AboveTopSecret.com is the Internet's largest and most popular discussion board community dedicated to the intelligent exchange of ideas and debate on a wide range of "alternative topics" such as conspiracies, UFO's, paranormal, secret societies, political scandals, new world order, terrorism, and dozens of related topics with an impressive demographic mix of members.

With more than 140,000 members generating over 5 million posts of substance that cover more than 400,000 topics in 157 different discussion forums, you could say "the truth is in here."

The Motto: "Deny Ignorance"

More than a slogan and deeper than a mission statement, our members have embraced the motto of "Deny Ignorance" as our reason for being, demanding everyone who posts to aspire to a higher standard of participation. These simple two words have galvanized a broad membership base that spans the spectrum from highly speculative conspiracy writers to staunch skeptics. The result is a unique collaboration of diverse individuals rallying under this simple statement to learn from each other, discover new truths, and imagine new ideas that expand minds.

This motto has life. It has purpose. It demands ATS members to think.

It is a state of mind.

It is a sense of purpose.

It is a statement against the paradigm.

It is a rage against the mindless status-quo.

The idea of "deny ignorance" isn't a goal that ATS hopes to accomplish.
Instead, it's a challenge. A call to all those who come here to aspire to a higher state of awareness through informed discussion and debate.

Deny ignorance is what we do.

It's how we think. It's how we talk. It's how we listen.

Ignorance is the social disease of history that has clouded our minds and dulled our brains.

Is the evil that men do, the reason history repeats, and the cause of intolerance.

We deny it. it's not welcome here. Within these boundaries, it has no strength.

Here, ignorance is denied.

Thanks for your patience everyone.

Please visit our site to watch the film:

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

A high quality divx version is currently up.

If you haven't already you will need to download the divx player to watch.

It will download it automatically when you go to watch it but we also have links for that.

And then press the blue X to go to full screen mode. (it's a lot better that way!)

The google version will be up later today.

We look forward to your feedback.

So You Want PROOF of a Conspiracy?

Created by: nick7261 on February 25, flags: 30, replies: 81

Well, this isn't a smoking gun or a bloody glove, but it's is about as close as you're going to get. Take time to read this and connect the dots.

1) Sandy Berger Pleads Guilty to Destroying 9/11 Documents

Sandy Berger was Clinton's National Security Advisor while al-Qaeda was allegedly planning 9/11. Berger made a trip to the National Archives before his testimony in front of the 9/11 Commission and stuffed papers in his pants and hid them under a trailer outside so he could snatch them and take them home later. Berger shredded these docs.

Here's the story from CNN....

(visit the thread to view linked images)

But this is old news, right? Keep reading...

2) Berger Gets Slap on the Wrist, Then Hires 9/11 Commission Co-Chair Lee Hamilton

Berger founded a consulting company in May, 2001 called Stonebridge International. Stonebridge specializes in pulling strings to get deals done overseas for big business. I'll post some examples at the bottom of this post.

Berger was given a slap on the wrist for stealing and destroying documents from the National Archives relating to 9/11. If you notice the CNN story, the reason he was given the slap on the wrist is because the 9/11 Commission somehow determined that Berger didn't obstruct their investigation.

As a reminder, Lee Hamilton was co-chair of the 9/11 Committee. So guess who's working for Berger at Stonebridge now?

Lee Hamilton.

Here's the press release:

(visit the thread to view linked images)

So now the guy who co-chaired the Commission who should have been outraged that Berger stole and destroyed documents from the National Archives relating to 9/11 is given a job by Berger? Or is he just going to collect a salary as an "advisor"?

3) Stonebridge is Run By the Most Connected People in the World

So who else works for Stonebridge? Just how "connected" is this company?

Let's start with H.P. Goldfield, Chairman of Stonebridge. Goldfield has been a Republican operative for a long time, going all the way back to Bush Sr. and Reagan. One of his specialties is the Middle East. He also worked the Bush-Cheney campaign in 2000.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Next is Anthony Harrington, President and co-founder of Stonebridge. Harrington served as the Chairman of the President's Intelligence Board, and founded the 4th largest U.S. long distance company. I wonder if this company was involved in turning over private phone records to the feds? Harrington has deep connections to the U.S. intelligence community.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

And let's not leave out Roger Altman, former Deputy Treasury Secretary and head of Lehman Brothers investment banking. Also, for what it's worth, Altman is also a member of the Council on Foreign Relations.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

4) Stonebridge Hires Raytheon Director

So just what is Stonebridge's area of expertise? According to their website, aerospace and defense is one of their specialties.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Of course that's probably because Warren Rudman is also part of Stonebridge. Rudman is on the board of Raytheon. Rudman was also Chairman of the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board and Co-Chair of the U.S. Commission on National Security. Coincidentally, Rudman is also a member of the Council on Foreign Relations.

By the way, Rudman joined Stonebridge on Dec. 7, 2001.

Is this a coincidence or a symbolic statement??

(visit the thread to view linked images)

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Summary

So in summary, former Clinton National Security Advisor Sandy Berger steals and destroys documents relating to 9/11 and gets away with it, and hires the head of the 9/11 Commission to work for his multi-million dollar consulting company.

This company includes cronies from both the Bush and Clinton administration, the U.S. intelligence community, investment banks, and Raytheon.

Why doesn't the main stram media cover this stuff?

Simple. Because they're run by the same inner circle of people who work with companies like Stonebridge.

And for all of you who trust what the government tells you, keep this in mind -Stonebridge IS our government.

You can either choose to wake up or stay in the media induced trance.

Check out some of Stonebridge's case studies...

Need to acquire strategic manufacturing facilities in Russia? Let the dudes from Stonebridge twist some arms and pay some people off for you...

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Owe somebody a lot of money? Let Stonebridge start a "quiet campaign" and grease some palms along the way...

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Own a chemical company and want to bypass government regulators? Stonebridge will run a propaganda campaign for you!

(visit the thread to view linked images)

You want to cut a deal with the Chinese government? Then Stonebridge is your company! (Didn't Berger look the other way when the Chinese stole plans on how to build nukes?)

not sure if this is appropriate for the fragile earth thread, but part of me thinks it's perfect.

this is "the crystal caves" in chihuahua mexico. my best friend got to visit these recently (as they are not open to the public) and passed along these photos from his colleague.

i can't imagine the energy emanating from a place like this. it's apparently very hot in there and people have died there from exposure to the heat.

i thought i'd share these with you.

Anyone out there who knows what this really is?

Created by: Leech on February 17, flags: 17, replies: 93

It was roughly 2 weeks ago me and my friend decided we would go to the woods back behind my house (people told us there was some kind of creature back there) after hearin about a few peoples "encounters" with the beast I call The Dark-One we headed out. It was dusk by the time we found anything that was wierd, the first thing that got us shakin was what was once a deer ripped, shreaded, and suspended about 25ft. from trees... thats when we saw it... we started turning around to go back, and it was standing roughly 10ft. away from us.It was about 7-8ft. tall, its head was like that of a cat except it had a snout like a caiman, it had a "spine" that broke through its back, claws about 3 in. in length, hooved feet, but the thing that struck me the most was that it had a energy give like a human and if it wasnt for my gift (see my thread The only one?) I would most likely be dead now... if you know WTH this is please tell me because I have seen it walking into my yard from the woods about 6 times since then.

The first image is without any magnification. I have zeroed in on the area of interest, magnified it and marked the anomalous 'structures' in red, in the second image. Here they are:

Now what do you think these are?

Natural geological formations? Or part of an underground water / tube rail complex? Or some artificially made 'symbols'? Or photographic glitches? (Now why would ESA release a pic with glitches?!)

Cheers!

A question for our members who are adept at 9/11 conspiracy issues and details.

If you could list the top-5 concise issues that shed doubt on the official story of 9/11... what would they be?

The the points should be simple to state and explain, so that anyone can understand. Imagine having 90 seconds in an elevator to help a complete strange be aware of some important issues.

What top-5 issues would you tell them, and how would you say it?

--- update ---

I'll give 250,000 ATS Points to the member that creates the most eloquent, and concise list of 5 solid items, with irrefutable supporting evidentiary links.

Then I'll move your post to a new thread, give you credit and link at the top of the site.

Cardiologist Pim van Lommel presents strong scientific evidence for the reality of NDE's

Created by: TheBandit795 on February 9, flags: 14, replies: 48

Some years ago, Dutch cardiologist (links removed, visit the thread for external references) published a paper in the Lancet about his research into near death experiences, in which he came to the conclusion that life can exist outside of the physical body. Some of the evidence of that is the veridical evidence in which the patients (after being brought back) where able to accurately describe what was happening around them, and sometimes even elsewhere in the building while they were clinically dead.

A well known skeptic, Michael Shermer some time after wrote a criticism of that paper in which he attempted to debunk the claims v Lommel made in his paper.

V Lommel has since seen Shemer's paper and IMHO tore Shermer to shreds.. :) Here you can see his article.

The Background

In his "Skeptic" column in Scientific American in March, 2003, Michael Shermer cited a research study published in The Lancet, a leading medical journal, by Pim van Lommel and colleagues. He asserted this study "delivered a blow" to the idea that the mind and the brain could separate. Yet the researchers argued the exact opposite, and showed that conscious experience outside the body took place during a period of clinical death when the brain was flatlined. As Jay Ingram, of the Canadian Discovery Channel, commented: "His use of this study to bolster his point is bogus. He could have said, 'The authors think there's a mystery, but I choose to interpret their findings differently'. But he didn't. I find that very disappointing" (Toronto Star, March 16, 2003). Here, Pim van Lommel sets out the evidence that Shermer misrepresented.

His conclusion:

"Could our brain be compared with the TV set that electromagnetic waves (photons) receives and transforms into image and sound, as well as with the TV camera that image and sound transforms into electromagnetic waves (photons)? This electromagnetic radiation holds the essence of all information, but is only conceivable to our senses by suited instruments like camera and TV set.

The informational fields of our consciousness and of our memories, both evaluating by our experiences and by the informational input from our sense organs during our lifetime, are present around us as electrical and/or magnetic fields [possible virtual photons? (18)], and these fields only become available to our waking consciousness through our functioning brain and other cells of our body.

So we need a functioning brain to receive our consciousness into our waking consciousness. And as soon as the function of brain has been lost, like in clinical death or in brain death, with iso-electricity on the EEG, memories and consciousness do still exist, but the reception ability is lost. People can experience their consciousness outside their body, with the possibility of perception out and above their body, with identity, and with heightened awareness, attention, well-structured thought processes, memories and emotions. And they also can experience their consciousness in a dimension where past, present and future exist at the same moment, without time and space, and can be experienced as soon as attention has been directed to it (life review and preview), and even sometimes they come in contact with the "fields of consciousness" of deceased relatives. And later they can experience their conscious return into their body.

Coming Soon: ATS & The O'Hare UFO On TV

Created by: SkepticOverlord on February 13, flags: 14, replies: 161

Our very own "Voice of ATS", Springer, has been working his tail off behind the scenes with the Discovery Channel, and we just received word yesterday that the budget has been approved. He'll be flying to Chicago soon to begin work on a Discovery Channel documentary on the O'Hare UFO incident. This means we (ATS) will become an even more important "Go-To" source for pictures and videos of the event as our content has inspired this important television show. Springer will be working with the MUFON director of the State of Illinois, John Hilkevitch of the Chicago Tribune, and a number of previously undisclosed eyewitnesses to the event. As a companion-piece to the television show, we'll have a special thread here on ATS where we can all discuss the findings and any interesting material that didn't make into the show.

This is exciting news for ATS, and vindication for all of Springer's hard work behind the scenes. Stay tuned... this is going to get good.

The Scottish Call for Independence!

Created by: MickeyDee on February 22, flags: 13, replies: 65

As an Englishman living in Scotland I have recently noticed most Scots calling for the break of the United Kingdom and an independent Scotland.

