AboveTopSecret.com is the Internet's largest and most popular discussion board community dedicated to the intelligent exchange of ideas and debate on a wide range of "alternative topics" such as conspiracies, UFO's, paranormal, secret societies, political scandals, new world order, terrorism, and dozens of related topics with an impressive demographic mix of members.

With more than 140,000 members generating over 5 million posts of substance that cover more than 400,000 topics in 157 different discussion forums, you could say "the truth is in here."

The Motto: "Deny Ignorance"

More than a slogan and deeper than a mission statement, our members have embraced the motto of "Deny Ignorance" as our reason for being, demanding everyone who posts to aspire to a higher standard of participation. These simple two words have galvanized a broad membership base that spans the spectrum from highly speculative conspiracy writers to staunch skeptics. The result is a unique collaboration of diverse individuals rallying under this simple statement to learn from each other, discover new truths, and imagine new ideas that expand minds.

This motto has life. It has purpose. It demands ATS members to think.

It is a state of mind.

It is a sense of purpose.

It is a statement against the paradigm.

It is a rage against the mindless status-quo.

The idea of "deny ignorance" isn't a goal that ATS hopes to accomplish.
Instead, it's a challenge. A call to all those who come here to aspire to a higher state of awareness through informed discussion and debate.

Deny ignorance is what we do.

It's how we think. It's how we talk. It's how we listen.

Ignorance is the social disease of history that has clouded our minds and dulled our brains.

Is the evil that men do, the reason history repeats, and the cause of intolerance.

We deny it. it's not welcome here. Within these boundaries, it has no strength.

Here, ignorance is denied.

The Black Knight from Space

Created by: Esoterica on July 21, flags: 76, replies: 85

I was in a bookstore and was just flipping through a bargain book of weird happenings. One entry, only a couple of paragraphs long, caught my interest because I had never heard of it before.

The basic blurb was that in 1957, an unknown satellite was detected shadowing the Sputnik I craft. It was in a polar orbit, something that neither the Americans or Soviets were capable of at the time. There was a statement that ham radio operators picked up radio transmissions that were "decoded" (whatever that means) as being a star map that indicated the craft originated from Epsilon Bootes 13,000 years before. This object was dubbed "The Black Knight."

Also in this blurb, there was mention that science fiction author Philip K. Dick believed that he was in contact with this object, which he wrote several novels about, and gave it various names (VALIS, Zebra).

So obviously intrigued, I did some searching on ATS and found no mention of it. Google had a few returns which indicated this story was first written about in John Keel's "Disneyland of the Gods." The effort was hampered because there are several legit satellite projects codenamed "Black Knight."

The information of Dick's experiences and writings indicated he received visions, and seemed to interpret the experience and object in somewhat Christian religious terms, in addition to strange communications and diagrams he couldn't interpret. He eventually became paranoid Russian scientists were attempting to control the satellite. A science fiction writer infamous for his heavy drug use eventually living out a sci-fi story... seems to me just as likely that it was just his lifestyle catching up to him than any ET communication. But who knows.

In my searching, I also discovered a very close story from 1927, 30 years earlier. It involves the phenomena of Long Delayed Echoes. Essentially, these are radio transmissions that are reflected back, apparently from space, seconds to minutes after they are first sent. There doesn't seem to be any rhyme or reason to it. It could be atmospheric effects just making it appear as if the transmissions are coming from space, or it could be an alien craft attempting to communicate with us. Logically, it would send back transmissions it received from Earth because it could be almost positive that we could receive it. Anyway, the story is that Norwegian scientists received strange radio "echoes" in 1927-28. In the 1970's Scottish astronomer Duncan Lunan interpreted the delayed transmission as a star map... of Epsilon Bootis. Whether these are two instances of the same strange transmissions, or one story is a retelling of the other is unknown to me. It wouldn't be the first time the same ideas were repackaged and attempted to be passed off as a "new" anomalous story.

Anyway, I made this thread just to get the story out there, and to ask if anybody has any additional information regarding it. Below are links to everything pertinent I could find on the internet, and most are just retellings of the same story in different forms.

Article detailing several strange incidents, including the one above. Also discusses theoretical Bracewell Probes.

Introduction by Duncan Lunan, as far as I can tell originator of the Epsilon Bootis interpretation.

Giant Underwater Lost City 'Could Rewrite History'

Created by: Malichai on July 25, flags: 58, replies: 105

Scientists have found a huge underwater city off the coast of India. It appears to pre-date other known civilizations. Stay tuned to this one. It could be very big!

"By BBC News Online's Tom Housden

The remains of what has been described as a huge lost city may force historians and archaeologists to radically reconsider their view of ancient human history.

Marine scientists say archaeological remains discovered 36 meters (120 feet) underwater in the Gulf of Cambay off the western coast of India could be over 9,000 years old.

The vast city - which is five miles long and two miles wide - is believed to predate the oldest known remains in the subcontinent by more than 5,000 years.

They Come From Within

Created by: mikeboydus on July 4, flags: 55, replies: 118

After seeing They Came From Here I decided to go ahead and post a hypothesis of my own. This is a subject I have researched for years partly due to some personal experiences. I still haven't reached a certain conclusion which is why this is a hypothesis and not a theory. I'll layout my idea by introducing key persons and concepts. In a nutshell I think aliens and ufos are unlikely to be from the future or extraterrestrial.

Aliens and UFOs most people believe are a recent event, a mythology for modern civilization. The truth is that people have been seeing and encountering bizarre beings and crafts at least as far back as people can write. They have had many names throughout history. Angels, gods, demons, jinn, faerie, asuras, daeva, greys, pleiadians, saurians, etc.

There is a French Astrophysicist by the name of Jacques Vallee. He began his career as an Astronomer in the 1960s. He had a mentor an Astrophysicist named J. Allen Hynek, who worked as an advisor on the Air Force's UFO studies Project Sign, Grudge, and Bluebook. Hynek was initially skeptical of UFOs. He was the man who originated the use of the Swamp Gas explanation. By the 1970s he had changed his mind about the phenomena but he could not accept an extraterrestrial hypothesis.

"I have come to support less and less the idea that UFOs are 'nuts and bolts' spacecrafts from other worlds. There are just too many things going against this theory. To me, it seems ridiculous that super intelligences would travel great distances to do relatively stupid things like stop cars, collect soil samples, and frighten people. I think we must begin to re-examine the evidence. We must begin to look closer to home." (Vallee, Revelations: Alien Contact and Human Deception, 290)

"A few good sightings a year, over the world, would bolster the extraterrestrial hypothesis – but many thousands every year? From remote regions of space? And to what purpose? To scare us by stopping cars, and disturbing animals, and puzzling us with their seemingly pointless antics?" (Stringfield, Situation Red, 40-42).

"If you object, I ask you to explain – quantitatively, not qualitatively – the reported phenomena of materialization and dematerialization, of shape changes, of the noiseless hovering in the earth's gravitational field, accelerations that – for an appreciable mass – require energy sources far beyond present capabilities – even theoretical capabilities, the well-known and often reported E-M (sc. electromagnetic interference) effect, the psychic effects on percipients, including purported telepathic communications." (Stringfield, 44)

Vallee unlike his mentor wasn't a skeptic but a believer in the Extraterrestrial Hypothesis. By 1969 he could no longer accept that idea either. He began to explore the links between UFOs, cults, religions, angels, ghosts, cryptids, and psychic phenomena. He covered his research in a book, Passport to Magonia: From Folklore to Flying Saucers.

He wrote a paper titled "Five Arguments Against the Extraterrestrial Origin of Unidentified Flying Objects,"

1. Unexplained close encounters are far more numerous than required for any physical survey of the earth;
2. The humanoid body structure of the alleged "aliens" is not likely to have originated on another planet and is not biologically adapted to space travel
3. The reported behavior in thousands of abduction reports contradicts the hypothesis of genetic or scientific experimentation on humans by an advanced race
4. The extension of the phenomenon throughout recorded human history demonstrates that UFOs are not a contemporary phenomenon
5. The apparent ability of UFOs to manipulate space and time suggests radically different and richer alternatives

He came up with an idea called the Interdimensional Hypothesis. The concept here is that "aliens" originate from either higher dimensions or parallel universes. The aliens are non human consciousnesses which may or may not have physical forms that are able to manipulate reality. They can masquerade in any form from space visitors to mythological beings.

