verifiable evidence.

Those who are familiar with Citizen Investigation Team (CIT) know that we have made it our mission to shed light on this event by locating and interviewing eyewitnesses. We refused to take the media reports at face value so we made a point to contact dozens of the previously published witnesses, whose statements had been used to help sell the official story, in order to confirm their accounts first hand. We would confirm their location and physically go there to analyze their actual point of view in relation to the topography and landscape. Naturally if they agreed we would interview them on camera on location when possible or over the phone if necessary.

More importantly we canvassed the neighborhoods to seek out previously unknown witnesses who had not been talked to by the government or used as a part of the media campaign to support the official line. We consider this particular witness set the most important and the only way to obtain purely independent evidence so CIT has dedicated numerous hours to knocking on doors.

Our primary goal has been to establish the true flight path of the Pentagon attack jet as reported by the eyewitnesses. We can then compare this flight path with the relevant "official" data provided by the government, most notably the data released by the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) in 2006, which is allegedly from the flight data recorder (blackbox) of Flight 77, and the alleged radar data provided by the 84th Radar Evaluation Squadron (84 RADES). Both sets of government controlled and provided data hold the officials to their word regarding a definitive flight path of the plane. Since of course this official data essentially (linearly) lines up with the physical damage starting with the downed light poles there is zero room for error in what they report.

Although we understand the general fallibility of eyewitness accounts, when scrutinized in detail and independently corroborated on a mass level, clear patterns emerge in contrast to all official data, reports, and physical damage. It is now apparent that the true flight path as reported by the eyewitnesses reveals numerous fatal contradictions that prove a complex well-orchestrated military deception.

For the official narrative regarding the events of 9/11 to be entertained as false, one must consider the fact that we are talking about a psychological deception like no other. Naturally the hysteria of the extreme tragedy of that day had the population in a very vulnerable position on a psychological level.

While reviewing the evidence we are about to present in this article, it's important to understand how the genuine witnesses were of course just as susceptible to psychological manipulation as the rest of the world and this greatly facilitated their vulnerability to deception.

All were aware of the tragedies in New York and therefore aware that the nation was under attack as they had the unfortunate experience of being surprised by a low flying aircraft dozens of feet away from them headed straight for the Pentagon timed perfectly with a massive explosion and fireball.

Taking the extreme trauma of such an experience into account and the general tendency for eyewitnesses to deduce, embellish, or misreport, CIT emphasizes the obvious importance of corroboration when trying to determine accurate information. The more a detail is independently corroborated the more likely it is true. Furthermore the more simple and general the corroborated detail is, the more likely it is to be true.

The core of the evidence CIT has uncovered proving a deliberate psychological deception on 9/11 is based on an extremely simple and highly corroborated detail that at this point is validated to the point of redundancy.

In February of 2006 we released the documentary, The PentaCon (Smoking Gun Version) that included on site interviews we conducted with 4 witnesses who independently corroborate the simple claim that the plane flew past the north side of the former CITGO gas station right in front of the Pentagon seconds before the explosion and fireball.

Mechanic Edward Paik, gas station employee Robert Turcios, and Pentagon police officers Sgt.'s Chadwick Brooks and William Lagasse are all unanimous in their placement of the plane on the north side of the station.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

All known researchers, aviation experts, and even detractors to CIT have been unanimous in their agreement that this claim is irreconcilable with all the physical damage, most obviously the downed light poles and curiously turned generator trailer. Furthermore the north side claim is mutually exclusive to the witnesses' belief that the plane hit the building.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

As a result of this evidence exposing an undeniable and fatal contradiction to the official data, reports, and physical evidence, the next logical step was to seek out further validation or refutation of this claim.

Of course locating witnesses who were in a position to have an effective enough vantage point is not an easy accomplishment. This is particularly the case since nobody can have a better vantage point of north or south of the station than the witnesses who were on the station's property.

Enter the U.S. Government (official documentation).

The Center for Military History (CMH) reportedly conducted over a couple hundred interviews in the weeks and months immediately following the event.

None of these interviews have been openly published but in 2008 a few dozen were released via FOIA with the names redacted.

So in essence this data amounted to nothing but a bunch of anonymous transcripts that have been sequestered, vetted, and provided for solely by the very suspect we are investigating in this crime.

Unless of course we could figure out who the alleged witnesses were, get a hold of them, and confirm their accounts first hand. Only at that point would their witness accounts become independent verifiable evidence.

Enter CIT (independent confirmation).

Of the few dozen transcripts released, only a small handful even claim they witnessed the plane as most were simply part of the recovery efforts or involved with the event in some other way.

We focused on the alleged plane witnesses and paid special attention to those who may have had a vantage point allowing them to distinguish if the plane was north or south of the former CITGO gas station.

Of course the interviews were conducted on a human interest rather than investigative level so finding specific details regarding the flight path proved difficult.

We were however able to ascertain certain clues in this regard and many pointed to the notion that some witnesses did indeed further corroborate the unanimous north side claim from the witnesses at the gas station.

We quickly determined that the most important of these CMH accounts were from individuals who were at Arlington National Cemetery (ANC) located directly north of the gas station right where the witnesses we already spoke with all placed the plane.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

We were able to determine the identities of and obtain interviews from 5 of these CMH accounts as well as obtain additional interviews from another 6 witnesses. All but 2 of these 11 new confirmed accounts were able to support the previously established north side evidence giving us 9 more witnesses on top of the initial 4 at the gas station for a total of 13 who all definitively corroborate the north side claim.

The Mainstream Media Has Picked Your Candidates, Based on Advertising Budgets

Created by: mister.old.school on August 25, flags: 171, replies: 47

The Mainstream Media Has Picked Your Candidates For You.

The U.S. media (broadcast, print, and major online news) has evolved into a sophisticated system that shapes the nature of which topics are important in the culture at large. The system works so well, that it has successfully killed the chances of a political candidate with phenomenal cultural buzz, in favor of candidates who will apparently result in an election race with the highest potential for optimum ratings and revenue. As we examine what's going on, keep in mind this 2006 article from the Washington Post: Money's Going to Talk in 2008.

Some months ago, I viewed a highly interesting video that compared Google Trends results of the various candidates. While I'm having difficulty recalling the source of the video, it's been a curiously enticing observation in the back of my mind for some time. For those who are unfamiliar with Google Trends, it provides an interesting look into the popularity of select keywords and phrases, based on Internet searches, and comparing those with the frequency of occurrence in online news sources. It provides a handy way to compare cultural zeitgeist and Internet meme against mainstream news... a means far more accurate than any political polling system as it reviews the search habits of millions of people every day.

Here is an example of comparing a name (Paris Hilton) that is wildly popular in the contemporary cultural lexicon to a news term (Iraq War) with a high frequency of occurrence.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

You can clearly get a sense, over the past five years, how the celebrity, "Paris Hilton", has become very popular within the culture, more so than interest in information about the Iraq war -- despite a much higher frequency of occurrence of Iraq war-related news. (The news reference volume graph is vertically compressed as compared to the search volume, so the scale will be different.) The key here is to illustrate how a term (person in this case) is popular within the culture, and how that popularity can transcend news coverage.

With this in mind, we can query Google Trends and examine a conspiratorial angle long discussed on sites such as ATS, under-coverage of the Iraq War.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

This graph clearly shows that the Internet culture/zeigeist is far more interested in what's happening in relation to the "War in Iraq" than they are in "terrorism". However, the news organizations strive to ensure we're more concerned about "terrorism" and the "economy" than the invasion and war in another country. This is a fine example of how the currents of the culture may run contrary to what is being reported in mainstream news.

Similar results are seen when we examine Iran in the news and culture.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

The topics of terrorism and Iran are getting significantly more coverage in mainstream news sources... with a heavy influence on cultural buzz related to Iran.

Now let us compare how news of the war fares with the front-running/popular presidential candidates with the buzz in the culture.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Not really much of a surprise here, is there? As soon as the mainstream media places more importance on the three "most-news-worthy" candidates, the cultural buzz of Internet searches sways away from the war, and toward the candidates. An interesting item is that peak for Mr. Obama in both news and culture, I wonder if it has anything to do with his March 2008 fundraising performance? Let's keep that thought in mind as we move forward.

Let's redirect our focus to the front-running Democrat candidates for the 2008 presidential election.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

The large scale of the post-January peaks distort some of the early comparisons, but it's exceptionally clear that Hillary Clinton is the more popular candidate in regards to early cultural awareness. Mrs. Clinton's cultural popularity through Internet searches leads the other candidates by an apparent wide margin... that is, until news of Obama's improved fund-raising hits, and the media delivers more attention to Obama than Clinton. This comparison graph shows a very clear trend, once the news focuses on a candidate, the candidate who was previously popular in the broader culture begins to lose their buzz advantage. This is an important observation to keep in mind when we review the republican candidates.

Here is where it all gets exceptionally interesting for those who consider contemporary conspiracies, the republican candidates, and the cultural buzz surrounding Ron Paul.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Here we see a stunning manipulation of cultural meme/zeitgeist by mainstream media -- the burying of Ron Paul. We who follow events of conspiratorial nature know well the unprecedented cultural popularity of Ron Paul going into December of 2008. This graph shows a stunning cultural awareness of Mr. Paul through an amazing amount of online searches, contrasted by an equally stunning lack of news coverage. But... surprise, surprise... Mr. McCain experiences an exceptional peak from mainstream news, that just happens to coincide with information that he's the leading Republican candidate when it comes to funds raised. Or at least... that's what you've been told to think -- Ron Paul was actually the most successful fund-raiser for the period.

Here is an opportune moment to pause and reflect. Based on available data and an analysis of the cultural awareness, Ron Paul heads into early 2008 with both a fund-raising and verifiably unprecedented cultural advantage. Unfortunately, he's unfit for promotion by the mainstream news for some unknown reason, and as news coverage increases for other Republican candidates, the cultural buzz for Ron Paul begins to fade.

With that in mind, let's lump Ron Paul in with the other three candidates the mainstream news has told us are the clear front-runners.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

At the very moment the mainstream media begins its first peak with Barack Obama, Ron Paul takes his first dramatic hit in the cultural department. Paul's next big cultural awareness loss directly coincides with news coverage peaks focused on the other three candidates. As the months wear on, and the mainstream news tells us there are only three, Ron Paul continues to fade... despite having a near twenty-to-one cultural advantage prior to January of 2008.

These clearly illustrated trends indicate two media-related conspiracies of this 2008 election season.

Conspiracy One: The Burying of Ron Paul Long speculated as a multi-faced conspiracy of the "Powers That Be" controlling aspects of the "Mainstream Media", the candidate with a lead in both cultural awareness and fundraising is systematically removed from the cultural buzz surrounding US politics. And while some nay-sayers may speculate that Ron Paul's popularity was artificial as a result of bloggers and Google-bombers, consider this:

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Among the millions of US Internet users conducting searches on Google every day, Ron Paul was more popular than Paris Hilton between October of 2007 and mid-March of 2008.

Conspiracy Two: The Media Has Selected Your Final Candidates For You Despite excellent opinions, policies, and platforms from several candidates in late 2007 and early 2008, the news media coverage focused heavily on the three (non-Paul) candidates with the deepest pockets -- or in other words, the three candidates best-positioned to spend the most on advertising. News coverage of the candidates had nothing to do with who had the more aggressive platform, security strategy, or economic plan, and everything to do with who is able to commit to more advertising.

DISCLAIMER: Before you dismiss this as another lament for the lost opportunities of the Ron Paul campaign, the data speaks for itself. I personally am no fan of Mr. Paul and many of his positions. However, one cannot ignore the stunning wave of cultural resonance apparently inspired by his refreshing straight talk.

Johnny's back from the Gilliland Ranch in Washington.. & "OH BOY"!

UPDATE: Day One Summary video is located in the very next post by Springer

Hey People!

Just a quick heads up as I've been locked away in a studio since I've been back from the SATTVA Sanctuary located below Mt. Adams in Trout Lake, Washington. We are very close to revealing our findings and video captures that we obtain and are hoping to have these all released (or at least as many as we can put up) perhaps by next week.