My personal belief is that Scotland would not benefit in the slightest if the UK seperated, and if it was to happen in the near future Scotlands Economy would decline rapidly.

Many have said to me..."England only want the UK due to Aberdeen's oil!"

It may be true that Aberdeen is currently the oil capital of Europe, But as we all know...Oil doesnt last forever...What happens then?

I dont think the Split of the Uk is bad just because im English, I have a list of reasons that I think prove a split would be a very bad idea, both short-term and long-term.

What are your views?

Should the UK split?

More "Anonymous" Chicago UFO images

Created by: Springer on February 6, flags: 12, replies: 275

Got these in today from an "anonymous source" that at least traces back to the Chicago area. The story behind these is a woman shot them back in August, 2006 out by the La Salle Nuclear Power Plant!

She was concerned and reported them to Homeland Security who told her "someone is playing a prank on you" :puz: and blew her off. She asked her son to delete the images from her phone because she wants to forget about them.

Her son (who saved them to his computer before deleting them from her phone) heard about the O'Hare incident and that ATS was looking for images on Coast to Coast with George Noory (links removed, visit the thread for external references) and sent them in.

Jeff Ritzmann has had a very "precursory" review of them and said they are not "Obvious Hoaxes" so I am putting them "OUT THERE" for all to see.

We would LOVE to get more images of "this thing over Chicago". What the HECK is going on in Chicago?

I look at this as simply more data, the more the merrier, until Jeff Ritzmann and David Biedny have had a chance to tear these down to the pixel I am standing by on these, but wow they are impressive in appearance. :)

Sandia secret base: Does it really exist?

Created by: johnlear on February 15, flags: 12, replies: 124

Sandia is the name of a massive underground secret base with at least 3 associated runways, 2 parallel east and west and one north south located on the desert to the north of the main base.

Sandia main operations is located on top of the ridge between Silent Canyon and Grass Springs Canyon.

Beginning in 1980 this ridge was leveled off, a huge base of many levels built and then the dirt was put back on to make it look like nothing ever was built there.

The runways and associated hangars and other facilities are to the north of this main base on the desert flats. The landing strips are approximately south of a point midway between two dry lakes. The dry lake on the west is called Gold Flat, the dry lake on the east used to be called 3-4 (three dash four) but I don't know what it is called today.

Sandia construction began in about 1980 and was completed in 1987. I believe that about 1300 people work there. Maybe many more by now. They commute by Special Projects Boeing 737 and land at one of aforementioned strips which I believe is called "Station 9". You can also drive there using the road through the Tonapah Test Range or the road that enters from Highway 6 down through the Siverbow area and south by what used to be called Pt. Baker and Pt. Charlie. I don't know what they call those places these days.

There is also underground tunnels which connect Sandia with both the TTR and Groom Lake and several other secret bases in northern Nevada.

Here is the map of where I think Sandia is:

If you are looking on this photo for signs of secret bases, runways, roads, power lines etc. you are looking on the wrong map. Sandia is a secret and they intend to keep it that way. Every indication is carefully camouflaged with the latest technology.

The only suspicious thing that I saw to the east of Sandia was a square cloud with a square shadow obviously photoshopped. I don't have any idea what they were hiding. The base itself is underground so they weren't hiding that. The airstrips are well to the north so they weren't hiding that. But whatever it was that they were hiding was important enough to put a fake cloud over.

Beware Of The Agent Provocateur

Created by: infinite on February 23, flags: 12, replies: 31

**This is an article that was e-mailed to me today from someone I know. Its regarding something called "the agent provocateur" a tool that was apart of COINTELPRO. He went on to say that some forums were discussing COINTELPRO like ATS and we experiencing problems of so called "infiltration". I have put this in RATS due to its subject matter**

Beware Of The Agent Provocateur

By Unknown

The agent provocateur may be a paid, or unpaid agent enlisted by the enemies of our folk. His function is to infiltrate, disrupt, and/or destroy.

Like a Trojan Horse, the agent provocateur works to destroy our folkish communities from within. He does this by first winning the trust and confidence of those he has targeted.

There are two kinds of provocateurs: the soft provocateur, and the hard provocateur. Both are dangerous to the kindred, so be on guard.

The soft provocateur is an expert at the three D's of destruction: Dissension, distraction, and disruption. His arsenal includes fabrications, distortions, misrepresentations, and misinformation. He spreads slander systematically and craftily; seeking to undermine the kindred leadership, and thus deny it of it's driving force. He plants seeds of doubt with the object of turning the kindreds attentions away from folkish activity, and instead diverting it and it's resources against itself. His modus operandi is: divide and conquer!

The hard provocateur is a more direct animal, and therefore a bit easier to detect and contain. He presents himself as a man of action, and is consistently trying to lure others into illegal actions. It is implied that if you don't follow his plans of illegality, then you are somehow lacking in spirit or dedication. He thus uses intimidation and peer pressure to entrap otherwise intelligent folk into participating in illegal schemes that are both doomed to fail, and designed to place the kindred in a poor public light.

It's imperative for kindred leadership to take decisive action against suspected agent provocateurs. Whether a person is just plain gossipy or an actual provocateur is immaterial if, after repeated warnings the gossiper persists, and the damage is real.

As for suspected hard agent provocateurs, conspiracy laws demand quick and decisive action. Consequently, the folk should be alert to the signs described, and report them to the kindred leadership.

Quick expulsion should follow if accusations are verified as to wrongful conduct, and net proof of whether one actually is an agent provocateur should be the standard. And if so proven, that person must be avoided by all, with even friendship taking a back seat to kindred security.

The folk communities must establish guidelines both within their own kindreds, and between each other. Intra-organizational cooperation is absolutely required to prevent "floaters" from traveling from one group to another.

· Beware of all strangers. Historically, resistance to tyrants has taken the form of small autonomous groups whose members know and trust one another from long experience. These groups are then united by common interest, common goals, and common literature. But, a strict hierarchy will soon be broken by the tyrants' agents.

· Beware of the man who is "too perfect." He says all the right things, he needs little persuasion, and he supplies money. The wealthy are usually in bed with the tyrant, and they are the last to oppose despotism.

- Be doubly aware of a stranger who proposes illegal activities. You will soon find him testifying against you in Federal court.
- Beware of those who draw checks from the enemy. They are very likely to have divided loyalties. It is difficult for a man to destroy the beast from whose teats he sucks.
- Avoid drunks, drug users, and anyone of unstable character. Always chose quality over quantity.
- Recognize the media tactics, and don't react to buzz words. Religious separatists, White separatists, tax resistors, and other groups are called cultists, bigots, Nazis, and other words which the masses are conditioned to hate. After the media have demonized the target, as in Waco, Texas, the Government is free to murder at will. Ask yourself, "Is it wrong for people to preserve their religion, their race, or to resist oppressive taxation?"
- Beware of someone whose intellect, education, and background appear different from those with whom he attempts to associate. Most people inter-relate with others of the same interests and backgrounds.
- Investigate. Do a little investigation. To be sure, the Federals can create good cover. But, they seldom bother because up to now resistance groups have almost never checked their associates' backgrounds.
- Recognize the ruthlessness of the tyrants, and act accordingly. A government which will mass murder innocent women and children is not going to play "Fair" with you.

Asking Congress About the North American Union

Created by: Infoholic on February 24, flags: 12, replies: 45

I am very concerned about the future of America with the looming ideals of the North American Union. I have taken steps to do my part as a United States citizen, by exercising my rights to question those that represent "us" in Congress. I wrote the following letter to Senator Sam Brownback (2008 Presidential Candidate), Senator Pat Roberts, and House Representative Jerry Moran. I would like to share with you the correspondence that I have received thus far, and I look forward to any input that the ATS community may have to share with me.

Thanks,
Info

Here's my original letter to Congress:
"Feb. 2, 2007

Congressmen Pat Roberts, Sam Brownback, and Jerry Moran,

I would like to request some answers from you on the following issue: the formation of the North American Union. The Council on Foreign Relations has been working on, and is continuing work on a "North American Community", as described in the CFR Task Force Report No. 53, May 2005. Quoting from this report, "The Council-sponsored Task Force applauds the announced "Security and Prosperity Partnership of North America," but proposes a more ambitious vision of a new community by 2010 and specific recommendations on how to achieve it."

I have researched this issue a great deal. Funding to begin steps needed to achieve this goal is prescribed under S. 3622 (which would force US Citizens to have a portion of their tax dollars spent to "build up" Mexico), the North American Investment Fund Act. H. CON. RES. 40 has been introduced in the House of Representatives to "Expressing the sense of Congress that the United States should not engage in the construction of a North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) Superhighway System or enter into a North American Union with Mexico and Canada.

If this was not a concern, why has the funding for such a movement been introduced to use the American's tax dollars to "equalize" Mexico's standards of living to that of America's and Canada's, with the bill accepted and now being referred to the Council on Foreign Relations for further approval?

We do not have a financial responsibility to bring Mexico's Standards of living up to those of America's and Canada's, as was reported by Princeton University sociologist Douglas Massey, director of the Mexican Migration Project.

In the past 6 years, as I have grown painfully aware of in the past 8 months, there has been numerous Constitutional Rights and Freedoms that have been stripped from the American People, of which angers me a great deal, and of which I will address at a later time.

I feel whole heartedly, as would be attested by millions of American citizens, that a formation of the North American Union is completely unconstitutional and, in fact treasonous. Attempts by the Federal Government to strip the American people of their Constitutionally protected sovereignty, attempts to erase the borders of our nation, and attempts to nullify our Constitution are nothing short of "Acts of Treason".

I, and other American citizens, demand answers to these acts. We deserve answers from those that we elected to represent "us" in our Federal Government.

I thank you in advance to your written response,
XXXXX X. XXXXXXXXXXXX"

Here's a response that I've gotten thus far:

"Feb 22, 2007

Dear Mr. XXXXXXXXX

Thank you for sharing your concerns on the relationship between the United States, Mexico, and Canada. I appreciate your taking the time to share your thoughts with me.

In March 2005, the United States, Canada, and Mexico formed the Security and Prosperity Partnership of North America (SPP). Through the partnership, the three countries seek to secure North America from external threats. In addition, the partnership promotes economic growth, competitiveness, and quality of life. The SPP does not relinquish any sovereignty or diminish the United States' ability to protect our borders and enforce our laws. To learn more, please visit the partnership's website at <http://www.spp.gov>.

I understand your concerns. During the 109th Congress, Senator John Cornyn introduced S. 3622, the North American Investment Fund Act. This legislation authorized the president to negotiate with the governments of Canada and Mexico to establish a North American Investment Fund. This fund would have been used to increase the competitiveness of North America in the global economy and promote economic development in Mexico. The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations did not act on S. 3622 before the close of the 109th Congress.

Recent media reports and websites have reported on an alleged North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) Superhighway connecting the United States, Mexico, and Canada. Plans for a new ten-lane, limited access highway with passenger and freight rail lines running alongside the highway through the United States do not exist. The Kansas Department of Transportation, which oversees construction and maintenance of the highway system in Kansas, has no plans to build such a highway.

I appreciate the points you make. Recently, Rep. Virgil Goode, Jr. (R-VA) introduced H. Con. Res. 40. This resolution expresses the sense of Congress that the United States should not engage in the construction of a NAFTA Superhighway system or enter into a North American Union with Mexico and Canada. No companion measure has been introduced in the Senate.

Rest assured, should H. Con. Res. 40 be considered by the Senate, I will keep your comments in mind. Again, thank you for taking the time to contact me. If you would like more information on issues before the Senate, please visit my website at <http://roberts.senate.gov>. You may also sign up on my home page for a monthly electronic newsletter that will provide additional updates on my work for Kansas.