They appear to be masters of deception, propaganda, disinformation and social control.

Another Key person in my hypothesis which is related but not the same as Vallee's Interdimensional Hypothesis is the Swiss Psychiatrist and founder of Analytical Psychiatry Carl Jung with his concepts of Archetypes, the Collective Unconscious, and Synchronicity.

According to Jung Archetypes are the Primal Icons that make up the Collective Unconscious and manifest in myth, religion, and fantasy. The Collective Unconscious is also the sum of human thought, feeling, and memory.

"Things are not so simple as you think they are. Myths are not only based on racial memories of prehistoric happenings. There is much more to it.

Neither the individual nor the collective subconsciousness is merely made up of submerged memories. Our subconsciousness is also the place where our god lives."

Joseph Campbell influenced by Jung discovered these Archetypes throughout human cultures leading him to write, The Hero with a Thousand Faces and The Masks of God.

Jung recognized UFOs as part of a modern myth. In his book, Flying Saucers: A Modern Myth of Things Seen In The Sky, he connected UFOs with Archetypes.

This brings us back to Vallee. I can see there is a strong link here between Mythology, Religion, Fantasy, Psyche, and UFOs. This also leads me to another Hypothesis influenced by both Jung and Vallee, called the Paranormal and Occult Hypothesis. Note this is not mine but just another step closer to mine.

Emanuel Swedenborg, a Swedish philosopher, scientist and theologian could be argued to be the founder of the First Contactee Cult. In the 1700s he wrote a book, Earths in the Solar World after claiming to experience visions where he was lead around other worlds.

Following up to him was Madame Blavatsky who in 1875 founded the Theosophical Society. Among her writings she described other worldly beings. Guy Ballard, a student of Blavatsky, later founded the I AM Activity Cult in 1930. Both groups seem to have laid the foundations for the Contactee Cults that would follow. Early Contactee cults dealt primarily with Mars and Venus. Alien Messages were acquired by Visions, Channeling and Seances.

Facebook a CIA Front?

Created by: WolfofWar on July 14, flags: 43, replies: 91

Facebook is a Social Networking Website akin to Myspace and other similar networks. It allows you to communicate with others, and gives you space to post personal information to make your facebook more "personal."

But what information do you use, and how do they use it? They're terms and Conditions state:

By posting Member Content to any part of the Web site, you automatically grant, and you represent and warrant that you have the right to grant, to facebook an irrevocable, perpetual, non-exclusive, transferable, fully paid, worldwide license to use, copy, perform, display, reformat, translate, excerpt and distribute such information and content and to prepare derivative works of, or incorporate into other works, such information and content, and to grant and authorize sublicenses of the foregoing.

Facebook has a "pulse" feature takes your information, and if you go to a university or college, will use that to compile statistical trends of college students. Essentially they find out about you, and use it to make a picture of the college based community on a whole. These statistics compiles data given by universities of members of Facebook. These statistics range from the mundane ("percentage of female college students with conservative views") to the odd ("Percentage of college students that have read Catcher in the Rye") Okay, so basically, they'll give out your information out to the highest corporate bidder. Not that big of a deal. This will just help Coca Cola make a new corporate jingle. Right? but is there more? Who funds Facebook?

Facebook was given funding of upwards to 12.7 million US dollars from Accel Partners. The managing partner of ACCEL is a man named James W Breyer.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

James Breyer was on the Board of the National Ventures Capital Association. A Washington thinktank agency. He served personally with a man named Gilman Louie.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Gilman Louie is the founder and CEO of In-Q-TEL (visit the thread to view linked images)

In-Q-TEL is a non-profit venture capital firm, a firm run by the Central Intelligence Agency to: invest in high-tech companies for the sole purpose of keeping the Central Intelligence Agency equipped with the latest in information technology in support of United States intelligence capability.

In-Q-TEL's primarily invests in new Data Mining Technologies.

What does that mean? essentially, In-Q-TEL ciphers the internet in search for "systems" which can help the CIA data mine with ease. Something like Myspace, and Facebook, essentially gives the CIA access to trends in various demographics as well as their thought patterns and behaviors.

Back to James Breyer. He also was on the Board of Directors of Bolt, Beranek and Newman Technologies. BBN is a defense contractor, dealing primarily with high-technology development. BBN Technologies was the creator of ARPANET, the first operational packet switching network, essentially the first internet system, run by DARPA.

In 2004 (the same year Facebook was created) Gilman Louie, the CEO of In-Q-TEL, jumped onboard with BBN Technologies with a one Doctor Anita Jones.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

Dr Anita Jones was a former Board of Directors of In-Q-TEL, and was the former director of Defense Research and Engineering with United States Department of Defense. Her position placed her as an advisor to the Secretary of Defense, as well as an overseer to the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, or DARPA.

As an overseer of DARPA, she was involved with DARPA's venture in information gathering when DARPA formed the Information Awareness Office in January of 2002.

(visit the thread to view linked images)

The IAO, with its rather Omnious logo pictured above, was a combination of various DARPA research programs, all based around information gathering, were all combined together. IAO's mission was to "imagine, develop, apply, integrate, demonstrate and transition information technologies, components and prototype, closed-loop, information systems that will counter asymmetric threats by achieving total information awareness" one of IAO's many projects was something called the Scalable Social Network Analysis project.

Scalable Social Network Analysis: A project involving the development of techniques based on Social Network Analysis for "the key characteristics of terrorist groups and discriminating these groups from other types of societal groups.

Essentially, it was to find a method to analyse social networks and find "characteristics" of terrorist groups.

IAO's goal was to gather information all into one centralized spot, to essentially make a snapshot of society on a whole, to gain "Informational" awareness. Their goals of ciphing information include, but are not limited to: Credit Card History, Airline Purchases, Internet Activity, Car Rentals, Educational transcripts, Tax Returns, Medical Records, Utility bills, and "any other available data."

The IAO was shrunken down in size and moved about, conveniently around the time of 2004, when Dr. Anita Jones and Gilman Louie jumped aboard BBN. The new IAO project is under codename Topsail, now under the overseeing of both DARPA, the DOD, and also the NSA.

All of this went down shortly before Facebook emerged, a site that shares strikingly many similarities with a data mining operation. It takes personal information, it exploits said information to gather more detailed information, and compiles it into bite sized chunks.

Back to the statistic on the Catcher in the Rye. Why is this a statistic? Both Mark Chapman and John Hinckley Jr, the man that shot and killed John Lennon, and the man that tried to kill Ronald Reagan, respectively, both carried Catcher in the Rye with them. Both could be considered domestic "terrorists" in a way.

Could this be an insight into the IAO's Topsail project? The Scalable Social Network Analysis? Trying to find "terrorists" through social network traits?

When they break you down into bite sized chunks, what will they see?

"What does a scanner see? I mean, really see? Into the head? Down into the heart? Does a passive infrared scanner ... see into me — into us — clearly or darkly?" - Quote from Philip K Dick's A Scanner Darkley

Welcome to the New 60's: The Revolution Is You.

Created by: jtma508 on July 19, flags: 39, replies: 69

It struck me the other day that we are reliving the 1960's right now. We have a huge environmental movement going on (Earth Day v. global warming); we're trying to end a war (Vietnam v. Iraq); we're living under the threat of an attack by a boogiemer (communists v. terrorists); distrust for government is on the rise (Nixon/Watergate/Kent State v. Bush/911/WMD); the country was rocked by tragedy (Kennedy assassination v. 911); there is an awakening of younger people and their increased political involvement.

Yes, there were differences (there always are) but having lived through both I still sense the wheel coming around again. Only this time, I feel the stakes are infinitely higher and the consequences of the wrong choices dire to say the least. This post isn't about Bush-bashing, Republicans v. Democrats, liberals v. conservatives, Christians v. non-Christians. There are myriad other threads for you in which to thrash that out. This thread is about how we make it through the next decade. How we right a badly listing ship of state.