In all there were over 120+ hours of video and audio captured at this little known neck of the woods called Trout Lake. Despite my bringing an enormous amount of gear and cameras, I was secretly wishing that I could've found room to pack more equipment. Anyway, it was only supposed to be a preliminary investigation and so we made due with what was brought. The only real regrets I have is not being able to get permission to climb Mt. Adams itself as it sits on Indian land. Of course from what we found out, it probably wouldn't have done much good anyway as it's sheer face and volcanic walls and boulders would've only have been accessible by the most experienced of mountain climbers. I could've used some of 'semperfortis' survival and rock-climbing skills to be sure...lol.

By the way... it was simply a joy to hook up with Springer and Crakeur in Washington, the two of them kept me in stitches all the time they were there with me. I was sorry that they had to leave, but was glad they gave me permission to stay behind because if I hadn't, we would've missed all the the cool things were going to be revealing here soon. But please keep in mind that there is so much data and footage that it may be weeks before it all gets released. So where ever they finally post up the "stuff", just remember to keep checking back there daily as it gets discovered and added. I should also say that of course none of what will be presented has been professionally analyzed yet and that may take even a bit longer for some conclusive summary of what we witnessed and captured.

So, I'm still in the process of going through all the videos and am down to about 86 hours worth to look through. But there have been some very interesting findings/captures that I'm sure will raise an eyebrow or two, some others, well.... not so much :duh: But were going to include some of them too just because they were part of the experience.

There is definitely something going on there at Mt. Adams and I can say that for certain, as to what exactly, I've still not been able to come to a decision yet as there is still so much more data and video to review. I witnessed some strange events that even had me scratching my head.

Anyway... I know your all chomping at the bits for something to see or hear about, so hopefully if I have my emails and psychic link up to the AboveNetwork Communications portal, there will be a treat added here to this thread very soon. by the way, if you've not had a chance to hear our Part-1 of the ATS MIX show where we interview James Gilliland and the producer of their latest DVD, please click on the link below to listen to it either by "stream" or for mp3 download.

63 years ago, there was no bell, no siren, just hell.

Unknown to many, a few days ago marked the anniversary of Atomic Warfare. It has become another day on the calender, full of days worth noting. I believed this day to be the most significant day of our times, so i thought it was worth my time, and money to go be in it.

63 years ago, there was no bell, no siren, just hell. As people clapped and applauded, a weapon of utter hell was screaming towards them. Many thought a plane was shot down, and the pilot was ejecting, Unknown to all that were watching it, unknown to those that dropped it, this would be the most pivotal moment in human history. 600m, above Shima Surgical Clinic at precisley 8:15am the devil was again seen on earth and forced upon man. In around 3 seconds, 70,000 people were killed, and a city was reduced to ashes. I have just returned from a lightning trip through Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and would like to share some photos of the anniversary, and compare modern day, to the time of the bombing. Some little known facts not many people know about were learned, so id like to share them with you. All photos taken are my own images, accept for ones that are black/white and obviously from military records. All images have been reduced to fit ATS screens, If anyone would like a full size image, feel free to ask. I will be uploading them to photo bucket and providing links shortly. I enjoy larger images personally, seeing every nick, crack and scratch on something really shows the truth behind the image.

This was an interesting place, its not marked on the maps, or signposted. I knew of the basement and was curious as to where it was. I asked the lady at a counter, she said

" how do you know of the basement, "

I simply said id read about it

'She gave me a piece of paper and said I had to sign it, with my details

I assumed by her reaction, it was a insurance policy, saying they weren't responsible for anything that happens.

This didn't phase me, neither did the safety helmet she made me wear.

What worried me was when she refused to come down with me, simply saying I had to go down alone, and let her know when I was finished.

Its been preserved in the way it was on that day, there's cracks in the walls, rusted pipes and its got quite a distinct smell.

After the bomb, survivors who could carry themselves made to makeshift hospitals, like this one located at a school. The survivors wrote notes on the wall, telling loved ones they were ok, who died and where they'd be.

Many people who never knew what happened came to these walls in the past 10 years, seeing their loved ones writings... imagine not knowing where you sister was and never seeing her again, only to learn she was alive on the other side of town being treated.

After the bomb had devastated Hiroshima, something far more evil was about to come to the city.

Survivors laying in masses in makeshift hospitals, on the roads, corpses strewn across streets... begging for water, had their prayers answered.

The heavens opened up, and a downpour occurred.

Little known to the survivors, this water was black rain. Highly radioactive soot and debris coming down to the earth in a cocktail.

Masses poured into the streets to drink the water, being burnt to a crisp and with fire raging, who could blame them.

Those who drank, died a horrible death.

FOX News caught using NLP Neuro-linguistic programming

Created by: robwerden on August 17, flags: 108, replies:

NLP is a sort of mental hypnosis or seed planting used by magicians such as Derren Brown. If done correctly the NLP operator can use hand gestures or word patterns to make you believe anything they want.

I attended a NLP training class in 1995 for my company. It was designed for sales people to be able to read customers better and then close the sale by planting the suggestion they wanted to buy or do business with you.

Do a search on NLP to read more about it, or take a look at the Derren Brown videos on you tube.

So this guy put together a very nice video showing the NLP trademark signs Fox News was using during an interview of a 9/11 truth topic.

Part 1

Part 2

Part 3

It has also been suggested that Fox news used NLP to announce Bush had won when he really had not or the race was to close to call. The fact remains that they were indeed the first network to call the race for Bush.

What worries me is if NLP is being used by the networks, they can basically make anyone see what they want them to see.

ADMIN NOTICE

The title of this thread has been modified to reflect the reality that nothing happened that even remotely resembles the predictions of an alien space craft on October 14th, anywhere in the world.

ORIGINAL, POSSIBLY FRAUDULENT NOTICE,
BELOW:

Galactic Federation of Light spaceship to appear over Alabama for 3 days continuously beginning October 14, 2008....

TO LEADERS, GOVERNERS, POLITICIANS AND ALL PEOPLE OF EARTH

We wish it to be understood that on the 14th day of your month of October in the year 2008 a craft of great size shall be visible within your skies. It shall be in the south of your hemisphere and it shall scan over many of your states.

We give to you the name of Alabama.

It has been decided that we shall remain within your atmosphere for the minimum of three of your twenty four hour periods.

During this time there will be much commotion upon your earth plane. Your highest authorities will be intruding into 'our' atmospherics that surround our ship. This 'security field' is necessary for us, as there shall take place a 'farce' from those in your world who shall try to deny that we come in LOVE.

KNOW OF THIS

WE COME TO ASSIST YOUR WORLD.

WE DO NOT COME TO TAKE OVER.

WE DO NOT COME TO DESTRUCT.

WE COME TO GIVE YOU HOPE.

We are beings from other planets, who for many eons of your time have been preparing for these days ahead.

The Quadrennial Exploitation Of The Moronic Masses

Created by: SkepticOverlord on August 12, flags: 103,
replies: 109

Yes... as you can tell from my avatar, I'm fatigued with frustration.

And yes... as you can see from the new logo top-and-left on the board, we are in distress... we need help.

Despite brief moments of hope, as seen in KrazyJethro's brilliant thread, Disgusting election taints ATS... Stand up and shut up!, I feel the strings of the expert puppet masters at play on ATS once again.

Way back in March of 2005, I wrote: Dark Days. (The black band on ATS), in response to a similar graphic display of distress.

"Make no mistake, you are being expertly controlled. Even here, in this venue that should be beyond the puppet masters' strings, we have succumbed to the subtle manipulations of thought and reason. Instead of looking in agner toward the puppet masters, you yell at the puppets. "

So here we are again, suffering the daily madness of the The Quadrennial Exploitation Of The Moronic Masses, otherwise known as the U.S. Presidential Election Season.

Who would have thought, in this bastion of enablement that brings unimaginably diverse people together in an environment of civil and open debate with a mandate of fierce focus on issues and not each other, that we'd encounter the choreographed flotsam of manipulation. Here, right here on our beloved AboveTopSecret.com, we see...

-*- mindless repetition of divisive spoon-fed political talking points

-*- patently false information about candidates presented as truth

-*- exaggerated disaster scenarios if one or the other is elected

-*- shameful racism

-*- shameful bastardization of candidate names

-*- shameful focus on personalities instead of issues

-*- pathetic fear mongering

-*- embarrassingly little focus on real, important, vital issues

With this type of activity here on AboveTopSecret.com, the only thing it's proving is that, nearly four years after I first wrote about it, "they" are winning.

Make no mistake, "they" want you to be focusing on bickering over pointless and utterly meaningless personality disputes.

"They" have a vested stake in an absolute 50/50 split of "conservative" and "liberal" mindsets across the nation.

"They" want to ensure your presidential choices are down to the lesser of two evils.

"They" are pulling your strings, guiding your thoughts, and directing your words.

If you/we/us don't snap out of this mental fog brought on by The Quadrennial Exploitation Of The Moronic Masses, there can be no hope.

Stop bickering about divisive ideological abstract positions for the sake of bickering about abstract ideology, and pick up a real issue and examine it with cold honest neutrality.

Stop being so overwhelmingly focused on which "side" wins an election that you can't remember that there are no "sides," only the singular future we build from the legacy of great men.

If neither of the two choices presented to you by "them" thrill you, make it known. Shout it. Tell it. Maybe there are more like you.

And most importantly, cut the damn strings, and find your own original voice... and deny ignorance, please!

Rebuttal In Defiance Of The GFL

A Rebuttal In Defiance Of The GFL Troll Thread (and others like them)

It doesn't take a lot of common sense to notice that the GFL thread is severely depreciating the quality of ATS and the enjoyment to majority of ATS Members... Good, Productive Members!

As a clever Vulcan once said:

"The Needs Of The Many Outweigh The Needs Of The One".

I don't like to walk away from here feeling it's more acceptable to act like a kook or troll than it is to call someone out for overtly being one. Sadly it seems that the later is the bigger T&C crime at the moment. Yet it's the first that is doing the greater, overall damage... Are we living in some alternate universe here because it all feels a bit back-to-front?

Sure, the sensationalism (and overt neo-religious zealotry) gets the website hits and that's all great but what about the long term? All good companies build their futures on reputation and this isn't the kind of reputation ATS needs.

Is this really that good for the members, The Aliens/UFO's Board and the future of ATS? I don't know, what do you think?

Sure, were told by management to just walk away and ignore the thread but when you truly care for the forum you contribute to, when you try to make it a better place, it's hard to turn a blind eye. After all, it's the turning of blind eye's that has made civilization the sad & sorry sight that it is today.

Sure I'm all for freedom of speech and right to express yourself but when there are dubious, divisive agendas driving those words and actions, a stop needs to be put to them.

Is it wise for ATS to be essentially giving unfettered air time to a UFO Cult that can never provide proof or substantiation of anything they say? Do threads that cannot provide evidence ever add anything positive to UFOlogy, a field that has already sustained many near fatal blows in the past?

I welcome comments from all those that support an end to much of this nonsense!

The Height 611 UFO Crash

Created by: internos on August 2, flags: 70, replies: 49

On January 29, 1986 something of very strange happened in Dalnegorsk, Primorsky Krai region, former USSR.

See location in Google Maps

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Dalnegorsk's inhabitants noticed a reddish ball flying parallel to the ground, emitting no sounds, which size was about "the half of the Moon's disc": its speed was approximately 34 mph and it was hovering about 700-800 meters above the ground.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Height 611, Dalnegorsk

Eye witnesses described the fall in different ways: someone claimed that the ball fell down emitting a flash, others claimed that it kept hovering over the Hill for a while, performing slow ascending and descending manoeuvres.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Artist impression of the crash

Full res:

Three days after the sighting, Valery Dvuzhilny, Head of the Far Eastern Committee for Anomalous Phenomena, climbed the hill with a group of volunteers: they discovered a landing ground of 2x2 meters, and the appearance of the ground was like affected by very high temperatures: remnants of silica rocks were found splintered due to exposure to high temperatures and "smoky" looking.

The objects collected at the site were later dubbed as "tiny nets", "mesh", "little balls", "lead balls", and "glass pieces" (i.e., that is what each resembled).

Black glass-like drops and mesh particles (like tiny nets) were also found:

totally, 70 g of lead, 5 g of mesh particles and 40 g of black glass like drops were found on the site.

The Height 611 incident was observed by a big amount of people: policemen, firefighters, journalists, doctors, teachers, Protection Ministry of Internal Affairs officers, a group of schoolchildren.