With every best wish,
Sincerely,

Pat Roberts"

I found this very intriguing so I had to immediately reply to Senator Roberts with this:

"Feb 23, 2007

Senator Roberts,

I wrote you previously asking for information about the formation of the "North American Union" and the NAFTA Superhighway. And you responded as follows: quote: "Recent media reports and websites have reported on an alleged North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) Superhighway connecting the United States, Mexico, and Canada." Emphasis on "alleged".

quote: "Plans for a new ten-lane, limited-access highway with passenger and freight rail lines running alongside the highway through the United States do not exist." Emphasis on "plans" and "do not exist".

Well, Mr. Senator, I feel obligated to point out to you more information readily available to the American public to further contradict what you say. I visited the following website: (links removed, visit the thread for external references)

Taking a statement from the aforementioned website...

quote: "An operational system derived from this pilot version of the proof-of-concept information architecture will reduce the cost and congestion and improve the efficiency, mobility and velocity of freight and security of the North American trade, thus enabling U.S., Canadian and Mexican agencies to accomplish their vital border security and trade facilitation missions - providing for the Security and Prosperity of North America."

NASCO is obviously working directly with the formed "Security and Prosperity Partnership" group(s) to further facilitate what many Americans fear.

I am very concerned that my, and many other Americans', fears are true and correct. We feel strongly that steps are being taken to facilitate what will become the North American Union, which is blatantly being built off of the foundation of the North American Free Trade Agreement.

I greatly anticipate your written correspondence, Mr. XXXXX X. XXXXXXXXX"

What does the ATS community think about the information provided?

I'll keep posting updates as I get them.

Thanks.

"It is four and a half acres of American power in the middle of the Arabian Sea but the influence of USS Dwight D Eisenhower stretches for hundreds of miles. Crew on board the aircraft carrier USS Eisenhower are on alert in the Arabian Sea. The aircraft carrier, backed by its sister vessel, a handful of destroyers and a shoal of support ships, has placed a maritime ring of steel around an increasingly unstable region. As flagship of the Fifth Fleet, the Eisenhower welcomed the arrival of a second Nimitz class nuclear powered aircraft carrier, the USS John C. Stennis, and its accompanying destroyers on Tuesday 27/2.

We have a LOT of firepower entering the gulf. They've all just arrived into position.

Found this tonight. After watching for about two hours (still playing!) I am in such awe that I am posting the link to this documentary.

This basically provides strong evidence that Holocaust did not happen as such. Contains parts from Lanzmann's Shoa, which I have seen as well. (Yes all of it)

But, if you have sat through Shoa, get ready for another long sitting.

At this time I'm unsure who the author/narrator is, it simply starts without credits. Maybe I missed it. Would like to research him/her/them further.

Hopefully enough of you will watch the entire thing as I intend to so we can discuss this.

"Iraqi women to hang for acts of resistance

By Leilani Dowell

Published Feb 17, 2007 7:56 AM

At a time when U.S. occupation troops and puppet Iraqi troops have committed hundreds of thousands of murders of Iraqi civilians, three women are being executed for their alleged role in the armed resistance. The Supreme Iraqi Criminal Court has sentenced the women to death by hanging, with the executions set for March 3 in Baghdad.

According to attorney Walid Hayali of the Iraqi Lawyers Union, 31-year-old Wassan Talib has been charged with the killing of five police officers in an attack on the police; 25-year-old Zainab Fadhil was charged for an attack on a joint patrol of the Iraqi and U.S. armies in Baghdad; and 26-year-old Liqa Muhammad was charged with the killing of an official in the Green Zone in the course of a kidnapping.

The attorney points out that the women were denied legal counsel before and during the trial, and therefore there was no lawyer present to appeal the convictions. Muhammad is still nursing a child she recently gave birth to in prison. Talib has a 3-year-old daughter with her in the prison.

Economics 101: Raise Minimum Wage and Jobs Decrease

Created by: CAConrad0825 on February 12, flags: 10, replies: 175

Just as any basic economics student finds out during the first weeks of class, a price floor will crowd out, creating a shortage. This not only applies to products but to the labor market as well.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

Companies maintain the new wage was raised to $6.75 per hour from $5.15 per hour to help the breadwinners in working-poor families. Teens typically have other means of support.

Mark Messner, owner of Pepi's Pizza in south Phoenix, estimates he has employed more than 2,000 high school students since 1990. But he plans to lay off three teenage workers and decrease hours worked by others. Of his 25-person workforce, roughly 75 percent are in high school.

"I've had to go to some of my kids and say, 'Look, my payroll just increased 13 percent,' " he said. " 'Sorry, I don't have any hours for you.' "

Messner's monthly cost to train an employee has jumped from $440 to $580 as the turnover rate remains high.

To those who praised the wage increase, you need to realize that two things occurred: 1) That most minimum wage workers are not adults struggling to raise a family, but younger workers who are trying to supplement an income. 2) The increase in set wages increases the black market for labor, something that people claim is already happening too often in this country. This first policy of the democratic congress has blown up already, but I know that it will be refuted with nonsense and non-logical thinking.

Twenty minute EVP to be released Friday

Created by: Shadowyfoe on February 18, flags: 10, replies: 80

A twenty minute Windows Messenger Live conversation between two forum members. The rather new Shadowyfoe and long time member TheRanchMan which concerns a typical MSN PC to PC conversation which ended up in a rare first hand look at the Electronic Voice Phenomena occurring right here to two of our own ATS members will be released Friday 23rd!

The release

We will be releasing a Podcast explaining the events leading up to the Electronic Voice Phenomena as well as taking the liberty to perhaps explain how we came out recording it and how it was done.

The original audio is roughly twenty minutes long and has a tad bit of static interference we will be releasing this as well as a cleaned version using audio editing software Audacity.

Please note!

*We plan to release this for any to analysis instead of keeping to in our hands. We figure we'd make good use of this!*

How the Electronic Voice Phenomena begins

It started with Joe (TheRanchMan) and I talking on the popular Windows Messenger Live chat software, in which we talked using our microphones.

Somewhere in the conversation. I'm playing a video game when all of a sudden, coming from my computer there comes a loud and long groan, the best I could compare it to is someone taking the microphone into there mouth and moaning.

I figured this was Joe jerking around as usual and I told him to stop. He replied by saying. "Stop what?" And I told him. "The damn noise you just made!" He was confused, I figured he was pulling my chain. I go back to playing my game.

The noise happens again, this time longer and louder, I start yelling at Joe to stop being its both shaking my speakers and killing my ears. He starts yelling at me that hes not doing anything.

Joe being my friend, I believe him, and get off my game in a attempt to see if its the audio in the game itself bugging out. I quit the game and wait, it happens again. The noise changes to a sort of drone, as if a subway train coming from the distance to where you stand.

(Example being if someone is a mile away, yelling constantly as he's running towards you, the sound increases.)

So at this point I'm a bit freaked, and start checking my computer for any tell tail signs that theres a problem, I find none, all the while I'm getting weird noises, these noises Joe can't hear, they are coming from my end of the connection, not his. I start signing off all my programs, leaving MSN open.

My friend Joe is very confused as to why I'm acting this way, he can't hear the noises, so I bring my mic up to my speakers as the noise occurs, he tells me that. "It's weird." and it's not coming from his house.

Please note we were the only people in both our houses during the time of this recording and they are indeed only coming from my speakers.

My mind starts thinking of possibilities and I can't help but think of the EVP's I've heard so much about, I decide to record the conversation from here on in.

I won't go into what we recorded, thats what the recording will disclose as well as the podcast, it ranges from 'breathing' noises to random slamming sounds I caught on audio, at one point we ask it questions such as "Can you hear us." It responds, and we create a sort of Q@A session with it.

*Please also note I didn't think it was positively a EVP, but as the event unfolded It became clear.*

how we recorded it

I recorded it by cranking up my volume so it could be heard clearly and put my mic up to the speakers, at this point I recorded both the Electronic Voice Phenomena, my friend Joe talking and some standard feed back from Joe's computer from sound repeating itself.

Where you come in

Alright ATS members! I'd personally love to answer questions involving the recording and things in it, as well as explaining it more for anything I've left out

We want your input!

Thank you for reading! Happy posting!

Paul Conspired to Hijack Christianity and Succeeded

Created by: sailghoti on February 22, flags: 10, replies: 102

In my humble opinion one really should mention which Christianity they espouse to believe in, the Christianity presented by Jesus Christ or the Christianity presented by Paul (AKA Saul) of Tarsus who conspired to hijack Christianity and succeed in doing so.

When I was a teenager and only beginning to loose my faith in organized religion and scripture as the word of God one of the things which bothered me most was the obvious dichotomy and conflict between the Christianity of the Gospels of Matthew, Mark and John and the alleged Christianity presented in the epistles and books written by or heavily influenced by Paul of Tarsus, AKA Saul. Christ and the Christianity he taught to his chosen and publicly acknowledged disciples was about love and peace and communism, acceptance of all who came to Him seeking God who willing to follow his instructions, humility, etc.

Instead of being publicly acknowledged by Christ as a chosen apostle we have only Paul's word that Christ chose him to be an apostle. Instead of espousing a Christianity in perfect accord with the teachings and example of Jesus Paul turned Christianity toward a more harsh and judgmental path. A perfect example of this is that while Jesus was a pioneer in the respect he showed and dignity he accorded women Paul was a shameless misogynist. We have only the word of Paul that he was chosen by God to write God's word for man. So great was the conflict between Paul's brand of Christianity and that taught by Jesus prior to his crucifixion there was much animosity, open conflict and even outright rejection between Paul and several of the disciples chosen and publicly acknowledged by Christ.

I quickly learned that long before I, much less my poorly defined misgivings about this and other problems with the Bible existed, others had delved very very deeply into this and other problems with the Bible where I only scratched the surface and a vast number of others which had not occurred to me.

Please note also that without the condemnation of the sex despising Paul (better to marry than to burn, indeed!) the only Biblical rejections of homosexuality with which I am familiar are the Old Testament passages which cite eating of shellfish, wearing of mixed fabrics and homosexuality as abominations. I haven't noticed Jerry Falwell picketing Red Lobster for serving shrimp or Wal-Mart for selling cotton polyester blend shirts. This is not a self serving observation. I am a heterosexual father of two.

I still sometimes read the Bible but usually only Psalms and other parts I consider to be stunningly great literature as well as the red letter (reportedly the words of Christ) passages of the three Gospels mentioned above. I believe in God, but this is often the God of Spinoza or Einstein.

How you can tell if you are a victim of abduction.

Created by: Southpaw11 on February 23, flags: 10, replies: 122

Do you feel as though you might have had an ABDUCTION EVENT?

Well... This is something that is dangerous to discuss "finitely". So, let's go ahead and make CERTAIN we are able to contribute the resources we might have available for those who feel they've had an ABDUCTION EVENT.

The following list of questions can be answered effectively whether you KNOW you have had this type of thing happen or NOT. These questions are a GUIDELINE to be implemented to determined IF you MAY HAVE ever had an abduction event.

You can U2U me with any and all questions... If you want to submit your answers/get a quick assessment privately... that's the way to go. I encourage ALL to post their answers though... THIS is the DATASET that might just be able to help us identify just WHO is at RISK.

These questions were developed after consideration of more than 2000 legitimate abduction cases. They are based upon a statistical dataset created based upon the CONSISTANT information provided by UNRELATED victims that HAVE NEVER MET, and live in DIFFERENT GEOGRAPHICAL AREAS.

Here ya go:

Are you of Irish, Celtic, or Native American descent?

Are you adopted?

What "monsters" were in your room as a kid?

Have you ever seen a "bigfoot"?

Have you ever seen a "man in black"?

Have you ever seen an "alien"?

Have you ever seen a "red eyed guy with a black cloak"?

Have you ever seen "shadow people" or "watchers"?

Have you ever seen a "Nordic"?

Do you have an unusual affinity with animals?

Have you ever noted unexplained puncture wounds on your body?

Have you ever noted unexplained red splotches or spots on your body?