The very principals upon which this country was founded and that set us apart from virtually every other nation on the planet have been systematically imperiled. We'd all rather watch American Idol and Deal or No Deal than think about this. Unfortunately, we no longer have a choice. The individuals we have been putting in government to afford us the luxury of sinking fat and happy into our couches have found that serving the political machine is far more fulfilling than serving us, The People. In the last mid-term election the voters 'sent a message' by overturning the Congress. Our message was unambiguous: The war isn't working. End it now. The Congress has done jack and the President has said time and again he doesn't care what the Congress and, by extension, what the American People want. Say what?

The Constitution is the foundation of this country and everything for which it stands --- like it or not. It is under siege by people and organizations that find it an obstacle to their personal and business agendas. There are many among us who believe that the Constitution and Bill of Rights have become anachronistic and unnecessary. If that is the case then we should vote, as a country, to amend or discard the provisions contained in those documents. Under no circumstances, however, should anyone or any group --- elected or otherwise --- have the authority to unilaterally circumvent or suspend the provisions of those documents. Nor should anyone or any group be allowed to act, or fail to act, based upon a non-traditional reinterpretation of those provisions. Those documents contain, among other things, the contract between us, The People, and our elected officials. That contract must be enforced.

The United States is not a true democracy. We are a Republic which is a form of governance based upon popular representation and popular consent. It would seem we no longer have either.

Every military person takes an oath to uphold the Constitution:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same..."

Every Congressman takes a similar oath:

I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion; and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter.

And, of course, the President:

I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the Office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my Ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States.

Considering that defending and upholding the Constitution constitutes the prime directive for our military and elected government how, then, have we allowed it to become subordinated?

In the 'last' 1960's we had a cause. The cause was to save the world. Lofty, characteristically unrealistic but sincere it was. We believed. There really hasn't been a unifying 'cause' since. Lots of equally important but fractured causes but no real unifying cause. When the chips are down we don't get to choose our cause. It's thrust upon us. And I'm here to tell you that the single most important issue facing all of us is saving the United States and taking it back from the people that stole it while we were all asleep.

I know many of you on ATS aren't from the US. Some could care less whether we stand or fall and many myopic folks would love to see the giant tumble. We are an imperfect country and an imperfect people. But if anyone thinks that they would be immune from the impact of a collapse of the United States you are as clueless as we have been to allow things to get so far in the first place.

I'm by no means the first person to bring this up. Nor have I done it the most eloquently. But as a 55 year old man that has lived through the Cold War, The Cuban Missile Crisis, recessions, a stock market crash, two real estate collapses, the dot-com crash, the savings and loan meltdown, assassinations, attempted assassinations, a half-dozen wars, the draft, an epidemic, a gas crisis, an oil crisis, earthquakes, riots, a nuclear meltdown, Y2K, 911, and an anthrax attack, to name just a few, I am here to tell you with every bit of sincerity that I can muster that we have never been in more peril than we are at this very moment. No, it's not time to panic but by the same token no magical person or entity is going to suddenly show-up to save our asses either. This is on us folks.

We need to identify and support an organization that has the stated mission to educate the American people. Not about 911 conspiracies, the NWO, reptilians, drones and all the other issues that are dear to our hearts here on ATS but the very basic and fundamental issues surrounding the usurpation of their system of government and their country. We most definitely can change the course of history and we had damned better get started. Time is running out.

My challenge to the ATS community and to anyone who gives a rodent's tuchus is where do we start? What organization has the potential clout and mindset to be the vehicle? Who has the will?

The Whitehouse Coup - Prescott Bush

"A BBC Radio 4 investigation sheds new light on a major subject that has received little historical attention, the conspiracy on behalf of a group of influential powerbrokers, led by Prescott Bush, to overthrow FDR and implement a fascist dictatorship in the U.S. based around the ideology of Mussolini and Hitler.

In 1933, Marine Corps Maj.-Gen. Smedley Butler was approached by a wealthy and secretive group of industrialists and bankers, including Prescott Bush the current President's grandfather, who asked him to command a 500,000 strong rogue army of veterans that would help stage a coup to topple then President Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Christianity is based on Egyptian Myths - Jesus Christ is Horus

Created by: NJE777 on July 7, flags: 33, replies: 459
I have just finished reading The Pagan Christ by (links removed, visit the thread for external references). There are too many similarities between Horus and Christ to reject the author's claim that the story of Jesus Christ was plagiarised from much earlier Egyptian mythology. Is this just a case of history repeating itself? Are we doing an Egyptian re run? If so, why?
"Does the cult of Horus prove that Christianity is false? Some parallels between Horus and Jesus Christ:
1. Horus born of a virgin. < > Jesus born of a virgin.
2. The foster father of Horus was Seb or Seph. < > Jesus was fostered by Joseph.
3. Horus was of royal descent. < > Jesus was of royal descent.
4. Horus birth accompanied by three solar deities [star gazers] who followed by the morning star of Sirius bearing gifts. < > Jesus birth accompanied by three wise men [Zoroastrian star gazers] who followed by a star "in the east" bearing gifts.
5. The birth of Horus announced by angels. < > The birth of Jesus announced by angels.
6. Herut tried to murder the infant Horus. < > Herod slaughtered every first born in an attempt to kill Jesus the forthcoming messiah.
7. Horus is baptized at age 30 by Anup the Baptiser at a river. < > Jesus is baptized at age 30 by John the Baptist at a river.
8. Horus resists temptation by the evil Sut [Sut was to be the precursor for the Hebrew Satan] on a high mountain. < > Jesus resists temptation by Satan on a high mountain.
9. Horus had 12 followers. < > Jesus had 12 disciples.
10. Horus performed miracles like healing the sick and walking on water. < > Jesus performed miracles like healing the sick and walking on water.
11. Horus raised someone from the grave [his father Osiris] < > Jesus raised Lazarus [notice the name similarity] from the grave. Lazarus is short for Elasarus

- the "us" on the end is romanized. Elasarus was derived from "El-Asar" which was the name given to Osiris.

12. Horus was buried and resurrected in the city of Anu. < > The place Bethany mentioned in John was a derivative of the words "Bet" and "Anu" which translates "the house of Anu". The 'y' on the end of bethany is interchangeable with the letter 'u'.

13. Horus was killed by crucifixion. < > Jesus was crucified.

14. Horus was accompanied by two thieves at the crucifixion. < > Jesus was crucified with two thieves.

15. Horus was buried in a tomb at Anu. < > Jesus was buried in a tomb located in Bethany [Bet-Anu].

16. Horus was resurrected after 3 days. < > Jesus was "said" to resurrected after over a period of three days.

17. The resurrection of Horus was announced by three women. < > The resurrection of Jesus was announced by three women.

18. Horus was given the titel KRST which means "anointed one" < > Jesus was given the title Christ [Christos] meaning "anointed one"

Had to do it, another topic and discussion was worth the thread to do so. First step would be to follow the suggested links below, and or find then read the publication. It has been around for more than a decade that I know of, and is very informative, if only for "educational purposes".

The material has been posted before, but is buried under years of ATSer contributions, and to put it simply. I know not where to begin finding it, that and the link in the OARP thread seems as mentioned below, disconnected.

Other contributions of material and suggestions are welcome. Please be open, and co operative in the hopefully on going discussion/thread.

This is a good start, because "knowing is half the battle". ;)

O'Hare UFO Report Released

Created by: Telos on July 27, flags: 28, replies: 37

"The staff of the National Aviation Reporting Center on Anomalous Phenomena (NARCAP) headed by respected scientist Dr. Richard Haines has released a report (152 page PDF file) on the Chicago O'Hare Airport UFO incident of November 7, 2006.

The text is long and detailed, and most of us will not be willing to read it all, but the study suggests (as the credo of NARCAP declares) that the sighting of any unknown object in the sky is a potential hazard to pilots and their crews and passengers, and that this should be taken seriously by the aviation community.