One of the most interesting eyewitness was Vladimir Kondakova: he was on the bus when the ball flew over his head near Hight 611. The object was already flying low: in according to what the witness reported, it was round, without any projections: it was metallic in colour and slightly reminiscent of the hot stainless steel.

He thought that it was some military projectile launched, he did not heard any noises. He also reported to don't have heard any noise at the moment of the crash.

Witnesses described in some different ways what happened after the fall of the object. Some pointed out that it fell to the ground and never re-appeared, while others, including the group of schoolgirls who were at the stadium "Stroitel", reported that the object slowly rose and fell 6 times, for around half an hour: while rising was bright, while falling its luminous intensity was weak: in 1988, using proton magnetometer, were found 6 magnetic "spots" on the site.

In according to Ministry of Internal Affairs officers, fire at the site continued until deep night, although it was a flat floor and, except for a small stump, there was nothing to burn. The trajectory of the object's flight was from south-west (from the Chinese border) and did not correspond to launches from the Baikonur launch site.

When Dvuzhilny climbed the hill, the snow was up to a depth of 50-60 cm (rise was extremely difficult). The crash site was found quickly, there was no snow on it at all: it was densely covered by siliceous shales, its appearance was pointing to recent events. There was a strong smell of something chemical, it recalled the smell of some products used for the wood. The The crash occurred in a point characterized by elevated magnetic anomalies, up to 200 nT, which is under Mount Izvestkovoy. The anomalies in the crash site were formed with gravitational fields, electrostatic and magnetic components, the main vectors of which were directed vertically upwards: the anomalies in the area have adverse effects on radio electronic equipment, and on the human body: headaches, increase blood pressure, sensor failure, loss of coordination and more issues.

A thorough inspection of radioactivity at most places and on different samples returned that all values were no higher than natural background (alpha, beta, gamma, fast and slow neutrons). During the time after the crash, all the surroundings were carefully examined, but nothing relevant was found.

Wednesday, January 29, 1986 (the day of the crash), the weather condition were:

16 hr. 305 wind, at speed of 3.7 R = 742.0.

19 hr. 315 wind, at speed of 1.6 R = 742.9.

22 hr. the wind was absent R = 742.9.

The temperature was 23 degrees Celsius, precipitation and clouds were absent.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

The landing ground

The analysis:

A chemical analysis of the drops showed they were mostly composed of lead, silicon, and iron. Some of the drops contained significant amounts of zinc, bismuth, and rare earth elements. An analysis of the soil, rocks, and burnt wood taken from the landing ground was also performed.

It was noted that the chemical composition was similar to the composition of similar samples taken from the site of the Tunguska event.

The mesh particles were also analyzed. The material of which the particles were composed did not dissolve in potent acids and organic solvents even when exposed to high temperatures for prolonged periods of time. It was discovered that one of the mesh particles was composed of scandium, gold, lanthanum, sodium, and samarium. A different analysis of another mesh particle showed gold, silver, and nickel, but after that particle was heated in a vacuum, the analysis no longer showed these elements; however, molybdenum and rhenium were detected.

The quantity of gold detected in one of the mesh particles translates to 1,100 g per one metric ton of ore. Normally, gold deposits start getting developed when the quantity reaches 4 per one metric ton. There are no gold mines in Dalnegorsk as none of the ores contain this amount of gold.

Some plants were buried internally, with no external traces of darkening. The depth of destruction is up to 60-70 per cent, with destruction of cellular structures that was detected with the microscope: in accordance to AP Kulikova, of Institute of Chemistry FEB USSR Academy of Sciences, it was determined by ultrahigh temperatures.

\(visit the thread to view linked images\)

Totally, were found scattered across the site a little more than 30 g. of glass-like drops. They ranged from 3 to 6 mm. Weight of up to 80 mgr largest conglomerate, consisting of 4 sintered, weighing 850 mgr.

The first attempts to drill them in order to analyze them with a spectral analysis tool had no success. It was impossible to drill even with a diamond tool, their strength was incredibly high. At the Japanese microanalyzer one of them resulted to contain:

cobalt - 0.49 percent, silicon dioxide - 3 percent, tungsten - 2.4 percent.

Not found chromium, nickel, manganese, which are usually for the production of any marks of steel.

Under the metallographic microscope at this shlife iron on the structure resembled iron, but the results obtained in another microanalyzer showed that the metal composition was magnesium, iron, nickel, lanthanum, Praseodymium, neodim, caesium. And lanthanum content was up to 16 percent, praseodymium to 11 per cent, cesium to 57 per cent, neodymium to 18 percent, and iron and nickel basis and were not found but in very small quantities.

The mesh found in the area had an extremely complex appearance, reminiscent of braided mesh. It, like other materials (lead, alloys), was found only at the crash site, and is the most mysterious of them.

It is flat with a lot of openings and jumpers. It had a number of interesting properties: not soluble in strong organic solvents and acids, such as nitric, sulfuric, fluorspar. Atomic absorption analysis has identified 11 metals: zinc, cobalt, copper, iron, manganese, silicon, calcium and large quantities of potassium and sodium. In the presence of oxygen from the air burns at a temperature of the persistence of forms about 1000 degrees, but in a vacuum withstands up to 2000 degrees. Checking on superconductivity is negative, but at 120 degrees K, in liquid nitrogen supermagnitnye has properties similar to meteorites glazing. At the same time behaves in a normal room conditions as the dielectric, with little up, as semiconductor, and when up in a vacuum as the conductor of electric current. One of the samples was subjected to radiation exposure on atomic reactor in Tashkent and analyze neutron activation method:

Were identified the following elements:

scandium - 0.2 percent,

Gold - 10-5 percent,

lanthanum - $1.2 \cdot 10^{-3}$ percent,

sodium - 0.9 percent,

samarium - $4 \cdot 10^{-4}$ per cent.

X-ray and a number of other analyses revealed the existence of organic substances aliphatic and aromatic type, which means some affiliation on its origin from the stump. In 1988, at the X-ray alalize, until up in a vacuum were clearly peaks of gold, silver, nickel and reainiya.

Following up in a vacuum R - 5-10 mm r.st. and temperature - 1500 degrees at rentgenogramme missing peaks of gold, silver and nickel, but there were peaks of alpha-titanium, molybdenum.

Soak made on coltan substrate and these elements in a vacuum chamber was not. So far, remains a mystery: how disappeared gold, silver, nickel and molybdenum and emerged alpha-titanium and rhenium?

The group of study, hunted high and low every possible evidence of fallen debris, like i.e. wreckage, but it was clear very soon that nothing anomalous was there but the landing ground: actually, the area was covered by snow, it would have been very easy to spot even the smallest object, while the snow surface was unbroken except for the landing ground.

During the last 20 years, Valery Dvuzhilny carefully gathered, classified, made a description of objects, photographs, physical and chemical analysis. He repeated several times some of the analysis in order to keep the results up to date.

Over these 20 years research were conducted on 19 samples in:

Research Institute of Geology and Geophysics (Leningrad, Novosibirsk, Vladivostok), Electric them B.O. Paton (Kiev), Geochemistry and Physics Minerals (Kiev), Institute of minerals (DVIMS, Khabarovsk), Geology, Geophysics, Minerals (NIIGGiMS, Irkutsk), NII alloys (Moscow), volcanology (Kamchatka), Research Institute of Chemistry FEB (Vladivostok) etc. , the most modern methods were used - electron microscopy, X-ray, microprobe, materials, isotope etc. and Research was conducted by 8 Ph.D., and 18 candidates of science (holders of first post-graduate scientific degree).

Samples of the "black glass-like" material from the area, under Japanese scanning electron microscope.

Valery Dvuzhilny, who's a biologist, had a serious approach to this case, and he's always been available to share the documentation, including analysis results, with other researchers and scientists.

Many possible explanations have been provided to the incident so far: a stage of a Soviet missile launched from Baikonur, a crashed top secret military aircraft, a secret Japanese satellite, and so on.

The launch from Baikonur could be ruled straight out, since nothing was launched the day of the incident. After more recent analysis on the Height 611 samples, scientists have identified a "super hard, high-temperature resistant alloy manufactured artificially with some special technology: it's difficult to imagine a possible way to get this kind of structure, its designation, physical composition and other properties.

The Committee on meteorites from Moscow, ruled out the meteorite hypothesis twenty years ago, after analyzing the samples and witnesses.

Ball lightning are always been rare for the province and were never recorded the last 10 years before the crash.

The white strips are quartz threads: some of them were only 17 micron in diameter, and were made of more thin threads

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Sample- black vitreous substance after vacuum melting. The form does not match the original. Dimensions also changed from the original,

about 1.5 times

A falling spy satellite was also ruled out, not just for the absence of wreckage, but also for the presence of carbide alloy hafnium and tantalum, rare minerals and metals, metal alloys: besides, its fly path was parallel to the ground.

The question, of course is "what crashed on Height 611"?

The findings of scientists and specialists suggest that the object had a "solid metal case". It was produced artificially by special technology (nobody has been able to find on Earth any analogue alloy). In the fall and the impact on the rock "a metal ball without holes and stainless steel color" destroyed releasing just the samples that Dvuzhilny and his staff were able to recover.

Another interesting detail is that eyewitnesses claimed that the ball for half an hour has made six attempts to takeoff. At the hill top six spots were found magnetized: and the were silica rocks: silica is a nonmagnetic material.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Artist impression of the attempts of takeoff

This fact was confirmed by a group of scientists from Tomsk using a proton magnetometer; besides trees, bushes at the site had traces of radiation injuries; it was found that magnetization was caused by a powerful constant magnetic field: temperatures were generated from 1800 to 3500 degrees Celsius: rocks containing silicon were melted; the object was a source of plasma and created few holes into the stump of wood: so, high temperatures, some unknown radiations source, some unknown high voltage source, some unknown plasma source, some unknown powerful magnetic fields source, some unknown alloys. :)

Over the years, a great variety of analyses up to the spectral and laser isotope microprobe - at the Russian, and at the Japanese, and French equipment. Apply methods and computers processed the information received. The research was carried out in various scientific research institutes in Russia, England, New Zealand (mathematical calculations of harmonics Captain Kathy Bruce).

The crash at Height 611 is one of the most interesting cases of CE-2: the researcher has always been available to share what was found to the site for analyses: and analyses suggest that despite what has been found suggest in many ways to have been created by some advanced technology, at the status quo, in according to all the scientists who conducted analyses on the samples, no terrestrial technology is known to be able to produce the same results.

Russian newspaper Komsomol'skaya Pravda (NOT english Pravda) in its December 1, 2000 issue published an article about the Dalnegorsk case (NLO svili v Primorje gnezdo). I find this very interesting: in the early 1990s , according to the newspaper, Russian generals from the anti-aircraft forces became concerned about the UFO activity in the area, and contacted local UFO researchers. An exchange of information ensued.

It is newsworthy when a major Russian newspaper mentions such fact (the author actually quoted Valery Dvuzhilni, the chief investigator of the Height 611 UFO crash).

Ghost Recon game forshadows russian war perfectly!

Created by: TheRepublic on August 10, flags: 65, replies: 123

Here is a conspiracy for you!

In 2001 a video game was released called Ghost Recon. This video game perfectly forshadows the current war between russia and georgia over south ossetia. keep in mind it was released in 2001, but was supposed to take place in the future.

The date in game for the conflict was...get this...August 2008! so 7 years ago a game was released that not only predicted what would happen and where but even predicted the time down to the month!

you can read about it here:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Tom_Clancy%27s_Ghost_Recon_\(video_game\))

Ghost Recon begins in August 2008, with civil unrest in Russia. Ultra-nationalists have seized power in Moscow, with plans to rebuild the Iron Curtain. Their first step is clandestine support of rebel factions in Georgia and the Baltic States. This storyline foreshadows the 2008 South Ossetia War. This is where the Ghosts come in: to silence the rebellion. Armed with some of the most advanced weaponry in the world, the soldiers of the Ghost Recon force are covertly inserted into Eastern Europe and given specific missions to curtail the rebel actions and overthrow their benefactors.

During the first few missions of the game, the Ghosts battle South Ossetian rebel forces from the north of Georgia, who are harassing the legitimate government and its allies.

my question is this. we know the CIA will drop info in movies and games about upcoming events... remeber the lone gunman episode forshadowing 9-11? here is the actor from the x files and the lone gunman being interviewd by alex jones talking about how the CIA gave them the script for the pilot episode talking about a plane flying into the world trade center!