Have you ever noted unexplained "scoops" out of your skin anywhere on your body?

Do you have a neck injury at the T3 or immediate surrounding area?

Do you have a back injury at the L5/S1 or immediate surrounding area?

Do you ever see owls?

Have you ever seen pink phosphorescent lights?

Have you ever seen a UFO?

Whether you've seen a UFO or not, do you feel "aliens" are here to "help us"? Why?

Have you ever detected the scent or odor of SULFUR or BURNT MATCHES, SOGGY CARDBOARD, MOLDY LEATHER in your home?

Have you ever detected unexplained bruising on your body?

Have you ever experienced "missing time"?

Are you unusually empathetic and/or compassionate?

Do you ever get the feeling there is "someone there"?

Have you ever noted things out place, when you KNOW they were "placed correctly"?

Ever wake up with your clothes on backward?

With your shoes on the wrong feet?

In the wrong bed?

In the wrong house?

Ever develop a pattern of waking up at 3 or 4 in the morning?

Ever have dreams so vivid you wonder if they were real?

Ever recall scents or odors from "dreams"?

Do your Parents or Grandparents have UFO stories to tell?

Do you ever have "endtimes" visions, many times with the wrong scenario, wrong dates, etc?

Do you have strange or unwarranted fear or phobia of Clowns, Racoons, Midgets, Children?

Do you ever hear noises on your roof in the middle of the night?

Have you ever seen ghosts of loved ones?

Men

Have you ever detected a "lumplike" object attached to your right testicle? OR lacerations or bleeding on the scrotum AFTER the event?

Women

Have you ever been pregnant and had the fetus simply disappear?

This video is in GMT as it's a Brittish recording. The time (EST) would be 4:54 when the "collapse" is announced, as is a 5 hour time difference.

Just as a reminder WTC7 collapsed at 5:20 EST. So the "collapse" was reported 26 minutes prior to the actual collapse of the building.

This is now the third news channel found to be reporting the collapse early and the second for the BBC. Who originally put out the report and why?

States Ban Driving Distractions

Created by: dirty\_underground on February 9, flags: 9, replies: 48

We already know some states have a ban on cellphone use while driving, but what about eating? Vermont lawmakers are considering just that. Eating, drinking, smoking, grooming; these could all be a thing of the past for drivers in some states. Similar laws are being considered in many other states. The punishment for getting caught, a fine that could be as much as $600.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

BARRE, Vt. - Put down the flute and keep your eyes on the road. And forget about sipping that cup of coffee on the way to work, or smoking a cigarette on the way home. In some states, it could soon be illegal — if it isn't already.

Emboldened by the passage of cell phone bans for drivers in some communities, states are turning their attention to other things that drive motorists to distraction.

Vermont lawmakers are considering a measure that would ban eating, drinking, smoking, reading, writing, personal grooming, playing an instrument, "interacting with pets or cargo," talking on a cell phone or using any other personal communication device while driving. The punishment: a fine of up to $600.

Similar bills are under consideration in Maryland and Texas, and Connecticut has passed one that generically bans any activity that could interfere with the safe operation of a motor vehicle.

Are we to view this as a violation of our personal rights or a law to protect us. It seems most Americans will say it is a violation of their rights. I feel common sense shouldn't need to be a law. It should be common sense for us to buckle up. We shouldn't need laws to tell us it's not a good idea to drive while holding a phone in one hand, a cigarette in the other, sipping your morning coffee all while driving 60-70mph down the street with thousands of other motorists doing the same thing. Some laws really are necessary for our own well being.

Texans, I'm Madder Than Hell and You Should Be Too!

Created by: thelibra on February 9, flags: 9, replies: 89

A Texan and a New Yorker went to visit a Californian. Upon entering the house, the Texan said "somethin's wrong with yer lights, son."

"No, it's the law," the Californian rolled his eyes, "they're CFL bulbs. Super efficient, but the light makes my skin look just ghastly!"

"Super-efficient, eh?" The New Yorker rubbed his chin and winked "I bet that saves a lot of money."

The Texan smiled, lit a piece of coal on fire, held it over his head, and said "thanks, but I'll just use this."

I can get away with that joke, being a Texan. I'm not even going to touch upon the double-standard there. It pales on comparison to (links removed, visit the thread

I caught this from a forum i use to post but basically i think the OG source is this (links removed, visit the thread for external references) but can't be sure

"Dec, 2004

Time has been one of the most complicated and less studied scientific issues since ancient times

Eight years ago, American and British scientists who conducted investigations in Antarctica made a sensational discovery. US physicist Mariann McLein told the researchers noticed some spinning gray fog in the sky over the pole on January 27 which they believed to be just ordinary sandstorm. However, the gray fog did not change the form and did not move in the course of time. The researchers decided to investigate the phenomenon and launched a weather balloon with equipment capable to register the wind speed, the temperature and the air moisture. But the weather balloon soared upwards and immediately disappeared.

In a little while, the researchers brought the weather balloon back to the ground with the help of a rope attached to it before. They were extremely surprised to see that a chronometer set in the weather balloon displayed the date of January 27, 1965, the same day 30 years ago. The experiment was repeated several times after the researchers found out the equipment was in good repair. But each time the watch was back it displayed the past time. The phenomenon was called "the time gate" and was reported to the White House.

Today investigation of the unusual phenomenon is underway. It is supposed that the whirl crater above the South Pole is a tunnel allowing to penetrate into other times. What is more, programs on launching people to other times have been started. The CIA and the FBI are fighting for gaining control over the project that may change the course of history. It is not clear when the US federal authorities will approve the experiment."

L.A. Hospital Drops Paraplegic Patient on Skid Row

Created by: khunmoon on February 11, flags: 9, replies: 78
This is outrageous. It is seldom reported, but has happened before and will happen again. This time it made it to the press. On Thursday a van from Hollywood Presbyterian Medical Center dropped a paraplegic man wearing a soiled hospital gown and a broken colostomy bag in the gutter of skid row in Los Angeles. "I can't think of anything colder than that," said LAPD Detective Russ Long, who called the case the most egregious of its kind that he has seen in his career. Witnesses to the scene, other homeless people, were quick enough to take note of the car's license-plate number. To add to the inhumane in the act, the man, unable to walk, was left without any walking aids. Witnesses tell that the man propped himself up in the door of the van. He then hurled himself from the vehicle, tumbling to the street. He pulled himself along, dragging a bag of his belongings in his clenched teeth. The witnesses alerted the LAPD.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)
Police describe the homeless people who congregate around Gladys Park, in the heart of skid row, as a tough crowd who have seen much and say little. But there was no shortage of people willing to describe what they saw about 10:45 a.m. Thursday morning, when the white hospital van pulled up several feet from the curb.

[...]
LAPD Officers Eric de la Cruz and Pernell Taylor said they arrived to find the man being carried out of the street on a chair that had been retrieved from the nearby park offices. De la Cruz later asked the victim if he had wanted to be dropped off at the location.

"He said he had nowhere else to go, and the hospital staff told him he could no longer stay there," De la Cruz said of the man, who is being treated at County-USC Medical Center.

The LAPD has accused several hospitals of dumping patients on skid row over the last two years, including Kaiser's West Los Angeles hospital, Martin Luther King Jr./Drew Medical Center and Los Angeles Metropolitan Medical Center.

I'm speechless. Much have I heard, and some I know, about healthcare in America. Being aware how little social security in general there is, I have however never, never ever imagined it could be cruel like this. This being a medical institution doing it, I just can't find words to express my rage and feelings.

Is it really so, without health insurance you are literally left to die? With no mercy, no care, without charity. In the richest nation on the planet?

A nation that can afford to spend about 300 million dollars a day on a war running, if not endlessly then for decades to come, cannot take care of its weakest and disabled members. Who was it that said, "a society is judged by the way it takes care of its weakest members"?

I'm not gonna praise my Scandinavian background here, but this reality snippet can't help but make me feel that more gratefull for it.

What angers me is the soon 10 billion dollars waisted on killing a people, destroying a country, destabilizing a region, polarizing religious and ethnic groups beyond any conciliation for decades, possibly centuries to come -- money used to create so much pain and suffering could have given free healthcare to Americans for centuries. I can only find one word for it: EVIL.

But I got to ask myself is this what the American dream has ended up as? Heartless, ego-centered and with absolute no campassion.

The last thing I want to do is insult ordinary American people, because I know far most of them is as outrage as I am over this. But I gotta say, shame on any society who can let it pass. What will the next thing be? Euthanasia for those who can't pay?

A Chip With The Power Of A Supercomputer

Created by: RedGolem on February 13, flags: 9, replies: 29
Intel has unveiled an 80 core microprocessor chip. Intel plans to demonstrate the teraflop chip at the Solid State Circuits conference in San Francisco. The chip in codenamed Polaris. The chip can make a trillion calculations per second. Eleven year ago that would have taken a super computer of two thousand five hundred square feet. This new terra flop chip uses about the same power as today's dual core processors. This new processor could be used for image recantation or gaming that will have graphics that look like filmed television shows.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

The 80-core Polaris can crunch a trillion mathematical calculations a second, a feat that 11 years ago would have required a 2,500-square-foot supercomputer. Polaris's size and the fact that it uses about the same power as today's 2-core processors mean that it could someday provide unprecedented processing power within a home computer.

Such muscle would be useful, for example, in developing videogames that look as real as TV shows, or in providing imaging recognition, which means a computer could recognize photos and catalog them appropriately. But beyond gaming and specialty applications, the need for a desktop supercomputer in the home is not yet clear. "That's a little bit nebulous," Martin Reynolds, analyst for Gartner, said.

But assuming that the technology industry finds a use for Polaris in the five to eight years it will take Intel to move from experiment to production, there are still a number of challenges that will have to be met before the chip enters the consumer or business markets.

We all like using computers hear. So a new processor this fast sounds great to all of us. The article however does say that the chip is about eleven years away from production. Even then we may not see the eighty core chip on the market, however we probably will be seeing twenty or forty core processors on the market. Eleven years ago that much computing power required a super computer larger than my house. It will soon be on a chip, so think back a little bit and compare what you were using eleven years ago to now. I also wonder what that much computing power will be used for in a desk top PC? A lot good I am sure, but some bad also. Could that much power be used for say optical cloaking?

Bank of America's New Credit Card Targets Illegal Immigrants

Created by: Digital\_Reality on February 13, flags: 9, replies: 71

NEW YORK — Bank of America Corp. has begun offering credit cards to customers without Social Security numbers, typically illegal immigrants, the Wall Street Journal reported on Tuesday.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

In recent years, banks across the country have been offering checking accounts and even mortgages to the nation's fast-growing ranks of undocumented immigrants, most of whom are Hispanic, the paper said, adding these immigrants generally have not been able to get major credit cards.

The new Bank of America card is open to people who lack both a Social Security number and a credit history, as long as they have held a checking account with the bank for three months without an overdraft, the Journal said.

Bank of America tested the program last year at five branches in Los Angeles, and last week expanded it to 51 branches in Los Angeles County, home to the largest concentration of illegal immigrants in the U.S., the Journal said.

A Bank of America spokesman was not immediately available to comment.

I saw this on the news this morning and was in shock. I feel the Illegal Immigrant problem is spiraling out of control. Drivers license, credit cards, welfare, workers comp.

Whats the point anymore?

Report: Missing Iraqi-American in Video
Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq - A Shiite militant group has released a video of an Iraqi-American soldier who was kidnapped nearly four months ago while visiting his wife in downtown Baghdad, an American television network reported Wednesday.

The U.S. government has offered a $50,000 reward leading to the recovery of Iraqi-born American Army translator Ahmed Qusai al-Taayie, a 41-year-old reserve soldier from Ann Arbor, Mich., who was abducted by gunmen on Oct. 23. "

Disappointing, i had hoped the resistance would kill this traitor.