Haines and his co-authors conclude, in part:

This investigation has determined that, based upon the testimony of multiple eye witnesses in different locations at O'Hare International Airport, a small physical, and apparently solid object hovered over the United Airlines concourse area for at least ten minutes or more but was not detected either by radar or visually by air traffic controllers in the tower. For this reason the object is considered a definite potential threat to flight operations at O'Hare. "

I've looked for another source but couldn't find any. I started reading the report wich is quite long and I'm still reading. It's long but worth reading it. Personaly I consider it one of the best analysis ever done in a ufo sight.

A Global Issue

Created by: Terran Blue on July 31, flags: 27, replies: 32

There has been a glut of threads of late about rising up against so-and-so, dying for one's country, forefathers this, impeach that... But how many of you really know what the true issues are? As someone who has been watching this issue for years, it somewhat infuriates me that Johnny-come-lately's are arriving on the scene, finally having been driven to a point where they are so pissed off thoughts of drastic change cross their minds, yet they come to the table bringing small minded concepts like nationalist introspective flag waving BS with them, which pollutes the point of this need for change.

I've said it before, and I'll say it again. This fight to which all of you seem to be pledging your lives to is not solely an issue for a particular nation: it is a struggle which has many fronts across the face of our planet: nations, ideologies, science, business, media. By all means, do it for your country, but you should realise that you are also doing it for your planet. These people, who many refer to as the NWO, have spent centuries creating GLOBAL Networks of power. Consider it a Hydra: you cut off one head, it will regenerate. You must face them on all fronts or they will outflank you. Remember: they are masters at the art of conning people. They have seen you coming, so fight smart, not just hard.

Grabbing your guns will not be the sole answer to your issues, and I commend those here who look also at political and science angles. I propose to you all that to win you need at least these three key weapons:

Information

Will

Wisdom

The Net is the greatest weapon ever given to the People of Earth. Can you not see that 'They' are desperately trying to put it under regulation? They have seen that it is a great means to exchange information, and an educated, enlightened People scares them. In fact, it could be said that the Net is the greatest mistake they made. Use it to its greatest potential. Speak to the peoples of other nations, gain ideas and views from elsewhere, it will only add to your firepower.

The Will is unquestionable among many of us, but the fact is, that many of the newly awakened didn't give a damn until their own goldfish bowls were being rocked by the Elites. A perfect example of this being the people who seem only to have become dissidents regarding this gun issue, a large amount of those people being the same people who used to call people like myself traitors and hippies (Lefties was an old fave of mine). I hate to say we told you so, but the fact is, we did. So while I am pleased to see you have woken up, albeit it partially, I am wondering: how many of you will follow through to the end? And how many of you are motivated purely for selfish reasons?

I encourage you again to be aware of the larger picture: have the wisdom to see what you need to see to succeed. Being introspective will give them a weapon against you. Utilise all avenues open to you, and be aware that one way alone will NOT succeed.

Let me just finish by saluting those out there who will go for it, and who will do so for the right reasons, who see that this is a Global issue. They will be the people who will have the biggest impact, they are not blinded by nationalism, or religious BS, or ideologies of a petty nature. They are not tricked by media magic. Remember, we are all in this together. Good luck people.

Moving lights over Dallas Texas: 02:08 am

Created by: pokey oats on July 1, flags: 25, replies: 92

I can't believe it, I just can't.

However, if you are up right now, and living in Texas then I suggest you stand outside for as long as possible because there are bright lights, red lights, green lights in different formations and ... MOVING.

Possibly more concerning is that from the brightest light you could see faint dimmer, smaller objects coming out of the bottom.

They are dancing really, moving up and down, left and right and occasionally they make very dramatic, very fast movements. I had two friends with me and we all verified that it was moving and releasing objects.

To anyone that is able to start looking, you will notice a hell of a lot of clouds. The lights will actually move from behind the clouds into clear space and then you will see the strangest thing that I have ever seen in my life. Clouds that will actually change direction to cover up the lights.

I have no means of photographing or videoing these objects in the dark, but they are still there now, please take the time to look, they're there.

Furthermore, I do solemnly swear that everything I have posted is true and that this account can be verified by two other witnesses.

Dissolving Clouds With The Power Of Mind

Created by: lightseeker on July 8, flags: 25, replies: 223

Here is a fun and exciting way to improve your mental focus and acuity. Locate a small to medium-sized strato-cumulous cloud on a sunny day with otherwise clear blue skies. Focus your eyesight and willpower on the cloud and will it to dissolve into nothingness. I have been doing this for years ever since hearing about it on a C2C broadcast and it really works. I can usually dissolve a small cloud within 1-2 minutes, larger clouds take longer. Let me just add that I have had years of practice at this so your first attempts may take a little longer.

A word of warning: Don't try this on chemtrails; the make up a chemtrail is vastly different from a natural cloud since natural clouds are composed of only water vapor, while chemtrails are composed of everything from jet fuel to varying amounts of chemicals and God knows what else. If you have never heard about this or have heard about it but never tried it, I urge you to give it a whirl, it can be quite uplifting and fun.

A link for those who think I may be making this all up: And here is one about "creating clouds" with thought forms, something I haven't been able to accomplish as of yet.

Have fun!

Congressman Peter DeFazio (D - OR) was asked by his constituents to see what was contained within the classified portion of the White House's plan for operating the government after a terrorist attack.

Since DeFazio also sits on the Homeland Security Committee and has clearance to view classified material, the request would have appeared to be routine, but the Congressman was unceremoniously denied all access to view the documents, and the White House wouldn't even give an excuse as to why he was barred.

PAUL BANNED FROM DEBATE

Texas Representative Won't Be Invited To Participate in Iowa Despite Victories

As AFP went to press, lowans for Tax Relief and Iowa Christian Alliance had engaged in a blatant act of censorship by excluding Rep. Ron Paul (R-Tex.) from their presidential candidates forum June 30 in Des Moines. This is ironic—since Paul reads off the same page on the issues that concern the two groups.

The above-listed groups oppose the economic and political integration of North America. So does Paul. They favor much better border security. So does Paul....

A press release from Paul's office, posted at RonPaul2008.com, noted that Paul will not participate in the Iowa forum because he wasn't invited.

"The campaign office had not received an invitation so we called . . . thinking we might have misplaced the invitation or simply overlooked it," the press release noted. On June 19, Campaign Manager Lew Moore called Edward Failor with lowans for Tax Relief to ask about this matter.

"To our shock, Mr. Failor told us Dr. Paul was not invited; he was not going to be invited; and he would not be allowed to participate. And when asked why, Mr. Failor refused to explain. The call ended."

So, they're trying to cut him out before the primaries. What did Ron Paul do about it? Turnabout is fair play, so here's something from (links removed, visit the thread for external references):

Ron Paul Speaks to 1,000 in Iowa
FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

June 30, 2007

DES MOINES, IOWA – Presidential candidate Ron Paul held a rally today celebrating life and liberty at the Hy-Vee Hall in Des Moines, Iowa. The event was held immediately after and next door to a Republican candidates forum sponsored by the Iowa Christian Alliance and Iowans for Tax Relief.

"Today, Ron Paul demonstrated how deeply his message of freedom and limited government is resonating across the nation," said campaign manager Lew Moore.

Despite being planned in less than a week, Dr. Paul's event singlehandedly outdrew the other forum and its six participating candidates by several hundred attendees."

The irony here is that Ron not only had the drive to cut through their BS for refusing to let him participate, but he even drew more people to his rally than the rest of the GOP candidates did! :D

I'll make it simple...

You take a glance at the forums here on AT'S, and read about how people are so fed up with the government lying to "we" the people of this country...stripping our rights away slowly but surely...how they do this and do that to us...and how we just sit here and take it....and take it...and take it some more....

So my question is...how can an ordinary Joe like myself and others...equipped with a High School diploma, freedom of thought, an attitude for change and a voice...take the beginning steps to start a change? A revolution?

I know I can't be the only one...who's sick and tired of being sick and tired...well I want things to change!

And I'm willing to sacrifice for this change!

Let's put our minds together to get the word and message out for a free country!

Let's work together folks...I'm but 1 simple man...

Suggestions on what we need to do to have these wheels in motion, also the steps in order to achieve those goals?