(isit the thread to view linked videos)

...this wars timing was delibratly set and initiated by the US puppet state of georgia so just how long has this war been planned? what yall think of them apples? pretty suspicious if you ask me...no way its coincidence.

I'm Off to James Gilliland's Sanctuary by Mt. Adams to catch UFO's

Created by: JohnnyAnonymous on August 8, flags: 64, replies: 94

Ok... Once again the owners of this fine site (that we all know and love) have allowed me to leave my "ATS MIX" Studio to head up to Washington and visit James Gilliland's Sattva Sanctuary. Will I end up becoming enlightened with a spiritual moment (watch video below, then proceed..)?

(isit the thread to view linked videos)

(if link or video is unavailable also try here):

Contact has Begun

Well thats what I'm going to try and find out, and if I'm lucky, maybe even capture some special moments in the sky too! Who knows, I might come back and have to enlighten my partner and co-host of the ATS MIX show Dave Rabbit! Now wouldn't that be something... :lol:

So I'll be taking off sometime next week, and of course want you members to help make this investigation all that more interesting and have created a question thread located here;

JAMES GILLILAND QUESTION THREAD

Please only post your questions over on that other thread for me to ask James Gilliland. You can use this thread to wish me well, offer your apologies/condolences, or tell me to go jump in a lake :roll:

Everyone can expect a full report (to the best of my capacity) as I will be heading up with audio and camera gear, and also some ufologist tools.

And just for the sheer sake of fun.. how about a quick vote/poll to see how many think;

(1) I will have a enlighten moment ... !

(2) I will have a moment, and it involved UFO's.. !

(3) I will have a moment, but it's only in my bowels... !

Feel free to do percentages on the above (or create your own as long as it's T&C friendly).

And once again, please post a question for me to ask to James by going to the question page above. Because of my work load, I may not be able to come back to this thread often (to everyones liking), but rest assured, I'll be watching when I can..

Keep your fingers crossed for me as I hope to catch something like this shot captured at the Gilliland Sanctuary recently.

Hitler, Ayrans, Summerians. How it all ties in.

Created by: ExoByte on August 18, flags: 63, replies: 181

I couldn't figure out where to put this. It can fit in the Religion section, the General Section, or here. I chose here however as I think it fits here best. However, if the powers-that-be see it fit to move it elsewhere, I have no qualms with that.

Grab a seat, grab something to drink and keep an open mind as what I'm about to tell you has been continually dug into through strenuous research and late night studying. What I'm about to tell you now is a view, opinion and possibility you and I were never told in history class.

The best place to start is from the beginning, however in this case I'll start somewhere towards the end and backtrack. Don't you love it when stories and legends do that? I always thought it was annoying, but found comfort in the self-reassurance that "it's just a story." Unfortunately for this story, there is no self-reassurance to be had.

By the end of this post, you will fall into one of the below categories.

1. You will think this is "cool", "interesting", "shocking" or all of the above.
2. You will reject it outwardly - probably not finishing the rest of the post - because it conflicts with your previously held belief system upon which you have charted your path in life.
3. You will want to know more

Mark my words, you will fall into one of the above categories or sub-categories, which are merely extensions of the above.

Let's get on with this.

Hitler

This is the "official" story on Hitler

"Adolf Hitler (20 April 1889 – 30 April 1945) was an Austrian-born German politician who led the National Socialist German Workers Party (Nationalsozialistische Deutsche Arbeiterpartei NSDAP), more commonly known as the Nazi Party. He was Chancellor of Germany (1933–1945) and Führer of Germany (1934–1945).

Hitler was a decorated veteran of World War I who achieved leadership of the Nazi Party in Weimar Germany. Following his imprisonment after a failed coup, he gained support by promoting nationalism, antisemitism and anti-communism with charismatic oratory and propaganda. The Nazis executed or assassinated many of their opponents, restructured the state economy, rearmed the armed forces (Wehrmacht) and established a totalitarian and fascist dictatorship. Hitler pursued a foreign policy with the declared goal of seizing Lebensraum ("living space"). The German invasion of Poland in 1939 caused the British and French Empires to declare war on Germany, leading to the outbreak of World War II in Europe.

The Axis Powers occupied most of continental Europe and parts of Asia and Africa. Eventually the Allies defeated the Wehrmacht and Schutzstaffel (SS). By 1945, Germany was in ruins. Hitler's bid for territorial conquest and racial subjugation caused the deaths of tens of millions of people, including the systematic genocide of an estimated six million Jews, not including various additional "undesirable" populations, in what is known as the Holocaust.

During the final days of the war in 1945, as Berlin was being invaded by the Red Army, Hitler married Eva Braun. Less than 24 hours later, the two committed suicide in the Führerbunker."

The above was taken from Wikipedia, and that's what we know about Hitler. Hitler also led many expeditions to seek out ancient knowledge that had been lost/buried. He was fascinated with ancient cultures and their beliefs.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

The swastika pictured above is on a statue of Buddha. Before Hitler fancied the swastika and corrupted it's image, it was heralded as a symbol for "peace", "solar system clock work" etc.

What isn't widely publicized and known (except those who've written about him) are the circles he ran in, or to put in another sense, the people he consulted with. Hitler was deeply involved in the occults. Many times he would consult and occasionally be called upon by Aleister Crowley (picture in following post)

War in Georgia

Created by: maloy on August 7, flags: 61, replies: 751

It seems that a bloody war is ready to erupt in the Caucasus region again - this time thanks in no small part to the U.S.

Heavy fighting in South Ossetia

"Fighting broke out after a brief lull in a day of heavy fighting in which 12 people were reportedly killed.

Russia, which has close ties with South Ossetia, has claimed Georgia is ready to overrun the breakaway province.

The head of Georgian peacekeepers in South Ossetia said they were going to "restore constitutional order" there. "

"President Saakashvili has vowed to restore Tbilisi's control over South Ossetia and another breakaway province, Abkhazia.

The Ossetians have traditionally had good relations with Russia, and North Ossetia is part of the Russian Federation.

Russia is hostile to Georgia's ambition to join Nato and has accused Georgia of building up its forces around the breakaway regions, where Russian peacekeeping troops are deployed. "

Those who know about this decades-long conflict have for the recent months anticipated possible war with increasingly hostile actions by U.S. puppet state Georgia. It looks like the war rumors are coming true, and thanks to U.S. help Georgia will reignite the Caucasus again - likely for many bloody years to come.

This conflict can in large part be blamed on careless U.S. actions in the regions - and it is very sad that the looming war is being completely ignored by U.S. media - especially considering that U.S. and NATO may one day directly take part in it.

After the U.S.-organized coup, Georgia's new dictator Saakashvili has been moving the country towards an armed conflict with separatist republics of Abkhazia and South Ossetia. The U.S. is fully behind this idiot, and is backing him with military aid and very likely intelligence support.

An even more critical issue is the pending NATO membership of Georgia. This conflict would not have started if not for U.S. and NATO's roles, and now U.S. is ignoring the problem while Russia and U.N. desperately try to stabilize the region and call for ceasefire.

Sure no one in U.S. gives a crap about this - many can't even point to Georgia on the map. But soon this may become your conflict too, and U.S.'s role in the oil-rich Caspian geo-political region is becoming crucial.

Hopefully this does not lead to war, as wars in the Caucasus tend to get real dirty and bloody really fast. U.S. backing of Kosovo doesn't help the situation either, as Ossetia and Abkhazia now have pretenses for independence. Georgia got defeated badly once, and this time it could be catastrophic for the already failing country. And if Georgia prevails, massive ethnic cleansing of Ossetins is almost guaranteed.

Why is not the U.S. calling for a ceasefire? Why is it continuing to supply Georgia with more weapons than the small country knows what to do with?

Notice On All 911 Truthers

Created by: hardstyle on August 14, flags: 61, replies: 316

IM NEW TO THIS BOARD JUST TO LET YOU KNOW
IM HORRIBLE WRITING

My name is david . and i would like to pass information about what happen on 911, 2 days before (sept 9th and 10th) but i would rather post a mp3 which will cover alot of info. my lawyer told me i should wait until there a new investigation, and its very dangerous for me to post, blog, or even tell anyone what happen. this is very hard for me to write it down. or on video. before i start let me give you some back ground.

1 i am a DJ, re mixer, and producer. for over 18 years.

2 i downloaded the NORAD tapes on mp3 which is no good for analyzing.

reason y will explain on mp3 if i could post it on this site.

3 Its not what i found on the NORAD tapes is where i was at on 911

4 i feel like s@it because i should have contacted the 9-11 Commission.

on what i witness 2 days before on 911. but there a major prob...

the prob is i was locked up in state prison for violating probation smoking pot which is b.s. in jersey police state. that's not import was is very import is that 2 days before 911 everyone in the joint sean the 2 drones in a war exercise on the 9th and 10th. same time same area . McGuire Air Force Base (Burlington County) , Federal Aviation Administration (right next to Atlantic City) and Fort Dix.

5 please be advise you will need Google map of jersey , new york and dc.

i will give everyone 1 week from today to be ready. i will be back Friday mp3 will be ready by then. and if anyone has software like Cubase sx, wavlab, sonar cakewalk, and pro tools, . because you need to open up all tracks of the NORAD tapes. the NORAD tapes was recorded on a Digital Audio Tape recorder. when loose change got of hold of the NORAD tapes on mp3 which is a no no because its WAY better if you get a copy of dat to dat not mp3 !!! because when you record 24 people at the same time its lock it will never go off (synchronisation) every producer know this. if you play one by one using windows media player its not cutting it.

on a adat you have timings hr, min, sec, (timing is a key thing) what they did they moved sections, fade, cut, paste, adding distortion, and a filter. my lawyer has 4 of the names on who manipulated the NORAD tapes which all 4 are in deep S@@@ because 2 of them are cia the other 2 have no clue. basically Evidence tampering. obstruction of justice also Obstruction of criminal investigations. i have the names but i cannot tell no one i leave it as that there so much about this case its mind blowing. i even got death threatS as soon I GOT THE NAMES. my lawyer is trying to contact other prosecutors around the country to round up other well know producers and Engineers. as soon a new investigation kicks in i have to testify with other producers and witnesses.

i will explain more please chill out and if i were you guys contact EVERYONE AS MUCH YOU CAN FROM alex jones , loose change cats, we are change, you name it. because after i post the mp3 im gonna have to request that this topic must be deleted. on the 5th of sept . forgive my writings

much love

I've always been a blue collar, no bs, what you see is what's real kind of guy but this last year has changed who I am and how I perceive the world forever. The closest subject I can find that even comes close to what I'm experiencing is this "awakening" that people are talking about. I never believed in all this twigs and berries, fruits and nuts, tree hugging business before. No spirits, physics, demons, telepathy, vibes or energy flow. Or aliens(the jury is still out on that one for me). I was raised going to church but it never worked for me. Although I believed in God, I didn't feel a presence in my life nor have a real relationship with any higher power. I knew the environment was in trouble, but hey, what can ya do right? Gotta live. Till one night my brother and I were pretty much sat down and got our heads stuffed full of information. I don't know how to even try to explain it. And the more I try, the crazier I'll probably sound. We seem to have been woken up by a higher power, seem to suddenly be aware of what now appears to be a sinister plot against all of us, seemed to feel the earth crying out to us to stop the polluting of the air and water, to stop the raping of the land, that as a species we have gone terribly awry. Yes, very hippish I know. I became very aware that there is far more to this world than science and logic will ever explain, and that evil is all around us, really. At that point we kinda started freaking out a bit because this type of thinking has never been a part of who either of us were. With such strong feelings we had no choice but to start researching some of this stuff and the plot only seems to thicken. I know there is a lot of bs out there but there really does seem to be an evil plot against us so complex no one man could ever see the whole picture. Hell I'm already sounding like a loon so I'll just say it. It's beginning to appear to me that dominate men and satan, the devil, what have you are working together against us.

That the planet is pissed and about to revolt against us. That this plan against us is almost complete and that we're mostly screwed. Oh yeah, it seems to me that there is a collective awakening/evolution taking place within a portion of the population. And that we may very well find ourselves evolving in a sense. Anybody with me here, or are we in the midst of some sort of schizophrenic bender?

Is my Grandfather a time traveler or a joker?