Perhaps they haven't done so because he is a US citizen.

Perhaps his iraqiness and hence treaury is under question.

Or maybe it's just that his pathetic excuse for a life isn't worth cutting short with a bullet but more valuable as a bargaining chip. The money they are ransoming him with would help the cause, but i doubt they'll get a dime, really if he has an iraqi visa they should just shoot him now, don't even video it, it's not worth the time.

BTW. this new shia group are called "ahlul bayt". Told ya the shia's where against you. What are you doing in iraq?

The nation's first public school with a curriculum mostly dedicated to Arabic language and culture will open next fall in New York and American taxpayers will finance it.

How this has not been on the news is beyond me, taxpayer funded school whose focus is the teaching of the Arabic culture.

What happened to English, American History are they now considered elective courses?

I could understand if it was a private school as we have many privately funded academies but using U.S. taxpayer funds to do this is appalling..

Why There Were No Helicopter Rescues At The WTC's On 9-11

Created by: Wizard\_In\_The\_Woods on February 24, flags: 9, replies: 364

Dear Everybody:

Have any of you wondered why on 9-11 no helicopter rescue attempts were made to get people out of the twin towers? I know I did. It was one of the first thoughts that entered my mind while watching the buildings burn on television that morning. Why don't they start getting people off from the rooftops? What were they expecting, that firefighters after climbing up 100 stories — gear and all — would be able to carry those down who were too injured to walk on their own?

Of course not. The brutal truth is, those people 'needed to die'. Everyone in the upper floors would have witnessed that there were no planes. And they would have seen all sorts of other 'oddities' (explosives going off, etc.). Their exit paths were purposely cut off. The doors to the roof area were locked and in all likelihood disabled with brass pin lock inserts. Their downward escape routes were deliberately smoke flooded. The planners of 9-11 needed to make sure no one would live to tell what they really saw.

9-11 happened in New York City, not Podunk USA. There would have been plenty of helicopter capacity available. Certainly there were Sikorsky Sea Dragons somewhere nearby. Those puppies can haul some cargo. Ten flights and everyone would have been off. No, none of this happened. Why not? Because it wasn't supposed to, that's why.

Well, if you can't make out much, have a look at the second image which I have annotated and marked certain anomalous structures. It looks like the ruins of an ancient civilization with a 'temple' on one side of a small city with what looks like the city's water tank towards the top right. This depression is too regular in shape to be a crater.

Flight 77 FDR research

Created by: Caustic Logic on February 28, flags: 9, replies: 122

Not a story on the BBC footage! Yay!

I've been looking into Flight 77's flight Data recorder, recovered at the Pentagon, and it's an odd case -

Several notes:

- Animation questions: the supposedly FDR-based animation used in Pilots49T video "Pandora's Black Box." It is what established the new northerly flight path, new altitude questions, and stops short at the right time but with the plane in the wrong place - in-air and short of the Pentagon. Is it accurate?

- I located a copy of the NTSB FDR study for 77. PDF available here: appears ov't and official. (links removed, visit the thread for external references)

- This document was released directly to Pilots member "UnderTow" via FOIA lawsuit in July 2006. It looks legit but has not been widely published.

- The >animation was obtained separately by Pilot via "Snowygrouch," a UK researcher, who says he got it straight from the NTSB, again via FOIA requests. Does the FOIA apply to foreign nationals as well? He handed it over to the Pilots, who were able to thus use it and show the new flight path questions. (links removed, visit the thread for external references)

- Both the study and the animation were sent to CTERS, both signed off by the same officer, Melba Moye, according to the cover letters, on July 25 and August 11 respectively. Anything from 77 FDR is ignored elsewhere, only Pilots for 9/11 Truth are cavorting with it. The 9/11 commission used its altitude readings, but only as copied from another doc, avoiding any direct mention or citation of this FDR study.

- Neither the animation nor the FDR study were released along with the "total" NTSB material released by the National Security Archive Aug 11 2006.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

According to them, the FDR info for Flight 77 NEVER EXISTED! Only 93's survived, they say...

- But of course it does exist, the data is now semi-public, and the Pilots say the study matches the animation. It doesn't. The altitude in the animation read "300" at takeoff, and "180" while well above the Pentagon at 9:37:45. The FDR study shows the plane beginning and ending at zero altitude (ground level) at 9:37 Other discrepancies are possible as well, but that's enough for me to start wondering what else might be off. the flight path? Is tis even based on the FDR?

- Why did the CIT ignore the FDR in making the PentaCon video (other than a brief nod to the Pilots video), even tho it seems the most damning evidence? Are they aware of some problem with it? I it really authentic?

I'm still sorting it out.. just fishing for thoughts.

Created by: Sunsetspawn on February 22, flags: 8, replies: 78

Regardless of your political or conspiratorial affiliation there is a certain glaring fact about G.W. Bush that is just too hard to ignore.

He acts like a buffoon

Here's a quick clip of Bush in case you've been living under a rock

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

There's plenty more, but I think we all know what I'm talking about.

Bush's grammar and pronunciation, let alone his behavior, are oafish.

So what's going on here? Is the leader of the free world and the only remaining superpower a dunce?

I've tried to think of what really is going on, and I have a few theories.

1. Bush is an absolute idiot. His daddy bought his grades and his credentials and has paved the way for his success.

2. Bush is mostly an idiot, but has been clever enough to con his way through life using his social status as leverage.

3. Bush was once a smart guy, but substance abuse got the best of his mental faculties.

4. Bush is exactly as intelligent as his Yale performance dictates, his IQ is at least 125 and his motivation is way above average, however, in order to relate to the common man, his public persona is a complete ruse.

5. Five is more conspiratorial. Bush has been the subject of some sort of mind control that damaged his brain in the process.

Now, I've heard that there is footage of a very articulate and eloquent Bush out there somewhere, and if anyone has any links that would put my first two theories straight to bed.

Also, if anyone has any alternative theories, or, in fact, knows the answer, please, by all means, fill me in.

Est. 300,000+ Innocent Iraqi's Killed

Created by: dirty\_underground on February 22, flags: 8, replies: 72

I wanted to make this thread as a tribute to those innocent civilians who have suffered and lost their lives due to this senseless war. To date, over 655,000 Iraqi civilians have lost their lives compared to our 3,000 troops. As people live their lives it is quite easy to forget that on this foreign soil there is a war going on. People's lives are being affected. Each day I will post more pictures of the victims of war. Let us be reminded of the citizens of Iraq. These people are not terrorists and do not deserve to be treated as such. All of our lives are being destroyed because of this. The violence needs to stop here before we find ourselves in the middle of a war on our soil.

Let us also not forget the troops who have given their lives for our nation. Here is a searchable (links removed, visit the thread for external references) of our troops. If any of these are personal to you and you would like to share information and/or a photo please feel free to post.

"There are four or five generals and admirals we know of who would resign if Bush ordered an attack on Iran," a source with close ties to British intelligence said. "There is simply no stomach for it in the Pentagon, and a lot of people question whether such an attack would be effective or even possible."

A British defence source confirmed that there were deep misgivings inside the Pentagon about a military strike. "All the generals are perfectly clear that they don't have the military capacity to take Iran on in any meaningful fashion. Nobody wants to do it and it would be a matter of conscience for them.

Can We Even Stop Global Warming?

Created by: LogansRun on February 2, flags: 7, replies: 185

The worlds leading climate scientists warn that global warming is so severe that it could continue for centuries. People can expect heat waves, droughts, floods & hurricanes to get worse over the next century including as much as a 10 deg Fahrenheit jump right here in the US by 2100.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

Temperatures would spike higher near the poles, according to the report. Within 22 years _ whether greenhouse gases are controlled or not _ most of the Northern Hemisphere will see more high temperature extremes, the report showed. Places like Northern Africa will get even less rainfall.

The worst could mean more than 1 million dead and hundreds of billions of dollars in costs by 2100, said Kevin Trenberth of the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Colorado, one of many study co-authors. He said that adapting will mean living with more extreme weather such as severe droughts, more hurricanes and wildfires.

The signal that we received from the science is crystal clear," said Yvo de Boer, the executive secretary of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change, a multi-national body that tries to change policy to fight global warming.

Bear with me as this is my first thread.

Global warming is something that has concerned me for years. I am still fearful that so much debate surrounds this topic when the worlds leading climate experts are screaming for action to change our ways or we will face dire consequences. There are debates raging in other threads on this very topic, but doubters I am afraid have their heads in the sand. This isn't about money or politics, this is about the survival of our way of life and perhaps even our very lives. I am interested to see how the nay sayers respond to this as there are still many skeptics out there who claim it is a natural warming. The only credible scientific reports to counter global warming seem to come from scientists on the payrolls of such corporations as Exxon and Shell.

EXXON Posts Record Breaking Profits Of Nearly $40 Billion

Created by: jsobecky on February 3, flags: 7, replies: 30

EXXON corporation set a new US record for profits this year. This is a US record, and probably a world record, at that.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

IRVING, Texas -- Exxon Mobil Corp. posted the largest annual profit today in U.S. history -- $39.5 billion -- even as earnings for the last quarter of the year declined four percent.

The company cited lower natural gas realizations and refining margins which were partly offset by higher crude realizations and improved chemical margins as the reason for the decline in net income, said MarketWatch.

Exxon Mobil's annual profit was up from its previous record of $36.1 billion it set in 2005.

I am a conservative and a believer in capitalism. But I also think that EXXON could plow some of those profits back into R&D to find cheaper sources of energy for all of us. Do they have a social conscience?

Dangers of Amalgam/ Mercury Fillings Video - Actual Smoking Teeth Footage

Created by: Realtruth on February 4, flags: 7, replies: 80

This is the best and most credible documentary I have ever seen on the issue of Mercury or amalgam fillings that most of have. It is a must see if you or your loved ones have any fillings at all.

Amalgam fillings are toxic plain and simple and most people are being poisoned by their own mouth. Mercury attacks the nerve receptors of the human body and accumaltes in almost all vital organs.

I had all my amalgams removed in 1997 and started to feel like a new person almost immediately. When my dentist removed them he put them into a "Hazardous Waste Container". WTF! they are ok in my mouth, but now they have to be in a Hazardous Waste Container? I asked him why and he gave a very vague answer. He also made a digital voice recording and made me sign a document saying I was the one that wanted them removed. ????? Maybe for future litigation?

Anyhow I got to thinking and did some more research and I found that the fillings once removed must go to a hazardous waste dump and if they are disposed of improperly will result in heavy fines.

I am not a researcher but lets see.....It's fine in our mouths and they will swear up and down it's safe, but once remove they have to go to a toxic dump?? LOL!

Doctor himself:

"Somehow I just do not feel comfortable storing a material that the EPA has designated a waste disposal hazard. I cannot throw it in the trash or bury it in the ground.....so we have chosen not to stock it in our office."

I have also read somewhere on the net that when this all breaks open wide that it will make the cigarette issues look like a joke.

My trip to Montauk (Camp Hero)

Created by: destillat on February 4, flags: 7, replies: 40

Hi everyone, this will be my first post on ATS. I've been a lurker for the passed two years or so and I'm now ready to start sharing my thoughts and experiences.

Recently I took a trip out to Montauk Point to get some photos of the old air force base, Camp Hero. I'm very into urban exploring and Camp Hero is one of my favorite places on Long Island to explore, especially in the DEAD of winter when no one is around to bother you. I have read every Montauk book and dozens of websites about the Montauk Project. I believe the truth lies somewhere in between the writing of conspiracy theorists and the debunkers. I have witnessed too many oddities on the base in the past to believe that nothing has happened there.

On a cold and boring winter night I decided it would be the perfect time to take the hour long drive out to Montauk and do some exploring. I loaded up my digital camera, some winter gear and my mag lite and took off. I hadn't been to Camp Hero since the summer and wanted to see what sort of changes had taken place since then. Camp Hero is pretty desolate and ominous during the summer, so it must be even more so during the winter. A perfect scenario for some photography.