Enough Talk! More Action!

Free Energy and its Political Economic Reality

Created by: wadefrazier3 on July 6, flags: 19, replies: 392

Hi:

I started a thread on this subject in the Peak Oil forum and it did not go anywhere (one ATS veteran said the Peak Oil forum was a "backwater"). I am trying again. Maybe ATS is not the forum to discuss free energy and healing the planet, but I keep trying, although I am not sure how many more attempts I will make.

In 2004, my writings related to cover-ups were discussed in RATS:

In 2005, my writings related to my alternative energy adventures were discussed in ATS:

Then I joined the discussion. It has been a mixed bag, as those threads reveal. Attacks by people who do not even read my work (or skim it for five minutes) are not the kinds of responses that I am looking for. Such responses are common when I engage general public forums, which is why I rarely do it anymore. My site is comprised of 1,200 pages of multi-disciplinary material that took 12,000 hours of labor to produce – not something that can be honestly analyzed in five minutes. The mindless responses aside, there have been enough honest and thoughtful responses in the ATS forums that I have kept coming back for more, and in 2006 I began a thread devoted to discussing my work:

<http://www.abovetopsecret.com/forum/thread206843/pg1>

As you can see, it is not a very active thread. Since the 1980s, I have been looking for a group that is capable of engaging the reality of the world we live in and begin to do something about it. It has been a long walk through the desert, but I keep looking for the oasis. All I am asking is that people THINK about the issues. I have been impressed with some ATS members, and I have waited to make this post until after I launched my latest attempt to interest the rad left in free energy:

I have been trying to interest them in free energy ever since I began engaging Noam Chomsky in 1992. I have not gotten very far with them so far, but I always hope. Western intellectuals usually trip over their ideological teddy bears when engaging the free energy issue, the kind that many ATS members have laid aside. The two I have seen the most often are:

1. The suppression of free energy is an unbelievable conspiracy theory:
2. The "laws of physics" preclude the possibility of free energy:

Most ATS members, by definition, should have gotten beyond that first objection, although it has amazed me to see responses in the above threads that adamantly deny that such activities exist.

Many ATS members have also gotten beyond the second objection. The best way to get past both objections is to SEEK EXPERIENCE in those realms. Armchair skepticism is of no use. For instance, the best way for people to deal with UFO skepticism is to go see one. They are easy to see:

I am dragging a bunch of people to Gilliland's Ranch again this year, with several returnees, including one of the Boeing gang.

The Big Boys know full well that the energy issue is probably the biggest leverage point over controlling humanity, which is why my partner was offered about a billion dollars back in the 1980s to cease our pursuit of free energy.

I eventually discovered that we received fairly normal treatment:

as well as what happened after my partner refused their offer:

My partner was too high profile to kill outright.

I used to be on the board of the New Energy Movement, and people in my circle have seen the goods:

Alien force about to "correct" Earth

They are coming! Quote

I am an NSA operative and have to get this off my chest. I have never ever breached my security clearance oath, but feel I must now. I do not expect many people to believe me but for those few who do please listen up! In just a matter of a few weeks, possibly two to three, a five mile long craft will enter into what many scientists in the company have confirmed will be a geodesic orbit about our planet. We have reason to believe that the visitors therein will not be of a friendly persuasion. Being highly compartmentalized, I have very limited knowledge I can add to the above seeing how most of it was leaked to me from other sources in the company, aka NSA as well as another agency too secret to even have a name known to but a handful.

Do NOT approach any alien craft that you may encounter within the next weeks and months. These visitors can be quite hostile I have been told.

Prepare for the arrival because it is near! Quote The elite have begun to settle their families into the various underground bunkers and cities in preparation for the coming events. My wife and children are secure in a secret facility in Virginia but I have friends in the company, i.e. NSA, who have settled their families into such facilities as the new world airport's underground mega-bunker in Denver. The "event" is near and stations like the science channel have been broadcasting doom scenarios recently to alert the discerning into action to save themselves and families. Stock up on food and water and get away from the shores. The coming events will be world-wide and ET connected. They have entered our solar system and are now close to our planet; thousands of the ancient ones, we have been briefed about, to bring about what has been termed "the first wave of correction". Do NOT approach any unusual aircraft that may be lurking near the ground. There is a craft that has been seen recently that has been likened to a dragon fly; this is the one that must be avoided if possible within the next weeks and months. They are the precursors and reconnaissance craft from the main ship that will ark itself in orbit 1000 miles above the earth.

I know I will not be believed but by a few enlightened and discerning individuals, but you have been warned. Most of the events will be attributed to more prosaic and mundane causes but I assure it they are not!

Once my family and myself have been secured in Virginia I will be transported via magneto graviton monorail systems to a facility in / under Australia to assist COG scientists and engineers in resisting the invaders, with technological help from visitors who have been here a long long time. Do not let superficial explanations by the media cloud what you know is really going on. There will be an abundant amount of unusual activity in the skies as thing unfold.

Good luck and peace to you all.

May God help us all.

First of all, I need help. I know how to take a picture from the web and post it here. But, I do not know how to take a personal picture I have in my files and post it here.

Recently, I was at my sister's house and managed to take a picture of what appeared to be a UFO about to fly over her house. It appeared to be hovering for a while (about 10 minutes) and then took off so fast it basically disappeared. While it was sitting still, it looked very similar to a Klingon Bird of Prey from Star Trek.

I have a picture. Can someone give me advice on how to get it from my computer files to this thread? That would be great. I would love to hear what people have to say. It is a very good picture and like no craft I have ever seen. There was no chem-trail behind it so it doesn't appear to be some kind of jet and it certainly isn't a small prop job. So, what is it and how did it just vanish??

Please help me get this picture posted here. Thank you!!

"On July 12, the second intercepted North Korean freighter was sunk in the Arabian Sea by torpedoes fired from a US submarine 100 miles southeast of the Iranian naval base-port of Chah Bahar. Delivery of its freight of enriched weapons-grade uranium and equipment and engines for manufacturing more fissile material including plutonium in its hold could have jump-forwarded Iran's nuclear bomb and warhead project, lopping off at least a year of work. For this Iran's rulers were ready to reportedly pay out a cool $500 million.

A few hours earlier, President Bush received an intelligence briefing on the vessel, its freight and destination. Apparently the shipment was brought forward by several weeks to evade detection by UN nuclear inspectors scheduled to visit Pyongyang this week to verify the dismantling of its nuclear facilities.

THEY Came from Here

Created by: UM_Gazz on July 2, flags: 16, replies: 92

While I've never been super enthusiastic about the subject of Aliens and UFOs, after having recently seen what could have been either a UFO or possibly a fast moving satellite. I have been pondering the possibilities.

To me, logic, and skepticism, have given way to speculation. What if extraterrestrials are not really extraterrestrial?

The notion that these aliens travel impossible distances, only to apparently study our world, without making any open contact, or official greetings with us, apparently on what seems to be scientific missions, is just too far fetched for me to believe.

After a venture into the Internet, to read up on abductions, encounters, videos, and comparisons of drawings of these "beings", a commonality to our human form seems undeniable, yet they seem dramatically different. Could the differences be a combination of advanced evolution, genetic manipulation, and separation of time, perhaps hundreds of thousands or even a million years or more?

To me, after doing extensive reading on the subject of aliens and UFOs first purely out of curiosity then being overwhelmed by the amount of information there is, it is hard to dismiss the existence of them, so if they exist, where do they come from? what are they really? I believe it is much more likely that these alien visitors, aren't as alien as you may think...

According to a multitude of witness accounts, stories of abductions, and sightings of UFOs it is more than apparent that they posses technologies much more advanced than anything we can yet comprehend. They seem to be very interested in human, and even animal biology... Why?

Could they actually be extremely advanced humans, not from a distant star system, or galaxy, but from right here, but not now? Perhaps the great distance they travel is TIME.