Created by: Tegmondy on August 15, flags: 53, replies: 396
A few days ago my Grandfather died of a heart attack.
Ok, sad yea, quite mundane in fact, but what he left behind is incredibly odd.
He left behind a key to his old small chest, which he gave to my family during the days before he died in the hospital. The chest, as he said, was very important. he never said what, but I figured it was a ring, or money, or some antique.
Then my mother said I could keep it, and that it probably wasn't that important.

When I opened it, It was a book. When I first read it, I though it was a prank. My Grandfather did a few pranks in his day, so I assumed he'd want to go out with one too. It said "manual" and then there was a logo, and then some "Standard Issue" notice. I figured maybe something from the space race. But when I opened it, it started explaining theories about time travel and how to do it.

This was too complex to be a prank, or at least I think.
I'm no expert on space time sciences or physics, so I can't tell if this is grade A bullcrap or Einstein's personal log.

So, I scanned the images, and I want you people to please tell me. It makes an interesting read, and it's well preserved (although seems to suffer from some age marks and what appears to be burning marks.

I'd like some of the people here to confirm to me weather or not this is real or a prank on behalf of my Grandfather.

Most interesting is a piece of paper folded inside of it, seemingly picturing a time traveling device, and the bending of space.

too large to be uploaded to image shack.

Diebold comes clean, admits voting machines are faulty "For years, Diebold has embarrassed itself by claiming that obvious faults were actually not faults at all, and during the past decade or so, it mastered the act of pointing the finger. Now that it has ironically renamed itself Premier Election Solutions, it's finally coming clean. According to spokesman Chris Riggall, a "critical programming error that can cause votes to be dropped while being electronically transferred from memory cards to a central tallying point" has been part of the software for ten years. The flaw is on both optical scan and touchscreen machines, and while Mr.

Riggall asserts that the logic error probably didn't ruin any elections (speaking of logic error...), the outfit's president has confessed to being "distressed" about the ordeal. More like "distressed" about the increasingly bleak future of his company."(visit the link

"Quadrennial Exploitation" / "Disgusting election taints" sources [Exposed]

Created by: schrodingers dog on August 18, flags: 49, replies: 100

Part 1

On 8/12/2008, SkepticOverlord, after weeks of persistent coordinated viral attacks that were infecting ATS with politically charged hate filled threads, with no end in sight, and with the quality of our discourse suffering, made the following plea to all ATS members:

"Originally posted by SkepticOverlord

Who would have thought, in this bastion of enablement that brings unimaginably diverse people together in an environment of civil and open debate with a mandate of fierce focus on issues and not each other, that we'd encounter the choreographed flotsam of manipulation. Here, right here on our beloved AboveTopSecret.com, we see...

- *- mindless repetition of divisive spoon-fed political talking points
- *- patently false information about candidates presented as truth
- *- exaggerated disaster scenarios if one or the other is elected
- *- shameful racism
- *- shameful bastardization of candidate names
- *- shameful focus on personalities instead of issues
- *- pathetic fear mongering
- *- embarrassingly little focus on real, important, vital issues

With this type of activity here on AboveTopSecret.com, the only thing it's proving is that, nearly four years after I first wrote about it, "they" are winning.

Make no mistake, "they" want you to be focusing on bickering over pointless and utterly meaningless personality disputes.

"They" have a vested stake in an absolute 50/50 split of "conservative" and "liberal" mindsets across the nation.

"They" want to ensure your presidential choices are down to the lesser of two evils.

"They" are pulling your strings, guiding your thoughts, and directing your words.

If you/we/us don't snap out of this mental fog brought on by The Quadrennial Exploitation Of The Moronic Masses, there can be no hope.

As expected, the people behind this movement continued unfazed. And why shouldn't they? What do they care what happens on ATS? In a couple of months, with the election over, they will pack up and leave, leaving nothing but scorched earth where they once stood. We could just wait them out I suppose. Maybe I am selfish and presumptuous, but I couldn't sit there and take it any more. Thread after thread popping up on the "recent posts" page was wearing me down. Login in became an exercise in overcoming my apprehension, knowing what was awaiting me.

So I and my two month membership decided that I needed to do something. Not as an act of altruism, but for my own sanity, and as an anger management tool. I also realized, that by letting this pass unchallenged through ATS, there would be nothing to discourage to come back at will.

Rest assured, that if nothing is done, they will all show back up in three years, and the whole process will start anew. Once again sitting by getting hijacked, with a look of moral superiority in hand and false pride in our heads as we keep repeating "we're better than that."

The only way to win this battle, and believe that it is a battle, a battle literally between those who strive to deny ignorance and those who wish to spread it, is to expose the people behind these attacks and their real agendas. Stripped of their cover and with their intentions for all to see, they will still be free to express themselves, but only as the hate filled humans that they are. And no one will give them the time of day. They will be out of here in minutes. Or they can stay, either way it really won't matter a bit.

Some of you may think that I am exaggerating.

Just two days ago, I made it a mission to find out who the true architects of this Conspiracy were and what they stood for.

The first shoe dropped here: (links removed)

Jerome Corsi, the author of the recently released book "The Obama Nation" was exposed as part of a White-Power circle of hate peddlers.

Corsi on Islam: "a worthless, dangerous Satanic religion"

Corsi on Catholicism: "Boy bugging in both Islam and Catholicism is okay with the Pope as long as it isn't reported by the liberal press"

Corsi on Muslims: "RAGHEADS are Boy-Bumpers as clearly as they are Women-Haters -- it all goes together"

Corsi on "John F*ing Commie Kerry": "After he married TerRAHsa, didn't John Kerry begin practicing Judiasm? He also has paternal grandparents that were Jewish. What religion is John Kerry?"

Corsi on Senator "FAT HOG" Clinton: "Anybody ask why HELLary couldn't keep BJ Bill satisfied? Not lesbo or anything, is she?""

source

In the thread, you will find examples where ATS thread topics were seeded verbatim, or practically verbatim directly from Mr. Corsi's book and/or media outlets.

But something didn't feel right. And a day after the thread started and we were on page 3 or 4, an anonymous post was back posted to the first page. I have to thank whomever wrote it because it got me thinking. There was just too much seeded content to just come from Corsi. The structures of these coordinated attacks were too complicated and precise. So I started to dig deeper.

The sound you are now about to hear comes from the dropping of the second shoe.

If you go back to SkepticOverlord's plea at the top of the OP, it culminates with the descriptions of all that THEY will do to derail the truth.

The Obama File Link

I know it's a lot of material to take in, and some of it at least for me was difficult for me to look at.

Hundreds of pages, some hidden, filled with disinformation and propaganda, links everywhere and list over list of talking points and attack strategies.

But it's all there. All the disinformation that we see on our threads.

By the way, if you're wondering why I only used links, it seems that peddlers of hatred are very possessive of their work and content, leaving it to their minions to spread the word of hate across the web via rumor, double talk and innuendo. Thus I'm afraid we are the ones that have to go to them to expose them. Wear a clothespin on you nose and dig away.

I'm actually just starting to get my head around it. I don't even know how we can discuss all the information in one thread. We may need forum for the whole thing and a thread for every link.

However, I'm now going to take a deep breath, and grab a drink.

Then, I will go back to the task at hand. There may be more of these hateful people that we/I need to identify. Maybe this is all that is needed, the blinding light of the truth pointing in their direction. But somehow I suspect they're already working on plan B.

Sky went dark for about 6 seconds..

Created by: Axzion on August 10, flags: 45, replies: 182

Im in u.k England in a place called Shinewater which is within Eastbourne..

It is now about 9.20am and relativity bright, and the sky just went dark around this area, like night time dark, but no stars or clouds just pitch black...Quite a few people saw this so i'm not hallucinating...My neighbour believes it was a sudden eclipse but wouldn't that make everywhere else dark?

I could clearly see the area known as "The Downs" which is a rough bunch of high hills and it was not dark over there from what i could see.. it seemed like the light within about a a mile radius perhaps? just simply went dark, and I could very clearly see The Downs alight with natural light...the downs being quite a relatively high landmark you can see them from quite afar.

This may sound mad but it was like, kinda like...The sky was cracked almost. Like what i was seeing wasn't our sky...it was odd and there was a really eerie feeling going on, but i guess that's just human nature when faced with something unknown.

I posted this here because well...it was in the sky and you guys kinda deal with the sky, so perhaps a UFO of some sought?

But honestly, it just felt looked like the sky had cracked, im sure someone would've picked this up on there mobile phone or something and cctv, that has to be an option.

I'm gunna try my best to get this in some media format, i'll start with the local herald newspaper and see if i can get this higher because what i saw was not natural well, i for one believe it wasn't natural and i have a probable several 100 witnesses to this...but if you guys/girls do have a more sensible solution then mine then please do post instead of flaming and calling me a liar.

Anyway i have to goto work so i'll answer question when i get back, but i've done the best i can describing the event.

okay...this is odd:

Coney Island Mob beats Ex-Marines rescuing girl

Created by: Scorched Earth on August 11, flags: 44, replies: 191

"A wolf pack of at least 30 thugs viciously attacked two hero ex-Marines in Brooklyn after they rescued a teenage girl who was being assaulted, police and witnesses said yesterday.

he former leathernecks, Valentyn Olenyev, 23, and Boris Bukler, 22, Russian émigrés who served tours in Iraq, were walking a female friend to her parked car on West 23rd Street at 12:30 a.m. when they spotted two men holding the screaming teen by her hands and legs.

The two former Marines, meanwhile, insist that the violence had racial overtones, although the assault has not been labeled a bias crime.

Bukler said, "Those in the crowd were yelling, 'Hey, white boys, you're in the 'hood now!' We were yelling back, 'We don't care - we live here!'"

Read entire article

Imagine the uproar if the races were reversed.

Cases like this are proof that:

- Unconstitutional hate crime laws are useless anyways
- There is a double standard when it comes to blacks perpetrating violence upon whites. If the victims were black, the attack would be headlines for days with scumbags like Jesse Jackson and Al Sharpton leading little protests.

Disgusting election taints ATS... Stand up and shut up!

Having been a member here for a number of years, I've seen how the election cycle gets, especially the American one. However, the difference in this election cycle is beyond the pale and I know there are large swaths of dedicated members that feel the same way.

I see rampant trolling from grey no avatar pointless posters that are so poor and so intellectually dishonest that many of us can't help but speak up against such a tidal wave of idiocy.

I also see full time haters, bigots, fools, and liars with little interest in reasoned discussion which further promotes animosity and foul threads around here.

There is thread after thread after thread of trash talk, unsubstantiated slander, and a serious lack of meaty conversation many times.

SO

This is what I propose:

Censorship sucks and I don't advise we rely on the mods to be foolishness filters, otherwise they'd need to get paychecks for all the time they would spend doing it.

Ignore them.

Simple as that which will kill the thread. Otherwise we will get sucked down into the filth that is the American political system, faceless internet politics, and embracing ignorance.

I know it's hard, but their threads will be buried by others rather than sit in the limelight while poster after poster props up garbage threads with banter on how racist or bigoted said OP is, or how much the thread resembles garbage, petty bickering, etc, etc, etc.

Actually Deny Ignorance. Deny it your attention, your time, your posts, and if you feel a topic has SOME merit, then start a new one that has intellectual content to it.

Please, lift ATS up, don't contribute to it's pollution.

Your thoughts? You with me?