So what did I see? Nothing too out of the ordinary, although I felt some of the most unsettling and unnerving feelings of my entire life while walking around in the dark by myself. The base is very desolate and dark - incredibly creepy and your mind will play tricks on you if you let it. I was pretty disappointed not to see any grey aliens or reptillains. I experienced no time lapses, no metal objects placed in my head.. not that I currently know of.

Here are some photos from my short trip.

Rudolph Giuliani Close to Entering Race for Republican Nomination

Created by: Togetic on February 5, flags: 7, replies: 43

Former New York Mayor Rudolph Giuliani filed a statement of candidacy with the Federal Election Commission. This document indicates his intention to run for the Republican Nomination in 2008. This move is not unexpected, as Giuliani has been mentioned as a possible candidate since he left office in 2002. He was elevated to national status after his handling of the September 11th, 2001 attacks on the world Trade Center.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

In a sign that he's serious about running for the White House, the two-term mayor was filing a so-called "statement of candidacy" with the Federal Election Commission. In the process, he was eliminating the phrase "testing the waters" from earlier paperwork establishing his exploratory committee, said an official close to Giuliani's campaign.

The steps Monday put Giuliani on the same level, legally, as McCain and Romney, the other two top-tier GOP candidates who have formed regular exploratory committees and filed statements of candidacy.

Behind the scenes, Giuliani has been busy supplementing his cadre of New York loyalists with Washington-savvy political operatives, establishing a fundraising network, and setting up a campaign headquarters _ signs of a campaign moving forward.

Giuliani is a candidate with strong credentials, and comes in with a high approval rating. However, I think that once his social policies come center-stage, he will find himself unable to build a coalition of primary-voting Republicans. Among other controversial stances, he is for partial-birth abortion. Furthermore, he has had a number of divorces, including his most high-profile while he was mayor. For a time, he was living in half of the mayoral mansion with his mistress while his wife and children lived in the other half. It seems unlikely that conservative, religious Republicans will gravitate towards him once those stories are told.

Obama's Church: Not Your Average Christian Church

Created by: jsobecky on February 8, flags: 7, replies: 186

Barack Obama has encountered questions and controversy regarding his past schooling and his religion. But his supporters have consistently portrayed him as being just your regular Christian, and have pointed to the church he is a member of, the Chicago's Trinity United Church Of Christ as proof. However, a closer look at this church reveals that it is strongly dedicated to Black values and traditions, and imparts political messages to it's members.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

Trinity United Church of Christ

About Us

We are a congregation which is Unashamedly Black and Unapologetically Christian... Our roots in the Black religious experience and tradition are deep, lasting and permanent. We are an African people, and remain "true to our native land," the mother continent, the cradle of civilization. God has superintended our pilgrimage through the days of slavery, the days of segregation, and the long night of racism. It is God who gives us the strength and courage to continuously address injustice as a people, and as a congregation. We constantly affirm our trust in God through cultural expression of a Black worship service and ministries which address the Black Community.

Trinity United Church of Christ adopted the Black Value System written by the Manford Byrd Recognition Committee chaired by Vallmer Jordan in 1981. We believe in the following 12 precepts and covenantal statements. These Black Ethics must be taught and exemplified in homes, churches, nurseries and schools, wherever Blacks are gathered. They must reflect on the following concepts:

1. Commitment to God
2. Commitment to the Black Community
3. Commitment to the Black Family
4. Dedication to the Pursuit of Education
5. Dedication to the Pursuit of Excellence
6. Adherence to the Black Work Ethic
7. Commitment to Self-Discipline and Self-Respect
8. Disavowal of the Pursuit of "Middleclassness"
9. Pledge to make the fruits of all developing and acquired skills available to the Black Community
10. Pledge to Allocate Regularly, a Portion of Personal Resources for Strengthening and Supporting Black Institutions
11. Pledge allegiance to all Black leadership who espouse and embrace the Black Value System
12. Personal commitment to embracement of the Black Value System.

This seems to conflict with Obama's message of oneness and inclusion when he makes his speeches in front of the public. The church is also strongly very political and anti-Bush administration, as illustrated by the sermon What's Goin' On, included in the source link.

Chemical Plant Explosion In Central U.S.

Created by: RedGolem on February 7, flags: 7, replies: 46

Several explosions engulfed a chemical plant in the industrial section of Kansas City. The Explosions and the following cloud of black smoke forced evacuations of people in the area and schools. There were no reports of injuries but the cloud was reported to be dropping a sticky substance as it moved across the metropolitan area. The fire is said to have begun when several 55 gallon drums exploded triggering more explosions and fires including blasts from there thirty-thousand gallon tankers.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

Fire Chief Richard Dyer said officials were evacuating a one-square-mile area around the plant and were going door-to-door through several blocks to get people out.

The Kansas City school district sent students from six elementary schools in the area to a high school to keep them as far from the explosions as possible, a district spokeswoman said.

The fire began after several 55-gallon drums containing chemicals exploded, touching off more explosions and fires, including blasts from three 30,000-gallon tankers, Fire Marshal Floyd Peoples said.

First off I know accidents do happen. But what I think needs to be recognized as the key hear is the 55 gallon drums that the news story says exploded 55 gallon drums do not just explode for no reason. Yes, they had chemicals in them. Yes, the chemicals were probably flammable and the fumes explosive, but they still do not just explode. It is not difficult to hide something in a 55 gallon drum. If someone wanted to start a string of explosions in a chemical plant that is not a bad way to go about doing it.

Black Apparition

Created by: Valhallas Butler on February 8, flags: 7, replies: 49

I am a police officer with a major Northwest American agency. In 2000 I was working a 10 pm - 6 am shift in a one officer car. I was dispatched to back another car which had two officers (a rookie and his Field Trainer) on a residential burglary in-progress, in a remote farm area. The residence was a large, old, three story house with a very large unfinished basement (so four levels altogether and a very unusual design for the NW) and was situated at the end of a long dirt road (1/4 mile) that was gated and locked at the road entry.

The caller was a 15 year old girl who was babysitting her younger sister and a neighbor child (both about 8). They were in an upstairs room playing and heard several large crashes downstairs. They called 911 (could not reach the parents' cell phones). While on the phone with the dispatcher they began to hear heavy foot steps coming up the stairs. The steps would stop near the top and then begin again at the bottom. Both I and the other unit were a fair distance from the area and we were both running "code" (lights/sirens) for about 10-15 minutes to get there. While enroute the dispatcher was updating us via our radios about what was happening as she talked with the children. The dispatcher said the kids were extremely frightened, crying and that she (the dispatcher) could hear the crashes and the heavy footsteps coming over the telephone line.

I arrived at the gated dirt road about 1 minute ahead of the other unit. It was dark and therefore I could not see the house from the road. I also could not get the gate open, so when the other unit arrived, the three of us jumped the gate and started on foot towards the house. The dispatcher told the children we were coming and the kids decided enough was enough. They left the house by a back stairwell and window and at a full run they met us about half way down the road. We directed them to a neighbor who was awake and curious about the police activity and then continued to the house. The house had a huge front bay window (about 12-15 feet high and about 15 feet wide). About 50 yards from the front door I could see into the lit house through this window. As we approached I saw a black figure, the height of the window, and about 5 feet wide, shaped like the "grim reaper" black robe (head, shoulders, body) move into the window, look at us for a few seconds, even though we were in the darkness, and then it disappeared. I actually "felt" it looking at me. I was shocked, stunned, amazed. I didn't say anything at first until one of the other officers asked if we had seen that. We entered the house and heard an immediate crash in the basement. We ended up checking the whole house and never found anything. There were no other unlocked exits except where we entered and the girls left. Our rookie was blocking the door to prevent an escape as we checked the remainder of the house. I've never been back there, but I know the family moved shortly after that.

U.S.: Iraq's Deadliest Bomb Made By Iran

Created by: Togetic on February 10, flags: 7, replies: 31

The United States is claiming that the deadliest bomb used in Iraq against Coalition Forces is manufactured in Iran. The sophistication of the bomb, the existence of similar known-Iranian bombs used by Hezbollah, and serial numbers all point to Iranian construction. The White House is poised this weekend to reveal information taken from investigations and captured prisoners that they say points to a strong Iranian influence in Iraq. An intelligence assessment given to the New York Times reveals that the training of Shia forces is sanctioned by Iran's Supreme Leader Khamenei and is believed to be a warning to the United States not to attack Iran.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

The most lethal weapon directed against American troops in Iraq is an explosive-packed cylinder that United States intelligence asserts is being supplied by Iran.

The assertion of an Iranian role in supplying the device to Shiite militias reflects broad agreement among American intelligence agencies, although officials acknowledge that the picture is not entirely complete.

The focus of American concern is known as an "explosively formed penetrator," a particularly deadly type of roadside bomb being used by Shiite groups in attacks on American troops in Iraq. Attacks using the device have doubled in the past year, and have prompted increasing concern among military officers. In the last three months of 2006, attacks using the weapons accounted for a significant portion of Americans killed and wounded in Iraq, though less than a quarter of the total, military officials say.

The existence of clear, physical evidence is what is crucial here. This is not a military analyst's position paper, this is not based on speculation. This is real, based on objective facts.

However, there are those who believe that the United States is trying to inflate Iran's role in Iraq, but if so, why would they be proceeding so slowly and deliberately as they are here? Furthermore, if this isn't conclusive evidence of Iranian influence, then what evidence is sufficient? They know that a war in Iran is precisely what they don't want.

The United States and the International Community needs to be clear: Iran must be an open and constructive partner in rebuilding Iraq. Even assuming that they have Iraq's best interest at heart, killing soldiers and civilians through subversive operations is not going to achieve that goal. They should be welcome to participate in the new Iraq, but they must not undermine the effort.

Women Goad Toddler's to Fight!

Created by: stumason on February 15, flags: 7, replies: 28

In a shocking case heard at Plymouth Magistrates Court, UK, four women are being tried for goading two toddlers, a boy aged 2 and a girl aged 3, to fight. They all have admitted the charges, but one woman was known to have said to Police "I didn't see any harm in toughening them up. I done the same with my own children."

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

Footage of four women goading toddlers to fight has "stunned" police and social services in Devon.

The seven-minute footage, filmed at a house by one woman, was shown in a case at Plymouth Magistrates' Court.

In the clip, a boy wearing a nappy was called a "wimp" for not hitting a girl back after she struck him in the face.

The boy, aged two, is seen crying after being punched in the face by the three-year-old girl and is told by one of the four women in the room "not to be a wimp or a faggot" and to hit her back.

The four women, all from the same family, are heard laughing as the toddlers are urged to keep on fighting.

Well, there I was defending the UK in the thread about the recent UNICEF report and then this turns up on the news.

There is a serious issue, especially in low income families, of parent's obviously being either incapable or unwilling to properly care for and educate their children on how to be well-behaved.

While this is not the norm by any stretch of the imagination, the fact that people are out there doing things like this, or as in another recent case, raping and murdering a 2 year old girl is absolutely disgusting.

But what can be done? With a generation of "Chav" parent's bringing their kid's up to be Chav's, or worse yet, performing horrible act's of cruelty on their own offspring, this is a troubling trend.

The greatest injustice/ conspiracy in the world - Oppression of Women

Created by: Azazelus on February 16, flags: 7, replies: 72

First off let me give you a little background as to why I am posting this thread...

My mother (a Free Will Baptist) has always been a highly religious Christian woman. She brought my sister and myself up in the church, but thankfully, she also taught us to think for ourselves. She did a wonderful job, and I couldn't ask for more. Her and my Father divorced in 1987. I was 7, my sister 1.

Recently, Mom has been telling me of issues going on at the church. The preacher seems to be pushing the issue of a woman's role as being the silent, "Do as your man says, and let the men run the world" role. What sparked the whole issue was the current debate as to whether women can be ordained as ministers within the Free Will Baptist network.