Their apparent interest in us, and our world, void of any legitimate contact with us, leans more toward the theory that they come here on scientific research missions, and even historical research missions, from the future, not from another point in space far away from here. Time travel, while perhaps impossible to us now, may be a reality in our distant future. Which seems more likely, to travel thousands or even millions of light years of space, just to study our world, or a future race of our own, highly evolved, empowered with technology, and capabilities beyond our ability to comprehend, who can traverse TIME, ultimately to study us, to study history, and to explore what is to them, a distant past?

Maybe a few have been captured, maybe, they have helped us along the way, maybe they had a hand in assisting us with some of the technologies we have now. Maybe the reason they avoid real contact and official exchanges with us is because to do so could affect their own TIME.

What if they came from here?

Could 2012 be the Year Aliens start War with Earth ???

Created by: steve-o on July 17, flags: 15, replies: 435

Everything ends up being false whether it was the 2000 scare or other prophecies claimed by others over the years. I'd like to get my fellow ATS members' opinions on what may occur or if it's all just nonsense. A friend of mine kept having nightmares of aliens attacking Earth with there ufos and had tons of motherships on reserve watchin' the battle go on. I know this is all fictional, but what if some unholy event of that nature were to occur around the year 2012. How would you react ,what would you do to stop this if you can, or what you think the government might do if this were to happen. Will they reveal all they have hid from us of alien presence on Earth over the past 20,000 years or would they alienate us and stay in their underground facilities. This is all speculation so don't target me or bash me in any way,just kiddin', everybody is invited to participate or add on their own speculations.):D:up:

Meet me at the Empire State Building

Created by: leira7 on July 20, flags: 15, replies: 130

Most of the time when I dream I know it's a dream so I tend to do things that I normally don't do in real life.

Like this one dream, I saw a man polishing his boat and I walked up to him and told him to give me money, and he just looked at me as if I was insane. For a brief second I questioned if I was actually in public because I had never seen this man before and I can usually manipulate the people in my dreams. It really made me wonder if sometimes the people I see in my dreams are possibly asleep and in the same dream as me.

So I would like to try something out just because I am curious. If any of you want to test your dreaming abilities with me and see if you are actually dreaming of real people, then come and meet me at the Empire State Building in New York City. We can set up a time and location on the building (i.e. which floor). If you actually dream of someone else, (it might be me) then just describe them. I hope this works!!!

I can't get a grasp on when this occurred but the story was just posted today. Does anyone know anything about how long these lanterns can last after they are lit and how high they can fly. Seems unlikely that they would be lanterns if this happened recently and the lanterns that the rugby team spoke of where lost this weekend. Witnesses also speak of erratic movements.

Why might "Skeptics" join ATS

Created by: cpdaman on July 6, flags: 14, replies: 137

it seems a bit off to me that there are so many skeptics here i am not referring to the person who occasionally disagree's with your view and says it is ridiculous, i am referring to the memeber who seem to have a few paticular areas of intrest (usually a sizable amount of points) and are well spoken and intent on debunking.

Does this appear odd to anyone? Why would a person with such beliefs or agenda? be drawn to a board that clearly is ant trusting of government and looks for answers outside the box. is it to surpress any kind of unity should something/someone actually piece together a real cover up despite the sea of misinformation/deflection abd quell any momentum before it gets rolling.

is it just a bunch of people who came hear searching for truth and then overtime developed a "nothing to see here, move along" beleif?

and then try to enforce this on others by persuasion (oblivous to the unique perspective that certain information in any structured society will always be kept from the public) and by knowing this these same posters demand "credible mainstream accepted media" proof of these very things which if real, would be classified and real national security issues. is it odd that none of these brilliant affluent debunkers see this angle?

any thoughts

i mean how do you get to be a moderator on a conspiracy website that doesn't leave the door open to conspiracy but states things in an absolute matter of fact, nothing to see hear, move along attitude.

maybe there is a bigger agenda here (maybe not even from the top), and maybe the bigger the lie the tougher it is to believe angle keeps the lid on this one.

Now Crop Circles In 3-D! And Alien Faces Too!

The latest 3-D crop circle was discovered in a wheat field at Silbury Hill, Wiltshire, southern England, which shows a floor of checkered tiles stretching down a long, high-ceiling corridor with doors leading off each side.

But the world's first three-dimensional crop circle was discovered deep in the English countryside in a wheat field in Oxfordshire. Experts have been left in awe of the intricacy of the latest sighting, which is 360-feet in diameter. The formation gives an impression of looking down on skyscrapers from above and was only spotted by a microlite pilot last July.

CARET/Drones Debunked? – A “viral” fantasy

CARET/Drones Debunked? – A “viral” fantasy part 1

My dearest fellow ATS brothers and sisters: You are the best and brightest of all truth-seekers. Your intellect and skills of observation are unparalleled in the web-universe of Planet Earth – and those special characteristics are now being taken flagrant advantage of – and have been for months.

We have been taken for a ride of unbelievable proportions. (links removed, visit the thread for external references), and, I believe, hits the nail squarely on the head. It is part one of a two part article written by Colin Bennett of The New Fortean Times out of London, England. Mr. Bennett has exposed the viral idiosyncrasies of the CARET/Drone enigma.

He refers to the saga as a version of "meme" psychology. To what end has yet to be determined, but the distinction to such early version campaigns such as the SERPO story is not lost. Pay particular attention to the "6 Steps of the CHAD Programme" at the end of the document. Very enlightening – and perhaps a bit disheartening as well.

I implore anyone who has a passing (or intimate) interest in the allegory of the Isaac/CARET/Chad Drone topic(s) circumnavigating this Earth to take a few minutes now and read:.

If you have any trouble downloading the .pdf, or simply wish to check Colin Bennett's site, you can go (links removed, visit the thread for external references). The "Meme Wars" excerpt about the CARET/Chad Drones is a few scrolls down the page.

Webster:

/meem/ n. [coined by analogy with `gene', by Richard Dawkins] An idea considered as a replicator, esp. with the connotation that memes parasitize people into propagating them much as viruses do. Used esp. in the phrase `meme complex' denoting a group of mutually supporting memes that form an organized belief system, such as a religion. This lexicon is an (epidemiological) vector of the `hacker subculture' meme complex; each entry might be considered a meme. However, `meme' is often misused to mean `meme complex'. Use of the term connotes acceptance of the idea that in humans (and presumably other tool- and language-using sophonts) cultural evolution by selection of adaptive ideas has superseded biological evolution by selection of hereditary traits. Hackers find this idea congenial for tolerably obvious reasons."

Well – after reading this – anyone else feel we're being duped?

Note: This is not a CGI/not CGI thread. It is specifically to discuss the merits of the "Bennett Meme Theory" as described above. Further to mods: This didn't seem to fit the "explanation" thread (Chad as Isaac), or the "smoking gun" thread (Halo3), etc. – but feel free to redirect as you may see fit.

Classified Antigravity Craft Using Back-Engineered ET Technology?

Created by: mikesingh on July 13, flags: 13, replies: 104

Here's an article written by Richard Boylan, Ph.D, I was reading the other day which was pretty interesting. Now I'm not sure what to make of it. How credible is he? Some of what he's written has been corroborated by others. But probably mixing fact with fiction raises the credibility factor some.

Have we developed these craft using alien technology? All this may seem to be in the realm of science fiction. But what are those black projects where billions of dollars have been spent? Making paper planes? And then, according to 'insiders' the science and technology at these projects are at least half a century ahead of mainstream physics! And this can only be possible by back-engineering alien technology. A quantum leap which otherwise would have taken decades to achieve.

For those who don't have the patience to go through the entire article, here are the main points...What do you think?

The Aurora SR-33A. A moderate-sized space-faring vehicle. The late National Security Council scientist Dr. Michael Wolf of NSC's unacknowledged Special Studies Group subcommittee, (formerly called MJ-12), has stated that the Aurora can operate on both conventional fuel and anti-gravity field propulsion systems. He further stated that the Aurora can travel to the Moon. Wolf had also disclosed that the U.S. has a small station on the Moon, and a tiny observation post on Mars. It is doubtful that Dr. Wolf would characterize the Aurora thus, unless it was a vessel already used in making such trips. He disclosed additionally that the Aurora operates out of Area 51, (Groom Dry Lake Air Force Station), at the northeast corner of the Nellis AFB Range, north of Las Vegas, Nevada.