Toxic overload

Created by: mopusvindictus on August 22, flags: 41,
replies: 86

I have been noticing alot of thread regarding "what is happening with people" "zombies possible" and a myriad of posts about economic woes and various other "human disfunction" episodes like "columbine" stories about people who have randomly gone mad like "placing babies in microwvves" etc, etc

I am going to post here a theory that we are in toxic overload and that at some point soon it we will see a gigantic shift over the balance point

For starters on an Ethnographic level I would like to address Human lifestyle particularly in the United States in regards to Dis Ease

6:00 Am to 7:00 Am :

Wake up, shower in city water, contains, Chlorine and flouride which permeates the skin and enters the blood stream, You apply soap loaded with some or all of the various petrochemicals, alkanolamines, (nerve damage, liver damage) DEA (tissue and nerve damage) Propylene Glycol (dermatitis, kidney damage and liver abnormalities. It can inhibit skin cell growth in human tests, can cause gastro-intestinal disturbances, nausea, headache and vomiting, central nervous system depression and can damage cell membranes causing rashes, dry)

among 600 chemicals in body and skin care products

Then apply your deoderant, which cuts of release of sweat and contains aluminum which is implicated in Alzhiemers disease

after that brush your teeth, add another dose of Flouride

Then you hit the Kitchen, (coffe and Nicotine when applicable) Drink some Oj, think it's good it is, but Aluminum Hydroxide in your body can now pass the blood brain barrier in 5x the amount when in mixes with Citric Acid OOPS

Next Grab a pastry Dod you check the ingrediants? If it contains Maltol a common substance in baked good you just uped the amount of the aluminum entering your brain by 90X

Thats the chemical dose in your first hour

7:00 - 8:00 Hit the gas station, pump some fule absorb the gas and it's additives through your finger tips, hit that highway while your body is still absorbing 90x the aluminium, and breathe in the heavy metals the whole way to work. Enjoy your daily dose of Lead, chromium, Cadmium Mercury and the 90x absorption to 5s absorbtion of that Aluminium, You are if your on the road of course breathing Carbon Monoxide the entire way there add to that some people still drive on brakes (although illegal, made of asbestos fibers and I have caught them being sold in cheeper stores to this day)

8:00 - 9:00

Your safe your at work, urm No Your office is controled by central air, you get little outside air all day, Freon enters your system, Black Mold is rampant in the USA and is found in small quantities in most vents, hallucination, nerve damage applies. Your also under artificial light gathering you zero Vitamin D and also not natural to the eye and overtime can degrade your vision by forcing you to distinguish colors and tpe, sit in front of your computer is it shoielded, probably not, enjoy those low dose xrays all day and the effect it has on Melatonin production and your sleep cycle

9:00 - 12:00: More of the same, Plus add some nice stress and all the hrrible known factors in regards to health and mental well being and ageing, be scolded by your boss, an unnatural occurance in anture where an other human being takes control of your body and welfare for the day, wonder how your kids are doing, where your spouse is... it's all part of a days work...add to this, your circulating all the airborne Germs everyone has in the office through the same system all day long assuring that you will recieve a fair blow to your immune system during the day because your enclosed with those people.

12:00 - 1:00 Lunch, but you work in a complex, the food is limited to what is outside your door if your not in a metropolis like NYC you can expect fast food, loaded with trans fat (which clogs arteries but ask yourself this, if trans fat can clog your arteries, what is happening to the tiny capillaries in your Brain?)

Drink a fountain soda with that fried food known to cause cancer btw, particularly the fries you ordered... and the water is from a municipal source... so here you get your first does of meds for the day antibiotics, anti-convulsants, mood stabilizers and sex hormones as well as antipsychotics, street drugs, meth, cocaine all in trace amounts what happens when you mix trace amounts of over 100 drugs in one dose... no one knows

1:00 - 5:00 repeat 8:00-12:00

5:00 - 6:00 repeat 7:00 - 8:00

except double the stress for both because your becoming tired and your immune system is weaker after your fast food lunch and your liver is bogged down trying to absorb the fat

6:00 - 7:00 try and have dinner while dealing with family problems that arose in your absence, Take whatever you choose to take for stress, more nicotine, aspirin a shot of booze

7:00 - 9:00 your day if your not single hasn't ended yet, kids need to be put down, pets need to be fed, homework needs to be finished, chores need to be done, garbage needs to go out and anything else that needs doing

9:00 Finally for the first time in 15 hours you receive your first human contact vital to health, a couple of quick pecks on the cheek from your kids

You should for a proper nights sleep be preparing for bed, but you don't because you haven't had a moment to yourself all day, you turn on the tv, this is your bonding time with your spouse, who falls asleep before you do, your physical human contact consists of them laying against you, you figure "oh well" we can make love over the weekend

You get up brush your teeth and wash your face repeating almost exactly the fluoride, chlorine petrochemical routine of the morning and finally fall asleep about Midnight getting only 6 of the 8 hours sleep you need and your body wakes up to start the process over again a bit weaker and a bit less capable of handling it

The weekend, not as bad but your still forced out intrajob and go through the routine, you get little escape, the children need things chores must be done and you and everyone else in your boat is doing that shopping at the same time driving on the same roads and the heavy metals and the rest are almost as high as during the week...

But you get human contact one day of that weekend and maybe get to make love ... usually though the health benefits of this will be ruined by at least one night of heavy drinking or binge eating at some stressed restaurant overflowing where you wait online an hr before being seated

Welcome to the toxicology of the end of the Industrial era

Aids, Cancer and Heart disease are our leading killers, 99% of the population adds additional chemicals to their system daily from caffeine and Sugar to prescription meds and street drugs almost everyone of us is additionally doped Diabetes and Obesity are epidemic, Anti Biotic resistant bacteria are everywhere, New strange disease like Morgellons are being seen and Chronic fatigue syndrome is ever present.

Went to James Gilliland's Sattva Sanctuary!

Created by: DimensionalDetective on August 18, flags: 40, replies: 105

Took the kids up Northwest into Oregon, and decided to shoot over to Trout lake to see what it was all about.

Got to meet James briefly, but regretfully the poor guy was SUPER busy tending to all of the different groups up there launching investigations and shows. James was super accomodating just allowing us to come up there and spend the night with the amount of projects he was juggling all at once. Super kind-hearted soul. I hope to visit and talk with him again one day when things aren't so hustle bustle for him.

One of the highlights for the family and I was running into the infamous Johnny Anonymous from ATS, conducting his investigation. What an absolutely personable, likeable gent JA is. Just a neat person who is a blast to be around. Funny as heck too--You can see why this guy is a natural at radio, great personality and quick witted! haha:up:

The TV crew from A & E was up there as well, with the team from the show "Paranormal State" filming a segment.

Dave Schrader from Darkness radio was also on hand. Another cool guy with a great sense of humor...He and JA trading alien anal probe barbs at one another---Priceless....LMAO!

Okay, now as far as the ranch / Sattva Sanctuary itself: Probably one of the most beautiful areas I have seen--The countryside looks like something out of a painting. Mt. Adams is one of the most imposing looking structures ever--It reminds me of the Matterhorn at Disneyland, only about 10,000 times bigger. Some really cool looking structures there--A rock that looks like one of those hawaiian totem-pole statues, and stepping stones around the pond with cool looking alien symbols carved into them...

As far as activity:

Kids, GF and I sat out in the field in lounge chairs, kind of out of the way of everyone and off in a different area. From about 8:30 p.m till about 1:30 in the morning, we counted well over a couple dozen different objects that were non-conventional (airplanes or jets). Now, being as skeptical as possible, many of these objects might well be satellites, I have not looked at the tracking sites for Thursday the 14th, so I can not say for certain whether they were or not.

That being said, there were 8-10 objects that were NOT satellites. These objects were either pulsating, or flashing in sequence, from anywhere of 1-6 times, then disappearing. Also saw a couple of those bright, singular flashes that look like a mini, silent explosion in the air.

Now the wild part about this is that I come from a VERY active area (near Palm Springs, Cali) and many of these types of objects I have seen before...The biggest difference for me personally is the AMOUNT of these objects navigating the sky above this place. It is absolutely HOPPING with non-conventional objects over the area. I have seen these "flashing" objects many times, but usually I will see one or two per week if lucky, and if I put enough time and effort into watching the sky intently. This place was just LOADED with these types of anomolies.

All in all, a very interesting place that is worth a visit. I will certainly be heading back one day.

Can't wait to see what Johnny and the ATS crew captured on film there....The upcoming mix show should be pretty incredible IMHO!

Dear Comrades: I regret to inform you...

Created by: TrueAmerican on August 20, flags: 39, replies: 138

Dear Comrades:

I have a very confidential message to deliver, and your own life may well depend on you keeping this confidential.

I regret to inform you that the world has reached a breaking point, and we are forced to act in the name of humanity. The United States and its NATO allies are trying to encircle us by bringing missiles into our own lands. We tolerated the invasion of the middle east, and have tolerated the NATO imperialistic actions of recent history.

We have prepared carefully for this day, and the time is upon us to move beyond propaganda and lies. We must act. We must or we will be dominated.

Therefore, I again regret to inform you that we are putting into effect the confidential national emergency plan A which you all know well and have prepared for exhaustively. You are hereby ordered to report immediately to your posts as planned.

In three days time, life as we knew it on earth will permanently change for most peoples of the world. But you will be taken care of my comrades, of that you can be sure, as long as you do what you know to do. It is time. We are very sorry in advance for what is about to happen, and for those that will not make it through. But we have no more choice but to fight for our country, our citizens, and the entire world.

NASA Historian: Advanced Alien Cultures May Be Sentient Machines In A Post Biological Universe!

Created by: mikesingh on August 13, flags: 37, replies: 82
(visit the thread to view linked images)

For starters, what would the level of a post biological culture be? What we'll be looking at here is an advanced alien culture that is probably beyond even a Type 3 civilization, which, according to Dr Michio Kaku, has reached a technological level high enough to travel through and between multiverses as a matter of course! (We are still Type 0!)

The Post Biological Universe

"The possibility exists that cultural evolution over the long time scales of the universe has resulted in something beyond biology, namely, artificial intelligence (AI). Such a post biological universe cannot mean a universe devoid of biological intelligence, since humans are an obvious counterexample. Nor does it mean a universe devoid of lower forms of life. Rather, the post biological universe is one in which the majority of intelligent life has evolved beyond flesh and blood intelligence, in proportion to its longevity."

Is it possible that advanced intelligent life exists where biology has morphed into post biological machines? The motivating factor is the inherent desire to improve mental capacity. Is it possible that highly developed alien beings have already reached a point in their evolution where, having reached the peak capacity of their biological brains, have taken the next logical step and opted for robotic brains equipped with artificial intelligence?

According to Steven Dick, NASA Chief Historian (as told to Ker Than in Popular Science):

" This brain swap may not be as far off for humans as one might think. In only a few decades, the computer revolution here on Earth has produced supercomputers capable of performing more than a quadrillion calculations per second. (According to research by Hans Moravec, an artificial intelligence expert at Carnegie Mellon University, that trumps the human brain's estimated top speed of 100 trillion calculations per second.)

Some scientists speculate that in a few decades, an event called the technological singularity will occur, and machines armed with computer brains will become sentient and surpass human intelligence.

Civilizations equipped with technology light-years ahead of our own could have already experienced the singularity thousands or even millions of years ago."

What is the likelihood that such advanced robotic races exist? Given the limitations of biology as we know it, the force of cultural evolution, and the imperative to improve intelligence, it could very much be in the realms of possibility. And, if post biological beings do exist, would they be interested in us at all? Most likely the gulf between their minds and ours might be so great that communication would be impossible!

So is SETI barking up the wrong tree?

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Image courtesy: whyfiles.

"We conclude that the conventional radio SETI assuming beamed broadcasts from targets - selected exclusively on the basis of the old fashioned biological paradigm - within the vicinity of our Solar System is ill-founded and has minuscule chances of success."

Cirkovic and Bradbury."

James Gardner, author of The Intelligent Universe: AI, ET, and the Emerging Mind of the Cosmos answers an interesting question by Universe: (His first book, Biocosm, suggests that intelligence doesn't emerge in a series of Darwinian accidents, but is hard-wired into the cycle of cosmic creation).

(visit the thread to view linked images)

James Gardner

Universe: You often cite Ray Kurzweil's ideas of our trans-human or post-biological future. As a writer, what do you think the role of writing -- or more generally, of culture -- will be in a post-biological society? Does the singularity necessarily imply an end to creativity and the arts as we know them, or simply a huge shift?

Gardner: I believe that culture and art will continue to flourish in a post-biological future. That future will build on what has gone before. Indeed, it will represent a fusion of the human and the trans-human. (As you saw in the last part of my book, I disagree with the pessimistic views of Arthur C. Clarke in Childhood's End.) Because it will vastly expand the realm of intellectual possibilities and the sheer size of available cultural space, the onset of the Singularity should facilitate an immense burst of creativity and give birth to new artistic genres that we can only dimly foresee.

And...

Self Replicating Von Neumann Probes

How about the Von Neumann probes? These are self replicating sentient robots/machines possessing an extremely high level of artificial intelligence, way more advanced than human intelligence. These are pre programmed to eventually reproduce by the millions soon after their arrival on a planetary body with the help of local resources and these copies would then be launched by them to the next set of neighboring stars. This process would be repeated, over and over again, so that increasing numbers of identical probes would be involved in penetrating ever more remote regions of the Galaxy.