The preacher has also made references in the past such as "behind every good woman is a good man" and "What is next? If we allow women to preach the word of God, then should we also allow Homosexuals?"....

Now, all of this really angered me. Well, at least more than I already am with the conservative Christian agenda. Yes, I know I wasn't there to hear the comments in person, but why should I not believe my own mother?

Since the beginning of time, Women have been the most persecuted people on the entire face of the Earth. Not only do all major religions pretty much teach the role of the woman to be lesser than that of a man, but also preach that women are nothing more than possessions.

My question is simple.... Why do you women allow this? How can anyone out there follow ANYONE that says that one is lesser than the other?

We are all equal, people. All equal to one. One species, part of one universe, part of one energy. We are supposed to love, yet we continue to divide the one into many.

Without woman, not a single one of us would be here. So, religious text says man was created first. Without woman, there would not have been anything past that.

I have been more than tempted to carry myself to church and give everyone a sermon of my own. Surely, it would be a shock and awe campaign, as it would be going against everything they had ever been taught. I am sure most women would also take offense, even though I'm practically fighting for them. If it doesn't follow the normalcy that they have been taught, people are afraid to challenge it. Anyone who would challenge my idea out there, go ahead. To me, if you truly believe that as a man, you are superior to a woman, then you are a sexist. I don't care what God you follow, but sexism leads to separatism, and separatism is not holy. No, I am not a bitter woman that many of you now see me as, but a man that sees the truth. It doesn't matter if you are a woman or a man. Homosexual or Heterosexual. If anyone wants to teach love and compassion to anyone who wants to listen, then go for it. Why must we try to say who can and who cannot? I guess this was more of a rant, but I do hope I have made someone out there think about it. Have a good day!

This may sound a tad outre but i may have discovered an anomalous flying saucer skimming close to the antarctic hills in a google earth tour of the continent today.
i think i managed to save it on my pc?but havent the skill to upload it here..... can i email it to someone who could or just post the coordinates and you go see for yourself first...???
( 7 2 d e g 1 0 m i n 1 8 . 7 5 s e c S o u t h                      b y

Have a look and then dis me after... i swear i was just idly flipping along looking for the entrance to the hollow earth ot a sercet CIA pot farm or whatever....

I think it must be a large flying saucer but my lap top wont show detail at magnification??

Raptor Report from Red Flag 2007/1

Created by: bios on February 18, flags: 7, replies: 52
Some of you may know that Intelgurl (Natalie) is out at Creech AFB, and because of this close proximity to Nellis she had several opportunities to view some of the action at Red Flag. Because she is currently unable to engage in internet activity where she is, she called me with this report:
In case you were unaware, this was the first Red Flag that the Raptor has participated in and they apparently flew with British GR-4 Tornados and Australian F-111's as well as US B-2's, F-117's (you thought they were retired, didn't you?) F-15's and F-16's.
The quoted phrase that every pilot seemed to be saying after coming down from flying with the Raptors was "unfair advantage".
It was stressed in more than one press & industry conference that this Red Flag was not a promotional for the F-22's, the aggressors tried every tactic they could to bring down the Raptor, there was simulated air defense systems using very sophisticated technology, as well as various forms of jamming and ECM.
At this writing there are no official numbers or stats, but according to the pilots and support personnel, the Raptor "cleaned house" as one British pilot stated.

District of the Goddess Columbia

Created by: ViolatoR on February 19, flags: 7, replies: 28
The Goddess and Washington D.C.
- or
The Goddess of Washington D.C.
The Origin of Columbia
Today I would like to discuss the Goddess and how it is associated with the capitol of America - the District of Columbia. There will be plenty of background information, but I will try to maintain emphasis on the most recent aspect of the goddess as Columbia.

To begin..."Wikipedia: "Though he never set foot in what became the United States, Columbus is often viewed as a hero because of his pivotal role in U.S. history." Columbus was fortunate enough to have a very symbolic name. It would later be used to a great extent in America for its many meanings and aspects, and slight historical significance. Infact Columbia would become the name of a new Goddess for a New World.

"- Almost from the moment the New World was discovered, it was seen in mythological terms as an exotic goddess, an Indian Queen dressed in feathers and furs riding an exotic beast like an armadillo and armed with a tomahawk.

The Catholic south adapted the idea of the Goddess of the New World into the ever-expanding hagiology of the Catholic Church. The Virgin of Guadalupe allowed the archetype to become personal, a connection to the land and its ancestors, while joining a larger universalist vision inside the Church. In the largely Protestant north, things went quite differently.

The 17th century's Indian Goddess became a tamer Indian Princess, modelled on the archetypal story of Pocahontas. ... As the 18th century passed, and America grew more developed and its people more educated, the Indian princess gained a touch of Greek elegance. "By the late 1790s," folk-art historian Nancy Jo Fox comments, "it was not clear whether a feathered Indian Princess had changed into a Greek goddess or whether a Greek goddess had placed feathers or plumes in her hair."

Her Many Other Names

Most Female/Virgin/Goddess symbolism comes from the constellation Virgo. The Virgin, Virgo was impregnated by God on the Spring Equinox as the Sun passed into Virgo on March 21st. Nine months later the Son of God is born on the Winter Solstice. God's sun/son is born or rather re-born every year after the Sun stops on the Tropic of Capricorn for 2 days and on the third day rises from death and is re-incarnated into the world. It then proceeds to come back towards the Northern Hemisphere as the "light of the world."

(visit the thread to view linked images)

The New World Virgin Goddess Columbia was just a new manifestation of the ancient consort and virgin mother of god. Depicted in Christianity as the Virgin Mary, Columbia was created out of Virginia and Maryland. To the Masons, the Square is the female aspect. Washington's original plan for D.C. was a large square with the future Washington Monument (male symbol, compass) at the center.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

In Egypt the trinity consists of Isis, Osiris, and Horus the son. Isis can be seen as the ultimate female deity."http://touregypt.net/godsofegypt/isis.htm - Isis may be the oldest deity in Egypt, and certainly the oldest to survive the ages in much the same form. She may also be the most important, for although the other gods were worshipped widely, Isis was worshipped almost universally by all Egyptians. The major goddess of the Egyptian pantheon, she had many of the same attributes of other mother-goddesses found all over the world."

Isis was as powerful, if not more powerful, than Osiris and Ra. Isis was also known as Sopdet, consort of Sah. Sopdet (Spdt, Sepedet) is Sothis in greek. In 'The Lamentations of Isis and Nephthys for Osiris', Isis calls herself Sopdet. Sopdet was also connected to the goddess Satet at Abu (Elephantine).

Besides these names, the same aspects of any Goddess can be found in:

Aphrodite, Ishtar, Black Madonna, Mary/Maya, Goddess Athena, Goddess Astarte, Anunit, Astarte and Atarsamain.

She was the light-giver at this season of the year and was called Khut.

As the mighty earth-goddess her name was Usert.

As the Great Goddess of the Underworld she was Thenenet.

As the power which shot forth the Nile flood, she was Sati, and Sept.

As the embracer of the land and producer of fertility by her waters she was Anqet.

As the producer and giver of life she was Ankhet.

As the goddess of cultivated lands and fields she was Sekhet.

As the goddess of the harvest she was Renenet.

As the goddess of food which was offered to the gods, she was Tcheft, and lived in the Temple of Tchefau.

As the great lady of the Underworld, who assisted in transforming the bodies of the blessed dead into those wherein they were to live in the realm of Osiris, she was Ament - the "hidden" goddess. As Ament she was declared to be the mother of Ra.

To the Greeks she was known as Demeter and to the Romans as Ceres.

To the Chinese protestors of Red Square as the goddess of Democracy (visit the thread to view linked images), (visit the thread to view linked images)

And of course the Goddess of the New World - Lady Liberty - Columbia.

Attributes of the Goddess

The Goddess can be represented in many different ways. As Venus she is depicted as, or on a clam shell. She is often depicted as a 5 pointed star, or wearing a pentacle as a crown. There's the Triple Goddess of the 3 phases of the moon. The flag of the District of Columbia has 3 five-pointed stars on it. As the star

Sirius she is the Blazing Star and represents water and the color blue, the Spirit of Wisdom and the Brightly Radiating One or Shinning One.

The sycamore specifically was regarded as a manifestation of the goddesses Nut, Isis and Hathor, who was even given the title, "Lady of the Sycamore." Also as the virgin Columbian Flower with it's 5-Petals. As Innana, Isis, Athena and Minerva she is often depicted with an Owl.

Pictures -

But perhaps the most attributes come when in the form of Columbia.

"<http://www.goddesscolumbia.com/Columbia.html> - She is most often shown with an eagle, broken chains and pottery, a cornucopia, images of George Washington, a laurel wreath, a liberty pole and cap, a liberty tree, an olive branch, a rattlesnake, a shield and a stone tablet. The statue of Columbia that used to stand behind the speaker's chair in the House of Representatives is a fine example. In this one we see the Eagle, and on the other side a snake coiled around a Greek column."

Mother Earth, Primeval Waters, Constellations and Aliens?

[2] And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.

Early in Egyptian history, Isis had absorbed the attributes of all the great primitive goddesses, and of all the local goddesses such as Nekhebet, Uatchet, Net, Bast, Hathor, etc., and she was even identified as the female counterpart of the primeval abyss of water from which sprang all life.

Virgin Mary. The name Mary could have some significance to it's connection with the sea, the Abyss, or the water of life which brings fertility to the land in the form of rain or annual floods.

"Usual English form of Maria, which was the Latin form of the New Testament Greek names Μαριαμ (Mariam) or Μαρια (Maria) (the spellings are interchangeable), which were from the Hebrew name מִרְיָם (Miryam). The meaning is not known for certain, but there are several theories including "sea of bitterness."

marine (adj.) Look up marine at Dictionary.com c.1420, from M.Fr. marin (fem. marine), from O.Fr. marin, from L. marinus (fem. marina) "of the sea," from

"<http://www.souledout.org/cosmology/sirius/siriusgodstar.html> - (The goddess star Sirius) In the ancient Vedas this star was known as the Chieftain's star; in other Hindu writings, it is referred to as Sukra, the Rain God, or Rain Star. The Dog is also described as "he who awakens the gods of the air, and summons them to their office of bringing the rain."

This star was the most important of the stars to the ancient Egyptians, and the heliacal rising of this star came at the time of inundation and the start of the Egyptian New Year. The marked the Summer solstice As a goddess of the inundation, Sothis was a goddess of fertility. She also was linked to the pharaoh and his journey in the afterlife."

It is interesting to note that Sirius is associated with the flood season. Located just below the Dog Star there exists a constellation called Argo, the Ship. Near the Cannis Major constellation is the Columb or Dove constellation, depicted with a twig in it's mouth. The Dogon and Sirius

"<http://www.crystalinks.com/dogon.html> - The Dogon are an ethnic group located mainly in the administrative districts of Bandiagara and Douentza in Mali, West Africa. Dogon religion is defined primarily through the worship of the ancestors and the spirits ... They were called the 'Nommo.' The Dogon are famous for their astronomical knowledge taught through oral tradition, ...referencing the star system, Sirius.

As the story goes ... in the late 1930s, four Dogon priests shared their most important secret tradition with two French anthropologists, Marcel Griaule and Germain Dieterlen after they had spent an apprenticeship of fifteen years living with the tribe. These were secret myths about the star Sirius, which is 8.6 light years from the Earth.