The Lockheed-Martin X-33A. This military spaceplane is a prototype of Lockheed's other spaceplane, the single-stage-to-orbit reusable aerospace vehicle, the National SpacePlane . Lockheed-Martin does not say too much about its winged, delta-shape X-33 VentureStar, except to say that it is being built. The 'A' suffix stands for anti-gravity.

Colonel Donald Ware, USAF (ret.) said that he had recently learned from a three-star General that the VentureStar X-33 has an electrogravitics (anti-gravity) system on board. This virtually assures that the unacknowledged military anti-gravity version, the X-33 A, must surely also have electrogravitics on board. It is possible that what he has called the X-33A is the Aurora craft which Dr. Wolf described.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

Why this arsenal? Will America use this growing anti-gravity fleet to try to repel extra terrestrials in a Space War? As per Dr Boylan, elements within the U.S. Air Force and the Naval Space Command are most likely making preparations for it.

Now could Russian black projects be far behind? Or is there a secret pact for joint collaboration?

P.S. For those interested in the realm of esoteric physics, here's an interesting web site of Los Alamos National Laboratory. Much of the theory and experimentation has probably been translated to practical usage.

Bush Will Commute Libby's Sentence

Created by: GradyPhilpott on July 2, flags: 13, replies: 86

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

"President Bush commuted the sentence of former aide I. Lewis "Scooter" Libby Monday, sparing him from a 2 1/2-year prison term in the CIA leak case. Bush left intact a $250,000 fine and two years probation for Libby, according to a senior White House official, who spoke on condition of anonymity because the decision had not been announced.

Bush's move came hours after a federal appeals panel ruled Libby could not delay his prison term in the CIA leak case. That decision put the pressure on the president, who had been sidestepping calls by Libby's allies to pardon the former chief of staff to Vice President Dick Cheney.

2012 Pole Shift survival guide

Created by: RickinVa on July 6, flags: 13, replies: 128

Could there possibly be such a thing...

lets make the following assumptions:

On Dec 21 2012, the earth will slip on it axis causing many continents to move hundreds of miles in virtually a second. Many plates will fall, some thousands of feet while yet others will rise.

I see no viable way to even begin to calculate where would be a safe place to head too, given the event were to occur.

Common sense would tell me that Denver Colorado and the surrounding area (if you are in the US) would offer your best chances of survival, should you even want to face what would follow.

Imagine the crust under New York City dropping 2,000 feet in a second.

Millions of people would instantly free fall 2,000 feet to impact the sunken ground, if they would even have time to hit before the water rushed in and flooded the area.

This is one nasty scenario people..... as nasty as they come

Only forum I could think of for this one.... move it elsewhere if there is a better forum.

Lets settle this "UK is a Police State" rubbish, right now..

Created by: stumason on July 14, flags: 13, replies: 262

It has been (repeatedly) said on ATS that the UK is a Police State.

Mostly by Americans (although this is not the rule, it is most definitely the overwhelming majority) and mostly using inaccurate information, or in some cases, completely fabricated lies.

In many cases, the main proponents of this attempt to portray the UK in this way also seem to be bible-bashers who believe in some "Anti-Christ" or NWO conspiracy, which only further muddies the waters of reason and logic.

They also are under the delusion that the UK is a "test bed" for the US and all part of an evil conspiracy to enslave mankind, but they can't test it on the good ol'Americans first, as they're too good for it..... I mean, how arrogant is it to assume that?

Many, many UK posters try to explain why it is not, but the message does not seem to get through, or we end up derailing another thread with this tit-for-tat argument. So, I decided to make a thread dedicated to the whole plethora of "Police State" accusations.

So, in the spirit of freedom of speech and to stop other threads being derailed, as it seems to be a recurring theme, I open the floor to one and all to discuss whether this notion of "Police State" is real, or as I believe, the product of overly paranoid and ill-informed Americans who wouldn't know a Police State if it came up and smacked them on the arse.....

Bring it on....

Who am I really? A Search for Self

Created by: biggie smalls on July 16, flags: 13, replies: 63

No really, who are you?

You are given a name at birth by your parents and the freedom to change your name when you are of legal age.

But what is in a name?

Is this who you truly are?

Am I Gavin because this is the name I was given at birth?

Who is Gavin?

Do I behave differently because of the name I was given?

I would say yes and no. Our perceptions differ because we respond to different calls.

I won't answer when someone calls me 'Joe' or 'Bob'. That is not my 'name.'

But are we really just the name?

Or are we something more, or less?

Who are you?

Why are you here?

What am I supposed to do?

These are things I ask myself on a typically daily basis.

I search for my Self every day, whenever I can.

While at work, while at home, while driving (maybe not the best idea, but I am an experienced driver :)) I think.

I think of what I can be, what I'm supposed to be.

You can be whatever or whoever you want to, but it has to be your Self.

If you fake your Self and pretend to be someone else, your whole life is lived in vain.

No matter what decisions you make, make it your own.

Don't listen to me, your parents, your preacher, a book. Listen to your Self.

Ask your Self questions, and you will find the answers.

I am not a teacher, I am a student.

We are all students in life, and everyone is a teacher to someone else.

Perhaps you will be my teacher and I shall learn from you. We can all teach, if we share our incites.

I am this, I am that, I can be whatever I choose to be.

But that's it, a choice. You must choose.

That is what the search for Self is. Choosing who you want to be, where you want to go, and how you will get there.

The destination is all the same, and there is but one path, but that path can be walked in many ways.

I am who I am.

'We are Spirits having a human awakening.'

UFO Underground Base in the Chinese - Indian Border

Created by: AryanWatch on July 23, flags: 13, replies: 82

I have come across this interesting information today. Would like to verify this with ATS members about it's authenticity. Looks very interesting though. Is it really possible that something like this is going on in the Indi - Chinese border without the information of the outside world? Will it have some implications in the long run (if it's true)?

"Kongka La is the low ridge pass in the Himalayas (the blue oval in the map). It is in the disputed India-China border area in Ladakh. In the map the red zone is the disputed area still under Chinese control in the Aksai Chin area. The Chinese held northeastern part is known as Aksai Chin and Indian South West is known as Ladakh. This was where Indian and Chinese army fought major war in 1962. The area is one of the least accessed area in the world and by agreement the two countries do not patrol that part of the border.

According to many tourists, Buddhist monks and the local people of Ladakh, Indian Army and Chinese Military maintain the line of control. But there is something much more serious happening in this area."

Cheney Determined To Strike In US With Weapons of WMD This Summer

Created by: dgtempe on July 22, flags: 13, replies: 169

Only Impeachment, Removal or General Strike Can Stop Him

The greatest threat now is "a 9/11 occurring with a group of terrorists armed not with airline tickets and box cutters, but with a nuclear weapon in the middle of one of our own cities."

-- Dick Cheney on Face the Nation, CBS, April 15, 2007

'The balance in the internal White House debate over Iran has shifted back in favour of military action before President George Bush leaves office in 18 months, the Guardian has learned. The shift follows an internal review involving the White House, the Pentagon and the state department over the last month. Although the Bush administration is in deep trouble over Iraq, it remains focused on Iran. A well-placed source in Washington said: "Bush is not going to leave office with Iran still in limbo." at a meeting of the White House, Pentagon and state department last month, Mr Cheney expressed frustration at the lack of progress and Mr Bush sided with him. "The balance has tilted. There is cause for concern," the source said this week. "Cheney has limited capital left, but if he wanted to use all his capital on this one issue, he could still have an impact," said Patrick Cronin, the director of studies at the International Institute for Strategic Studies.' ("Cheney pushes Bush to act on Iran; Military solution back in favour as Rice loses out; President 'not prepared to leave conflict unresolved'", Guardian, July 16, 2007.)