Advanced technologies required to build such a spacecraft would include highly sophisticated artificial intelligence, molecular self assembling nanotechnology, and an advanced propulsion scheme like anti-matter rockets, beamed energy, interstellar ram-jets or the more esoteric FTL propulsion.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Illustration of a Von Neumann Probe.

Courtesy: David Darling, in The Encyclopedia of Science.

"Having dispatched copies of itself, a probe would begin to explore the star system in which it found itself. It would conduct scientific research and transmit the results back to the point of origin. It could also be used as a means of interstellar colonization by constructing an artificial life-sustaining environment and then implanting this with synthesized fertile egg-cells bearing genomes transcribed from the probe's computer memory.

Eiseley has suggested that the embryonic individuals of such a colony could be tended by robots, also built by the probe, until they were old enough to function independently. They would then be free to develop their own civilization around the host star.

David Darling."

Beyond the future!

So if we ever come in contact with an ET race, we could well be interacting with a post biological entity – a sentient machine of mind boggling complexity! Or something even beyond that? Looking far, far into the future, could post biological entities have no form, but exist only as pure forms of energy?

The Greatest Deception of Mankind

Created by: 1nL1ghtened on August 13, flags: 36, replies: 229

I would like to start this thread by stating that this was a post , to another thread(that I have since stricken)..because I believe that this is too important to be buried and obscured. I know that this opens myself to ridicule and to persecution, I am not concerned with that..nor am I worried about popularity or notoriety...only the truth. I do not need my ego to be stroked, and I am NOT addicted to approval of the herd. Its not about me, more to the point its about mankind...and the battle for souls.

It is my belief at this time that the "greys" and other "ET" races are not at all what they seem. According to research over the years they appear to be genetically engineered puppets or shells if you will, that are inhabited by unclean spirits or what many refer to as demons.

"I felt an absolutely indescribable sense of menace. It was hell on earth to be there [in the presence of the entities], and yet I couldn't move, couldn't cry out, couldn't get away. I'd lay as still as death, suffering inner agonies. Whatever was there seemed so monstrously ugly, so filthy and dark and sinister. Of course they were demons. They had to be. And they were here and I couldn't get away."

-Whitley Strieber, Transformation, p. 181

Now, I want to add here that when researching this subject I of course had my own opinions and preconcieved notions as to what they were and what UFO's are. I personally believed them to be of extraterrestrial origin (or aliens) and their craft to be "nuts and bolts" but with incredible, possibly trans-dimensional properties.

The UFO I saw 12 years ago at a distance of 20 or so feet, for a duration of approximately 2-3 minutes is what got me interested. This was no little light flashing and moving erratically in the sky...this was a large craft, crescent moon shaped enveloped in what I can only describe as "green fire"...right over my car.

I was completely awe struck...amazed and to be honest, excited! That is until...the end of the encounter....as it was leaving, slowly to my right...I had the most unmistakable feeling of dread and menace. Now remember...I was standing there, under this thing, thinking to myself 'WOW this is sooo cool!' I was witnessing (what I thought at the time) an actual craft from another world! ABSOLUTELY INCREDIBLE! There was NO WAY this thing was ours I don't care what anyone says.... heres where it gets dicey...I was elated...amazed...and happy...to be witnessing this object..so my mood was one of excitement. But as this thing was slowly moving away...I experienced the most dreadful feelings of utter, total and unabashed hatred coming from the occupants of this craft .

I couldnt believe it...I just witnessed (along with my girlfriend at the time) one of the most amazing sights I had ever seen. I cant explain in words the sheer WOW factor to this sighting... but it was completely ruined by the absolute, unequivocal, thoughts of malice and hatred, projected to me...by the occupants of this craft. I know how that sounds...but as hard as it is to relay this to you...it was as if...they (its seemed there were four or more entities) projected these feelings into my mind...or as if I was able, for a fleeting moment to read their thoughts...and it was horrible. Absolutely NOT what I expected. I was actually enjoying seeing this thing...I mean a real freakin UFO right in my face WOW. So, to continue...I chalked up these "feelings" as part of the "shock" process, as I feel anyone who witnesses something like this, so close and UNDENIABLE, has to go into some mild form of shock.

Being a hardcore "show me skeptic", I must say I was completely blown away and that started my quest for knowledge on the UFO topic. I was under the impression that this phenom was in fact a "nuts and bolts" and or "extraterrestrial" issue.

When I really looked closely at this enigma..I couldn't help but to come away with a completely different answer that what I presumed it to be.. I strongly encourage others to research and come to conclusions for them selves. I will not state, that I have all the answers and that what I (and many others) have concluded is in fact the truth of the matter. This mystery is multi-faceted and so over saturated with dis-info and (possibly well intentioned) mis-interpretations...that it is a truly daunting task to ascertain any truth...and I believe that is by design.

I add this for people to consider. Yes, in fact I do believe the Gov. knows what they are.. keeping that in mind, how could any "discloser" take place? What are they going to say to us?

The Government:

"Citizens of Earth...we have concluded that the phenomenon known as UFO's and the supposed "alien" occupants are in fact demons of the Bible...and are physical manifestations of said entities. They hate you all and want you to die, horrible, painful deaths and suffer for eternity along with them. Satan has figured out a way to clone physical beings or shells from various animal and plant life to allow his minions to inhabit this physical plane to delude and fool mankind into searching for life on other planets...instead of taking care of our own here on Earth...we have all been fooled and there is NOTHING we can do about it, we're sorry..may GOD help us all...."

Yea, thats NOT going to happen...so the "disclosure" your all waiting for will never happen. They "greys" Im afraid, are not at all what you have been conditioned to think they are...

If you have read to this point and still ponder upon this and still think this to be a bunch of bovine fecal matter, then you have been duped into believing a lie. Now if you are still reading this and still question to yourself that there may be a shred of truth in it, then say a quiet prayer to yourself and FIRST ask for forgiveness then ask for divine discernment. Without John 3:16 in your heart NONE of this will make any sense to you.

In closing I would like to say; that the whole UFO and alien enigma, is all a clever RUSE by Satan to get mankind to look for life in the heavens instead of looking inwardly and seeking God. This will be my last post concerning this subject, I have wasted far too many years on this topic and I was fooled as well... however I will be happy to answer any and all questions related to this or how one can have a personal relationship with Jesus Christ. If you truly seek God He will NEVER hide the truth from you. (Seeking being the key word.)

Your humble servant,

1nL1ghtened

I think what I am looking at is a Mexican/American girl who was once a beauty pageant contender in Dallas.. I'm not sure what happened to her, but it sounds like she is now a victim of SDI (HAARP) torture and other persecutions from Intelligence agencies..

She is obsessed with numerology, and seems to think there is some sort of code in the bible? There is a Deborah's song in the bible that seems to have significance..

she constantly updates this page, but i dont understand the purpose of it all. also, she has/had a bunch more stuff on congress.org but she isn't linking to that right now.. when i try to find it, i can get stubs of info in the subtitle, but not even google has the caches page!

the site is:

I just thought it would be fun to try and decipher the meaning of this page..

Can anyone give me any insight at all?

Want To Find ATS Members In Large Scale Blackout?

Created by: trusername on August 11, flags: 35, replies: 198

I'm beginning to see the logic behind a secret handshake :) Seriously though, what with all the threads on skies "unusually" lighting at night and darkening during the day these last 2 weeks... and ATS downtime. It's made me wonder more about the benefits of at least the concept of a "Pssst... I'm a fellow ATS member and I think so much outside the box, I'm doubting there is a box" signal to one another. If, and lets think positively, there was a short-term but large scale blackout, it would be comforting to know that this largely thoughtful, questioning, peaceful, enlightened, intelligent community wouldn't evaporate at a crucial moment for communication.

On the other hand, as we all may know from experience, not everyone thinks like ATS members and lurkers. The fear of looking outside the box creates odd and occasionally unpleasant reactions from nonATS types. So, we wouldn't want to go around asking strangers willy nilly if they were conspiracy theorists in the hopes of finding each other.

Any ideas of how to keep the ATS network alive without www access?

Montana Governor Refuses Real ID, DHS Threatens Citizens

Created by: DYepes on August 9, flags: 34, replies: 52

"We knew that the state of Montana was resisting the REAL ID Act, but we just learned some of the details of that resistance. The story is so good we had to share it, in case you hadn't heard . . .

Brian Schweitzer, the governor of Montana, wrote a letter to Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff. The letter informed Chertoff that Montana would not be complying with the REAL ID Act. Our quote of the day supplies one of the reasons for Governor Schweitzer's rebellion. In response to the letter . . .

Secretary Chertoff called Governor Schweitzer and threatened him. Chertoff told Schweitzer that Montana residents would be banned from airplanes, or subjected to severe, time-consuming inspections at airports.

The Governor countered with his own threat, "How about we both go on 60 Minutes a few days after the DHS starts patting down Montana driver's license-holders who are trying to get on the planes and both of us can tell our side of the story."

Chertoff didn't like that suggestion. He said, "I see the problem. We need to get this fixed."

Liberty Maven

Well I say good for Governor Schweitzer, he sure knows how to stand up to the overbearing DHS. It is also less commonly known that a great many states have outright refused to have anything to do with Real ID. I believe in the end, the whole concept will have been a complete failure and billions of dollars worth of waste.

In the past I studied the content and decided it was not that big a deal. At present, I just feel that is a waste of tax money due to the resistance to the program and the probability of it being killed by either of the next Presidents. Speaking of Presidential candidates, do we know what any of their stances on Real ID is?

More Information on the Real Idea Act of 2005

New Hampshire passed legislation in the state banning them from submitting to the Real ID Act.

The battle continues on I suppose.

Hi Guys,

I am a new member and just had to post this. Have searched through the archives and have not found anything that resembles this.

I was browsing through ATS and came across a few photos of the moon landing. I downloaded the photos and did a bit of jiggering and poking with them. To my astonishment one photo in particular gave me the heebie jeebies. So I thought I would do a little investigation of my own.

I went to the NASA moonlanding website downloaded the photo, and hey presto, the same result.

I don't know how to post photos on here, however, I am sure you guys will be able to sort that out.

Firstly go to the NASA Moonlanding website, Scroll down and click on the "Related Multimedia" picture.

A new window will open. Scroll down and select the "AS11-37-5454" picture and save this to your hard disk.

Next, use an image editor to brighten the picture (I used ACDSEE photo editor to brighten it) and see if you get the same results that I did.

Hope someone manages to attach the results here

What is happening here, Alien travel?

Created by: Truther on August 21, flags: 32, replies: 98

Ive seen a couple of these videos where there is the same thing happening, a ufo comes out of a worm hole type cloud, I dunno. What could this be?

Is there any logical explanation of what is happening here?

Scientists are getting early indications that the whole universe is a network of wormhole subways interconnected for instantaneous galactic travel. For example, the UFOs traveling through wormholes can travel 25 light-years in less than three months. According to new findings acceleration within worm holes can make the UFOs even travel faster – some conceive that UFOs can travel more than a thousand light years in less than a month.

Wormhole is a hypothetical "tunnel" connecting two different points in space-time in such a way that a trip through the wormhole could take much less time than a journey between the same starting and ending points in normal space. Wormholes arise as solutions to the equations of general theory of relativity as defined by Einstein when they are applied to black holes.

A journey is possible if a wormhole is held open long enough for a spacecraft (or any other object) to pass through. To keep a wormhole open would require matter with a negative energy density and a large negative pressure—larger in magnitude than the energy density. Such hypothetical matter is called exotic matter. "Empty space" at the smallest scale, it turns out, is not empty at all but seething with violent fluctuations in the geometry of space-time. At this level of nature, ultra-small wormholes are believed to continuously wink into and out of existence. Advanced alien civilizations expand these tiny wormholes to macroscopic size by adding energy. Then the wormholes are stabilized using two charged super conducting spheres in the wormhole mouths. Finally, the mouths could be transported to widely separated regions of space to provide a means of travel. For example, a mouth placed aboard a spaceship might be carried to some location many light-years away. During the trip and afterwards instantaneous communication and transport through the wormhole is possible. Due to time dilation based on the theory of relativity, the journey need not take long, even as measured by terrestrial standards. For example, if a fast starship carrying a wormhole mouth were to travel 25 light-years away, shipboard clocks would measure the journey as taking just three months. But the wormhole stretching from the ship to Earth directly links the space and time between both mouths—the one on the ship and the one left behind on (or near) Earth. Therefore, as measured by Earthbound clocks too, the trip would have taken only three months—three months to establish a more-or-less instantaneous transport and communications link between here and a point in Universe 25 light years away.