The Dogon priests said that Sirius had a companion star that was invisible to the human eye. They also stated that the star moved in a 50-year elliptical orbit around Sirius, that it was small and incredibly heavy, and that it rotated on its axis. The Dogons calendar is quite non-traditional in that its fifty year cycle is based neither on the Earth's rotation around the Sun (as is our Julian calendar) nor the cycles of the Moon (a lunar calendar). Instead, the Dogon culture centers around the rotation cycle Sirius B which encircles the primary star Sirius A every 49.9 - or 50 years. ... Since 1844, astronomers had suspected that Sirius A had a companion star. This was in part determined when it was observed that the path of the star wobbled. In 1862 Alvan Clark discovered the second star making Sirius a binary star system (two stars). The Dogon also claimed that a third star Emme Ya - sorghum female - exists in the Sirius system. It is described by the Dogon as "the seat of the female souls of living or future beings."

(visit the thread to view linked images)

The Nommo (visit the thread to view linked images)

Author Robert Temple describes the Nommo as amphibious beings sent to Earth from the Sirius star system for the benefit of humankind. They look like Merfolk; Mermaids and Mermen. They called the Nommo 'Masters of the Water', 'The Monitors', 'The Teachers or Instructors', 'Saviors', and 'Spiritual Guardians'. The Dogon elder, Ogotemelli, describes Nommo as having the upper part as a man and the lower portion as snake; or as having a ram's head with serpent body."

As The Dog Star

As the major star of the "Big Dog" constellation, Sirius is often called the "Dog Star." The name "Sirius" comes from the Latin Si-rius, from Greek Seirios, "glowing" or "scorcher." The Arabic word Al Shi'ra resembles the Greek, Roman, and Egyptian names suggesting a common origin in Sanskrit, in which the name Surya, the Sun God, simply means the "shining one."

It was thought that Sirius actually added to earth's heat because it was so bright. This has been used to describe the origin of the phrase "dog days of summer."

"<http://www.souledout.org/cosmology/sirius/siriusgodstar.html> - Sirius was an object of wonder and veneration to all ancient peoples throughout human history.

The association of Sirius with a celestial dog has been consistent throughout the classical world; even in remote China, the star was identified as a heavenly wolf. In ancient Chaldea (present day Iraq) the star was known as the "Dog Star that Leads," or it was called the "Star of the Dog." In Assyria, it was said to be the "Dog of the Sun." In still older Akkadia, it was named the "Dog Star of the Sun."

In Greek times Aratus referred to Canis Major as the guard-dog of Orion, following on the heels of its master, and standing on its hind legs with Sirius carried in its jaws. Manilius called it the "dog with the blazing face.""

She was occasionally depicted as a large dog, or in Roman times, as the goddess Isis-Sopdet, she was shown riding side-saddle on a large dog. Sometimes she was depicted as a seated cow.

She was also given a masculine aspect, and linked with Horus as Sopdet-Horus during the Middle Kingdom. She was also linked with Anubis during Greek Times as Sopdet-Anubis. (Anubis has the head of a dog or jackal.)

Sirius and Orion Over Washington

The Congress of Isis and Osiris just so happens to happen above.. Congress.

"<http://home.hiwaay.net/~jalison/after3.html> - Washington D.C. and many of it's buildings and monuments are laid out according to the cardinal directions with the streets running due NS and EW. In the map of Washington D.C. below, due east is up and the star chart shows the constellation of Orion rising due east over Washington D.C., as it has done every day for the past two hundred years. Orion's belt points towards Sirius, the brightest star in the sky, and while Orion is rising and low on the eastern horizon, Orion's belt is vertical, pointing to Sirius below. (visit the thread to view linked images)

In relation to the fixed stars, the sun rises later each day due to the rotation of the earth around the sun. The sun rises just after Sirius at the latitude of Washington D.C. on August 15. This is known as the heliacal rising of Sirius. Prior to this time of year, the sun is above or too close to the horizon for the rising of the star to be visible. Ancient Egyptians based their calendar on the heliacal rising of Sirius, which signaled the onset of the annual flooding of the Nile. Christians celebrate the Assumption of the Virgin Mary on August 15, linking the Assumption to the first appearance of Sirius/Isis in the sky just before dawn.

Orion has also set due west at the latitude of Washington D.C. for the past two hundred years. From the viewpoint of the Capitol building, Orion sets right behind the Washington Monument. Setting in the west, Orion's belt is horizontal, pointing to Sirius setting south of due west. From the viewpoint of the Capitol building, Sirius sets over the Potomac River, on the alignment of Maryland Avenue. The bright star above Orion is Aldebran, the alpha star in the constellation of Taurus. From the viewpoint of the Capitol building, Aldebran sets over the White House, on the alignment of Pennsylvania Avenue. (visit the thread to view linked images)

It has already been established that the Goddess can be symbolized by an owl. (visit the thread to view linked images)

Columbia and the Constellation of Virgo

The District of Columbia has more astrological symbols than and other city in the world. The capitol city was built from the ground up with a specific esoteric design. There were many changes however, and some things didn't go exactly to plan.

"<http://www.goddesscolumbia.com/columbia4a.html> - In David Ovason's book, The Secret Architecture of our Nation's Capital ... The District of Columbia and its Federal City were arranged, according to Ovason, so that the constellation of Virgo and its goddess symbolism dominates the structure. Ovason notes that the right triangle of first magnitude stars that contains the constellation Virgo, Arcturus, Regulus and Spica, can also be found in the plan of the Federal city marked by the location of the Capital, the President's House and the Washington Monument. And he also notes that the consecration ceremonies for these sites all include prominent astrological connections to Virgo...

(visit the thread to view linked images)

This earth/sky alignment can be seen every year, weather permitting, around August 10th, as the sun sets down the Pennsylvania avenue sight line from the Capital, the great triangle enclosing Virgo appears in the darkening sky. It was not as obvious 200 years ago when the plan was laid out, but now, at the moment of culmination, the alignment is clear and unmistakable. As Ovason insists, it is plain that from its inception, the District of Columbia, and the Federal City, "was intended to celebrate the mysteries of Virgo - of the Egyptian Isis, the Grecian Ceres and the Christian Virgin."

Pierre-Charles L'Enfant and the Design of Washington
"<http://www.goddesscolumbia.com/columbia4b.html> - Pierre-Charles L'Enfant, ...adventurous Frenchman and a contemporary of Weishaupt, who was primarily responsible for the name and design of the District of Columbia. ... Pierre was educated first as an artist, where he studied the science of landscape design from the works of Andre le Notre, who designed the great historical axis of Paris, and then as a soldier, where he learned the art of fortification. In 1776, as a lieutenant, he joined his regimental Masonic lodge where he met the Marquis de Lafayette and many other young Frenchmen fired up by the new ideals of liberty and equality. In 1777, he offered his services to the new Continental Army of General Washington, and was appointed a captain of engineers. ... When he learned, in 1789, that his old friend General Washington was planning to establish a new federal capital down in Virginia, L'Enfant wrote directly to him, announcing that "...no nation, perhaps, had ever before the opportunity offered them of deliberately deciding on the spot where their capital city should be fixed."

Arriving in Georgetown early in 1791, armed with Washington's instructions to assist the current surveyors, ... L'Enfant quickly took charge. ... Andrew Ellicott, the chief surveyor was a knowledgeable astronomer, and he undoubtedly helped fix the precise point on the horizon marking the August 11th sunset. This angle, 22 degrees north of west, did double duty, pointing to the sunset where, 200 years later, the triangle containing Virgo would appear in the sky and also marking the September 18th rising of Sirius over the Capital. This one alignment, from the Capital to the White House, graphically unites the two most prominent astronomical goddess images, Sirius and Virgo.

L'Enfant's plan was changed through the years, and his steadfast defense of certain points led to his being considered difficult. He wanted to keep intact not only the precise sightlines of his alignments, ... L'Enfant's idea was to preserve a direct view of the western horizon for the mid-August time period when the Virgo triangle appeared in the sky, ... the earthly reflection of the Virgo triangle. While this view has been destroyed, the careful angle of Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capital to the White House still allows us to identify the crucial moment of revelation."

(visit the thread to view linked images)

The Goddess of ... Revelations?

"Revelation 12:

[1] And there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars:

[2] And she being with child cried, travailing in birth, and pained to be delivered.

[3] And there appeared another wonder in heaven; and behold a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads.

[4] And his tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth: and the dragon stood before the woman which was ready to be delivered, for to devour her child as soon as it was born.

[5] And she brought forth a man child, who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron: and her child was caught up unto God, and to his throne."

(visit the thread to view linked images), (visit the thread to view linked images), (visit the thread to view linked images)

"<http://www.goddesscolumbia.com/columbia4a.html> - The moment the sages of 1177 foresaw, just after the turn of the seventh millennium of the Hebrew calendar and the beginning of the third Christian millennium, the alignment of eclipse cycle and the sacred calendars, occurred on October 3/4th, 2005, and two days later, on October 5/6th, the great portent appeared in the sky. The sun in Virgo, from a sidereal perspective, falling on the Virgin's robed shoulder, "clothed by the Sun," a thin crescent moon on the cusp of Virgo/Libra,

"with the Moon under her feet," and "pregnant" with the conjunction of Mercury, Jupiter and the alpha star of Virgo, Spica, at the level of her womb. "Crowned with twelve stars," suggests the return of the cusp of Virgo/Leo, ancient starting point of the zodiac, to the fall equinox. The Red Dragon, even with all its evil connotations, can be seen as the Head of the Dragon marking the solar eclipse, waiting to eat the child, the Sun/Son, the moment it is born.

So, in Washington City, at noon on October 5/6th, 2005, even though the sun was veiling the event, the Great Portent moved into alignment over the city's monuments. The White House's south front would have been a good place to view it, and in our computer view, that's our observation point. As the Sun touched the meridian on October 5th, the whole of the Portent spread out to the east, from meridian to eastern horizon. The first thing we notice is that the Washington Monument is not due south of the White House, as L'Enfant planned. It is offset to the east just enough to align with the fixed star Spica and the conjunction of Jupiter and Mercury. This is apparently not accidental, as the dedication ceremony for its present location, done in 1880, was aligned down the Mall with the rising of Spica. ... Further down the Mall to the east is the new Moon, on the Virgo/Libra cusp, under the feet of Virgo, and beyond that in Libra is Venus."

Esoteric and Occult Goddess worship has culminated in the design and purpose of Washington D.C. Embodied as the Goddess Columbia, who is the new face of an old deity. According to this website (), the design in D.C. was meant to be fulfilled in recent time, and was not exactly aligned until now. The great 'wonder in heaven' of revelations occurred in October of 2005. According to the dates set forth in the book of Daniel, Mt. Zion will be in the hands of unbelievers for 2,300 years. The Greeks conquered Israel in 333BC and 2,300 years later in 1967AD the Jews reconquered it after the 6-Day War. The two other periods linked with the abomination of the Temple are 1,290 and 1,335 years. The Muslims turned the Dome of the Rock into a mosque in 677, and 1,290 years later in 1967 east Jerusalem was annexed by Israel. The other period is 1,335 years after the Muslims captured the Temple. And that is 45 years after 1967, or 2012. DUN DUN DUNNNNN!!!!

Might sound dumb but... why do UFO's crash?

Created by: Parabol on February 19, flags: 7, replies: 45

I feel it sounds like a stupid question but I've never heard it discussed much before. So the aliens can travel across galaxies and are so much more advanced than us but still manage to crash every once and awhile on Earth? It's not like the air got to thin for the engine or they ran out of gas (or I would think not). Or maybe they live on Saturn or something and recently figured out (obviously better than us) interplanetary travel.

What is there to learn or take from this? Does all intelligent life push it's boundaries no matter where it is development wise? Sort of a, if you go 100mph you'll die, 80 is safe but you could do 96 and probably not die but get there much faster. I know the basic answers, mechanical or pilot error, are most likely but it seems odd to me. But I guess a group of cavemen could wonder why our cars still breakdown. Again, a case of constantly trying to improve technology before the predecessor has it's kinks worked out. I feel that way with life sometimes, always trying to do something better for yourself while you neglect what you have. Ok, got a little off subject there... I look forward to everyone's thoughts.