Deluded supporters of the Democratic Party may soon have to throw away their pathetic countdown clocks, those self-consoling little devices that remind them of how much time remains until noon on January 20, 2009, the moment when it is thought that Bush will finally leave office. These countdown clocks make no provision for the Cheney doctrine, which calls for a new super 9/11 with weapons of mass destruction in the US, to be used as the pretext for a nuclear attack on Iran and for martial law at home. Those who think the Republicans cannot hold the White House in 2008 have forgotten that neocons always prefer a coup d'etat to an election. As Cheney told Bob Schieffer of CBS's Face the Nation on April 15, 2007:

"The greatest threat now is "a 9/11 occurring with a group of terrorists armed not with airline tickets and box cutters, but with a nuclear weapon in the middle of one of our own cities."

This was on the news today here in Romania, a UFO over Ceahlau mountain, good images, for sure it's not a plane, a helicopter or anything else :

It looks like 2 halves of a circle with a space between them :)

The one who filmed it says that he saw them united as a point of light, only when he looked trough the camera it showed 2 halves

After the first object descended over the mountain, a second smaller object came up from behind the mountain

Help! I Know the Truth!!!

Created by: Scyman on July 30, flags: 13, replies: 185

First of all I just want to say this is an incredible hard thread for me to write. Before I get to my point let me tell you a little bit about me so you know where the information is coming from.

I have been a member at ATS for a few years now, I dont always get to post as much as I want to, especially when I joined the Navy last July but, I'm a fan of this site for life. I can say this last year in the Navy has been filled with lots of excitement and I dont think i would trade it for anything. (even more time to post here at ATS ;))

Anyways, that being said I know what I want to come forward with here is going to be extremley controversial. Now let me apologize for asking this question I have tried searching without anyluck before I started this thread... Has anyone from the Military or any other government organization came forward on this site with what they claimed was the TRUTH about 9/11?? I understand thats a broad question and everyone thinks they have an idea, but has anyone claiming to have or to have at one time held a Top Secret clearence came forward here before?

Also I know this could possibly be putting me in some type of risk... Could someone with some actually knowledge help me out in kind of walking me through how I might safely enlighten the public about some of the information I have obtained in my so far short stint with the military.

I know my thread title is a big claim and many here may not believe me...(but to me thats a good thing we always have to be scepticle (s/p??) especially on a site like this)

JUST HYPOTHETICALLY speaking what if one knew something that was classified and leaked out info on a site like this what would happen theoritically? how can one safely go about this? anyone? a little help?

(I also just re-read the thread sorry a grammatical nightmare, also poor spelling)

Laser printers secretly spy on you!

Created by: nerbot on July 13, flags: 12, replies: 37

"When you print on a color laser printer, it's likely that you are also printing a pattern of invisible yellow dots. These marks exist to allow the printer companies and governments to track and identify you -- presumably as a way to combat money counterfeiting. When one person asked his printer manufacturer about turning off the tracking dots, Secret Service agents showed up at his door several days later.

Upset? You should be!

The only thing worse than tracking dots in people's print outs are tracking dots in their print outs that they don't even know about it.

(links removed, visit the thread for external references)

Well I'll be.....o

This is a shocking find to say the least, not sure how many of you feel about "big brother" knowing what you print and when.

Try a test.....a blue LED light used in the dark should show any yellow dots on a printed page (I imagine any simple, small, colour pic will suffice).

I don't have an LED, so can't do this now. Let me know if you get any results eh.

So...as a real believer that tracking and surveillance is more "ingrain" than we are led to believe, I just don't know what to trust these days. :puz:

Is there still such a thing as privacy and free speech anymore, or is it just another part of the big deception by the man behind the curtain?

It makes me SO mad.....mad:

Created by: donwhite on July 18, flags: 12, replies: 1089

The Democrat's Convention is to be held in St. Paul, MN, August 25 to August 28.

Here is how the Democratic Party's nomination will be decided. I have made a list by date of the primaries and caucuses to be held early. I may have overlooked your state, or an important state, but that was accidental and not intentional.

The convention will have 4,360 voting delegates. In the past some smaller states have used half-voting delegates to increase their number of attendees, but I have not heard if that will be allowed in 2008. 2,181 votes are needed to win the nomination.

The race for the White House traditionally kicks off in Iowa with its famous caucuses held in each of its 5 congressional districts at the same time.

Iowa, January 14, 2008. 56 delegates to choose.

Nevada, January 19, 2008. Caucuses choose 33 delegates.

New Hampshire. January 22, 2008. The first primary chooses 30 delegates.

Florida and South Carolina. January 29, 2008. Primaries. FL chooses 210 delegates, SC picks 54.

February 5, 2008, is the Super Tuesday for Democrats. California, 440 delegates, the largest bloc.

New York, 280 delegates.

Illinois, 185 delegates.

Georgia, 105 delegates.

Colorado, 71 delegates.

Arizona, 67 delegates. And

New Mexico, 36 delegates.

Michigan and Washington state vote on February 9, 2008. MI has 157 votes and WA 97.

Maine votes on February 10, 2008, to pick 34 votes. See Foot Note.

Virginia votes on February 12, 2008, George Washington's birthday.

103 delegates to choose.

Texas, another big state, votes on March 4, 2008. 228 delegates.

Ohio, also voting picks 161 delegates.

Massachusetts, 120 votes. And Vermont. Also on March 4, 2008. has 23 delegates. See Foot Note.

Pennsylvania, April 22, 2008, 181 votes.

West "By God" Virginia, May 6, 2008, 37 votes.

North Carolina, also May 6, 2008, has 110 delegates.

Kentucky and Oregon, May 20, 2008, KY 55 votes. OR 62 votes.

Puerto Rico, on June 1, 2008, chooses 58 delegates.

Other states select delegates after June 1.

The foregoing states choose a combined 3,053 delegates, more than enough to win.

Dates and number of delegates from: www.thegreenpapers.com/P08/

Foot Note. The country's voters turned to the Democrats and FDR in 1932. By 1936, the New Deal had been in place nearly 4 years and it was very popular with the voters. James Farley, FDR's Postmaster General, was picked by FDR to again run his reelection campaign. Since the 1840s, Maine had voted for its local offices early, in September. Bad weather and crops to harvest gave the Down East'ers little time for politics in the fall.

Maine's voters had proven to be a bellwether for the nation, most often showing the way the fall election would go. In 1936, Maine went Republican in September, which prompted many wags to predict the Dems would be put out of office come November. When asked about this bad omen Farley said, "As Maine goes, so goes Vermont." As it turned out, FDR carried all of the 48 states except Maine and Vermont, confirming Farley's prediction.

Selective Morality - Zimbabwe Crisis

Created by: Lady of the Lake on July 21, flags: 12, replies: 33

Whilst we posture unabated regards Bush invading Iraq the madman of Zimbabwe, Robert Mugabe carries on with nary a word from the morale majority. Silence...

His latest plot to rape, pillage and plunder his country is to force, yes force retailers to discount their prices. This has only served to open the floodgates to 'government lackey' looters.

One shoe retail outlet in Harare, was issued with a new price list that meant they were required to discount their prices by in excess of 150 percent. They were stunned to see a massive crowd milling around their shop before opening. The crowd consisted of government relatives and cronies who obviously had been informed in advance about the raid, and they cleared the shop within hours.

Fuel stations and supermarkets have also been forced to cut their prices below what they have paid for the goods in the first place. Result - fuel stations have dried up the public transport system has ground to a halt, supermarkets are empty and owners cannot replace stock.

Petrol stations owners were forced to cut petrol and diesel prices from ZW$160,000 per litre to ZW$60,000 per litre. In case you are not aware the real value of ZW$160,000 is equal to US$653.248 on the open currency exchange.

Businesses are closing and people are starving. Only the big retail players remain open, stocking only petty products but thousands of people can not afford to buy their goods anyway. The government has promised to take-over all companies that fail to increase production or to cut their prices to the level set by this disgusting and despotic government.

Where are the leaders of the so called free word? Have you heard them speaking out? Have you heard the civil libertarians speaking out? No you have not? They are all on their soapbox sprouting on and on about illegal immigrants, about why we should remain in Iraq etc, on and on about fighting terrorism. Why do they remain silent about the decimation of the Zimbabwean peoples? They are very selective in their outrage and this is truly shameful.

Whilst we standby and say nothing these poor people are dying...as I have stated shameful..