Advanced alien races elsewhere in the universe have set up a network of wormholes for intergalactic travel. The UFOs are tipped with the “exotic matter” to access, open and travel through the wormholes. The reason why we see UFOs and then they disappear is because we can only see them when they come out of the wormhole and take an instance to apply the electromagnetic stealth.

The universe is a subway network of wormholes connected all around for galactic travel.

(isit the thread to view linked videos)

Is this what we're actually seeing? An alien species entering our solar system from somewhere light years away by traveling through a worm hole..

To be honest i cant really explain what is in these videos, but it definatly dosent look like a natural occurance..

Part 4:

(isit the thread to view linked videos)

I love when Alex asks the officer why the camp was being kept a secret and the officer stop talking to him (at least on camera).

A glimpse into the future of "freedom".

Peace:cool:

Edit to add: Part 4 audio cuts out about half-way through which is a bit frustrating.

Michael Moore Dares to Ask: What's So Heroic About Being Shot Down While Bombing Innocent Civilians

"John McCain is already using the Vietnam War in his political ads. In doing so, it makes not just what happened to him in Vietnam fair game for discussion, but also what he did to the Vietnamese ... I would like to see one brave reporter during the election season ask this simple question of John McCain: "Is it morally right to drop bombs and missiles in a 'heavily populated' area where hundreds, if not thousands, of civilians will perish?""

Very EXCELLENT and INTRIGUING video that explains everything!
How Anti Gravity relates to:
Magnet Fields!
Pyramids!
Mathematical relation and secrets of: PHI, Prime Numbers and Prime Quadruplets!
Edward Leeskalin and Masons knew of this as well!
Just think of the unlimited possibilities of this technology and also the fact that this knowledge/technology is BEING UTILIZED and has been hidden from us for thousands of years!
I agree with Jeremy Stride the author "Let's Build This!"
Please do take time to watch as the title says it all!

Masses of invisible beings in cities

Created by: dunwichwitch on August 22, flags: 30, replies: 283
People are going to request this be moved to skunkworks. I'm not here to offer the non-believers evidence... but to alert people who have had positive "grey" experiences on just how deceived they most likely are. I have not had any super traumatic experiences, and I'm not even sure these creatures are sure I notice them. I don't think that even most secret factions of the government have a good idea of what is going on... but here's what I am gunna say. I got totally ripped to shreds in another forum for this proposed scenario, but I've seen this and it's what I can gather on the situation from what I can see, but by no means a complete story... and ATS is very receptive, in comparison to other more elitist and "rebel" forums.
I've talked several times since I've been here in my two incarnations (ATS incarnations) about the watchers. I'm not sure if my term is of similar substance as the popular "watchers" moniker that these things seem to enjoy... but I guess it might, because they are of similar appearance. The classic

"grey" look, although a slight bit more disturbing in person...

Anyway, my experience with these beings is that they are by no means new here. They have been here for a very long time, and we are all being slowly woken up by some outside force (this mass awakening that has been happening) to prepare to confront these things. They are intelligent parasites. They did not create us. They are not here to make themselves known, and they will try to keep themselves hidden for another thousand years if they could control it completely. I cannot say for sure exactly how heavily these creatures affect our personality or our behavior as both a society and as individuals... but yes even our individuality is being personally attended to, and if you could see with unclouded vision, you would not even be able to sleep or feel comfortable alone. Thank God I can tune this stuff out and choose to ignore it most of the time.

The government does not need extensive secretive monitoring technologies such as hidden cameras in home electronic devices or microphones or anything of that nature. They do not even need to become an overtly fascist state... at least not yet. The Nazi Thousand Year Reich is still going quite swimmingly, but even that was a cover, it seems. This parasite has infected everything in our civilization for a long time, and with their methods and advantages, it is not hard for them to regain political control of any newly revolutionized state, because they ARE political control. They are religious control. They are control of free will at even the most basic and personal level. Why is this? The title basically says it quite simply.

Anywhere that a large group of people makes permanent residence... villages, hamlets, towns, cities... this intelligent parasitic group silently and invisibly afflicts and corrupts. The infamous Art Bell caller who claimed he was an Area 51 employee (he seemed genuinely distraught and disturbed... just like I am. I guess he wasn't eased into this realization as I was) described these beings as extra-dimensional with the ability to "tune" into our frequency and manifest, if need be. They do this almost never. Just like humans, some are more devious than others. They are individual in that aspect, yet like parasitic bugs infecting a host, they are working towards a common goal of leeching the host body (Earth) dry of its life energy. They have no individuality, other than the method of leeching that works best for the target subject they "attach" to. I get the feeling that they rotate their "host" targets. We are all targets. Don't think you are immune just because you don't believe in all of this "psychosis".

The truth is, they are in your home. If you feel like you are being watched, it's not a delusional thought. It is the truth. If you are in a relatively populated area, especially if you have a family and a home in the suburbs, there may be more than 5 in your residence at a time.

I have seen these things crowding the streets at night on certain occasions. There is usually a few surrounding your house and looking in through your windows. They affect mental and physical well being. Most people, they can simply feed off their energies while they are reacting towards television shows or towards their own personal family dramas, even individual thoughts.

Obviously, on an ethereal level, there are some people who are immune to gentle methods of energy extraction. These people require more direct intervention. Also, they identify potential threats and assault them mentally and physically. They exacerbate physical disease caused by poisons in our environment and our food and water. They are a cause of many cases of mental illness. They cause many social problems, perversions, cruel intentions, and the general feeling of malevolence and paranoia that we see especially in Western culture.

I wish this was all in my head. I rarely see these things in great amounts of detail, and have only on one or two occasions had the horror of seeing them in full flesh. They are not friendly looking little skinny things at all... at least not these. Not the ones that operate in secret. These look like demonic versions of the somewhat neutral looking stereotypical "grey". They stand just a small bit shorter than me, and I'm 5'7". So roughly 4 to 5 feet.

I have had friends who I've never shown exactly what I mean see these things in my home. One girl who is somewhat of a spiritually sensitive person, encountered one in my basement bathroom. She asked me if my house was haunted. I told her just for her sanity's sake that yeah my house was haunted and it was just a poltergeist.

This leads me to my next point. "Ghostly" activity... it is mostly the psy-ops of these parasitic creatures. They will do anything to get the most effective energy from a person, and analyzing their thought patterns is seemingly in their grasp. Shadow people, ghostly etheric mist, even seemingly "human" apparitions (yes even of passed on loved ones)... most of this is caused by these creatures. From what I've experienced, this is the best explanation I can offer. I believe that they are the cause of most, or at least half, of all "paranormal" phenomenon related to the Ghost myth. The other causes being more related to anomalies in space-time. They are obviously not the only unseen entities floating around, but I must attest to them seeming to be the most prolific.

Mind Bending anomaly on our Moon

Created by: easynow on August 14, flags: 29, replies: 102

There are many Anomalies on Earth's Moon and they were photographed by NASA , but we are left with no explanations for them and we have to try to figure out on our own what they are and what do they mean ?

This particular Anomaly has always had me puzzled and i wanted to see what other people believe this to be. There is no doubt in my mind that there is something solid and real shown in these pictures and are not a trick of light or shadow's.

The following pictures to me look like the famous anomalous 'Shard' that was discovered on the Moon during the Apollo missions. Is the anomaly in the picture actually a shard that is laying down or that has been destroyed ? or is it a crashed spaceship of ours ? and there are others who will say it is a Alien spaceship ?

what do you think it is ?

this Apollo 10 picture is posted on the Lunar and Planetary Institute's website... here is the link to the picture....

could the above pictures be of a Shard ???

Akashic 'Hall of records'.

Created by: Dan Tanna on August 1, flags: 29, replies: 436

This thread is for me to share with certain people here on the boards an experience that happend to me the other evening whilst i was relaxing on the bed (cooling off in the fans breeze) with my wife and little one.

We were just gently playing about and talking baby stuff when i started to feel very 'weightless' and really chilled out / relaxed and at ease. I looked past my wifes shoulder and there at the edge of the bed was a being, a humanoid being.

the only way i can describe it is as follows; it was like looking into a multi faceted rainstorm of diamonds. Opaque and yet 'solid', there but yet not there. It was truly the most stunning creature / being I have ever, ever seen.

It 'smiled' at me and bowed gently as if it was a pleasure to be with us in the room, and I just smiled back, and reached out to 'touch' the colours that flew from its every movement.

Then, without any warning as my hand passed through 'into' this creature, I was at once in two places at once. I was 'on the bed', and yet stood next to this being, this super massive being made of diamonds and light.

I turned around to look at where i was, and words just stopped in my mind. It was an assault on the senses it was so beautiful.

Imagine if you will a hallway 1000 miles long, with the roof out of sight so far above you that clouds drift through the 'room'. Then see that every surface is made of diamond or crystal material that shimmers and acts like a prism or mirror, or both. Its ice blue, like the blue from a frozen sea, tinged with beautiful shades of green and pinks, and yet shimmers as the light plays through each individual diamond surface or being. It really is a room filled in every sense with love and light. It is simply awe inspiringly beautiful and yet so serene even though hundreds of these giant beings walks about its floor.

Light bombards the senses in every direction that you look, and yet, in amongst all of this light, hundreds of these beings moved about in such a serence peacelike manner, moving from surface to surface, watching, looking, never stopping but never looking bored or tired.

It was then i saw that on every single surface was a moving image. Trilluons of images flashed across every surface in the 'hall', including the pillars and ceiling.

Now, the being i was with stooped down and stood me in the palm of its hand, and raised me upwards, upwards towards a part of the pillar where there was a 'shelf' miles above the floor where i had been moments before. I watched my entire life from when i was born, to when I was sat on the bed with my wife. I watched every pain, every hurt, every joy, every happiness and moments even I had passed away as forgotten. I was then shown a view that was near me, but far enough away to see around me. Like a CCTV image, but crystal clear. It watched every thing I ever did, every thing I ever have done.

I was speechless. There in front of me was recorded every single moment of my life so far. Every thing. The life of a flawed human being.

(I looked at this being, and it didn't judge, didn't even seem to watch as i stood staring at 'my' life as it passed across the image. It just accepted it as it was. Just as the others never seemed to judge what was in the records, just content to be there doing what they did, never stopping, and yet they grow / shrink at every surface, never the same size for more than the time it takes to do what ever it is they do at each of these facets, each of these individual records of a life passing by).

Time passed although i am not sure how much (light passed across the hall, so some time must of gone past) and i was at a 'window' in the hall way. I looked at the being stood there next to me (although shrunk in size it still towered way above me) and it just stepped out of the window into a cloud. Just like that, out and gone.

I admit I was scared at this point, but some thing just made me follow it. I was not in a craft, not in a ship of any sort, I was pure light energy as were these beings. They use these 'cloud ships' as a method of gently watching the world pass below it, watching, keeping records, tracking time and space itself, watching those they 'overwatch'.

I asked them why they did this, what was it for, and this being held out its very hand, and its hand was an image just like the walls and pillars of the hall.

In it was a very dark black being, more like those typical grey goblin like aliens. the being showed me an image of a deep and dark cavern with those insectoid 'shukra' alien beings as it called them. It showed me that the 'shukra' despised the light these crystal / diamond beings emitted, almost like an antidote to their 'dark nature' it was explained to me.

We drifted across the sky, over an ocean, past real clouds until i could see stretching out below us was northern scotland, then it was over my city, then my house, then I was 'stood' on the top of my room, and floated to the floor.

I watched as my little one turned and waved at me, but the wife stayed unaware of my presence, but was gently watching my form as it appeared to be 'asleep' on the bed.

As soon as I stood back 'into' myself, I was like 'oh God, that was so beautiful!', but also, I was like ' i have taken a good long hard look at my life, and realise that now I have another path to travel, not the one i planned for, but a very different way has been shown me'.

I will say i am apprehensive, i will even say it causes me consternation.

But the way i was shown is the right way. I just hope I am up to the journey ahead.
